Introduction

Note: This introduction to Info Source is in large print to assist persons with visual disabilities.

About Info Source

This book, Info Source (Sources of Federal Government Information), will make it fast and easy for you to find out about the Government of Canada, its organization and its information holdings. It will help you determine where you should go, write or call to make government enquiries, and is likely to be the first and only step you'll need to take to locate the source of the information you want.

The Info Source book is also the key to learning how to exercise your rights under two Canadian laws – the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act. This Introduction tells you what you need to know to request information under that legislation.

First, however, it is helpful for you to understand the basic differences between the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act. Because the information contained under each Act is different and there are different procedures to obtain it, the following pages describe the essential details.

Info Source combines and replaces the Access Register and the Index to Personal Information, two publications you might have seen or used before.

The annual edition of Info Source is complemented by update bulletins which are issued twice a year.

Inside Info Source

The Info Source book has three main components:

Table of Contents

The Table of Contents is organized alphabetically by the commonly used name of the department or agency, such as Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada or Health Canada, rather than by their legal titles, Department of Agriculture and Agri-Food or Department of Health.

Introduction

The Introduction includes:

- information about the terms used throughout the book, some essential points about the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act, and directions on how to go about locating information by using Info Sourceor by making a formal request under either Act;
- an index of Access to Information and Privacy Coordinators, which is organized in the same order as the Table of Contents, and gives you the address and telephone number of all Access to Information and Privacy offices; and
- the description of the Standard Program Records. This is a category of records of an administrative nature which have been standardized across the government.

Chapters

There is one chapter for each federal government department or agency subject to the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act, or to the Privacy Act only.

Except for the institutions subject to the Privacy Act only, each chapter contains:

General Information about the institution, including:

- Background
- Responsibilities
- Legislation
- Organization

Information Holdings including:

- Program Records
- Standard Program Records
- Personal Information Banks

- Classes of Personal Information
- Manuals

Additional Information including:

- Address of a central information source, as well as regional addresses, if any
- Reading Room(s)

Useful terms

Access to Information and Privacy Coordinator Each federal government department or agency has an Access to Information and Privacy Coordinator. The Coordinator's Office is staffed by people who can answer questions and help you identify the records you wish to see. The Coordinators may be contacted in person, by telephone or by letter. If you send a letter, include as much information as you can to help the staff locate the records you want and send you a reply as soon as possible.

Classes of Personal Information Other personal information not used administratively or not retrievable by personal identifier, for instance unsolicited opinions, complaints or correspondence, is described under "Classes of Personal Information". This category was included to ensure that government departments and agencies account for all personal information which they hold.

Manuals The manuals listed under this title contain the directives, instructions, guidelines or procedures which are used by the employees of a department or agency to carry out its operations, activities or programs.

Personal Information Banks Personal Information Banks provide a summary of the type of information about individuals which is held by federal departments and agencies. The Privacy Act requires that Personal Information Banks include all personal information that is organized and retrievable by a person's name or by an identifying number, symbol or other particular assigned only to that person. Personal Information Banks must also include personal information which has been or is being used, or is available for use for an administrative purpose.

Personal Information Banks – Federal Employees The Personal Information Banks for Government of Canada employees are now described in a separate publication, Info Source (Sources of Federal Employee Information). This book will be available in the office of the Access to Information and Privacy Coordinator at each federal government department or agency, federal government personnel offices and federal libraries.

Program Records The Program Records provide pointers to program information held by each federal government department and agency, and describe the subject areas covered by these programs.

Program Record Number or Bank Number The Program Record Number or the Bank Number you see at the end of each Program Record or Personal Information Bank helps the Access to Information and Privacy office to locate the information you require.

Reading Room The Access to Information Act requires all government institutions to provide facilities where their manuals can be inspected. The location of one or more reading rooms is provided under this heading.

Standard Program Records Many departments and agencies use Standard Program Records to list information on administrative subject areas which are common to many institutions, for example Accounts and Accounting, Budgets, Buildings, etc.

Access to Information Act

The Access to Information Act gives Canadian citizens as well as people and corporations present in Canada the right to have access to federal government records that are not of a personal nature. The Act complements but does not replace other procedures for obtaining government information. It is not intended to limit in any way the access to government information that is normally available to the public upon request.

Wide range of information

You can ask for information, no matter what form it is in, including letters, memos, reports, photographs, films, microfilms and computerized data. This Info Source book has been designed to help you pinpoint the department or agency where the information is held and assists you in obtaining it.

Using the Access to Information Act

Some information may be exempt or excluded under the Act.

- Exemptions: Exemptions protect certain types of information that could cause harm if released. For example, some information on national security, law enforcement or trade secrets falls into this category.
- Exclusions: The Access to Information Act does not apply to public information that is already available, such as publications and material in libraries and museums. It also excludes material such as Cabinet documents. Of course, the Act cannot give you access to records that are not controlled by the federal government, such as those maintained by provincial or municipal governments or by private organizations such as commercial banks and credit bureaus.

How to apply

Once you have decided to make a formal request under the Access to Information Act, there are certain simple procedures to follow:

- Consult Info Source to find the appropriate department or agency.
- Obtain an Access to Information Request Form from any location where Info Source is available.
- If it is not convenient for you to fill in a form, you may send a letter, mentioning the Act (see details below).
- Enclose the application fee (see details below).
- Send the form or the letter to the Access to Information Coordinator at the appropriate department or agency.

If you decide to submit a letter, you must state clearly that you are requesting information under the Access to Information Act, and include the following:

- name of the government department or agency you believe has the information you want;
- description (be as specific as possible) of the records you want to see;
- preferred method of seeing the records (e.g., do you want to receive photocopies of the original documents or see the originals in the government office where they are located?);
- your name, street, address, city or town, province or territory, postal code, telephone number(s) and your signature;
- date of your request;
- application fee.

Fees and costs An application fee of $5 (subject to change) applies and additional costs may be charged for each request. You will be notified in advance if there are additional costs and you may be asked to make a deposit.

Turnaround time Government departments must acknowledge your request under the Access to Information Act within 30 days. However, in special cases, they may need more time to process your request. If you feel it's taking too long, you can complain to the Information Commissioner.

Information Commissioner
The Information Commissioner investigates formal complaints from members of the public arising from the Access to Information Act. If you have a complaint about the denial of access to information, fees charged for access, the time taken to respond to requests, refusal to give access in the official language requested, the Info Source book (as well as the Info Source computer database) and other matters that relate to requesting or obtaining access to records, you may contact the office of the Information Commissioner at:

Place de Ville, Tower B
112 Kent Street, 3rd Floor
Ottawa, Ontario
K1A 1H3

Telephone: 995-2410 (Ottawa-Hull)

1-800-267-0441 (national toll free number)

When the Information Commissioner's investigation is complete, an individual who is of the opinion that they have not been given access to all their personal information to which they are entitled has the right to apply to the Federal Court – Trial Division for a review of the matter.

Privacy Act

In its day-to-day operations, federal government departments and agencies collect personal information from almost all Canadians. The Privacy Act gives Canadian citizens and people present in Canada the right to have access to information that is held about them by the federal government. It also protects against unauthorized disclosure of personal information. In addition, it strictly controls how the government will collect, use, store, disclose and dispose of any personal information.

Most information available when you ask Because much of your personal information is available to you informally at your request, this Info Source book has been designed to help you pinpoint the department or agency where the information is held and assist you in obtaining it.

Types of personal information held You probably already know about many of the programs and operations of the government that use personal information such as income tax at Revenue Canada, pension and family allowance payments at Health and Welfare Canada and the unemployment insurance program at Employment and Immigration Canada.

Some personal information is confidential The federal government must keep some personal information confidential under the Privacy Act, much of which relates to other people, national security or law enforcement.

How to apply

When you have decided to make a formal request under the Privacy Act, there are certain procedures to follow. Remember, you will find what you are looking for faster if you already have a good idea of which department or agency has the information you want.

- Obtain a Personal Information Request Form at any location where Info Source is available.
- Fill out the form and identify yourself in such as way that the government can verify who you are, i.e. that it is you, and not someone else, asking for your information. The more precise the information you provide, the faster your request can be answered.
- Send the form to the Privacy Coordinator of the appropriate department or agency.
- There is no charge to apply for information under the Privacy Act.

To change the information If you believe the information which a federal institution has on file about you is untrue or misleading, you can ask to have it corrected. Even if the department or agency does not agree to change this information, it must make a note that you have asked for the change and attach it to the file.

Safeguarding personal information The protection of your personal information and privacy is also a very important purpose of the Privacy Act. The Act states how and when the government can collect, store and dispose of personal information. It also covers specifically why and how the information can be used or given out, as well as who can use or receive it.

Giving out information The government can only disclose your information to someone else with your consent or when one or more of the criteria in the Privacy Act are met, such as to comply with a subpoena.

Turnaround time Under the law, all or most of the information you ask for should be disclosed within 30 days of receiving the request. If a time extension is required, you will be notified within the first 30 days and told why up to another 30 days may be needed.

Privacy Commissioner

The Privacy Commissioner is a representative of the people with the power to look into complaints of improper collection, use, storage, disclosure or disposal of personal information. The Privacy Commissioner can also help if you are dissatisfied with the results of your formal application or the time it has taken to see your personal information.

When the Privacy Commissioner's investigation is complete, an individual who is of the opinion that they have not been given access to all of their personal information to which they are entitled has the right to apply to the Federal Court – Trial Division.

You can write or call the Privacy Commissioner's office at:
Place de Ville, Tower B
Ottawa, Ontario K1A 1H3

Telephone: 995-2410 in Ottawa-Hull

1-800-267-0441 (national toll free number)

Using Info Source quickly and effectively

Determine the correct chapter Turn to the chapter on the department or agency you think has the information, and check the Program Records and the Personal Information Banks.

If you are unsure about the correct department or agency, a telephone call or letter to any Access to Information and Privacy Coordinator's office should provide the answer.

For persons with disabilities: Individuals who are unable to exercise their rights using regular procedures may obtain further assistance from any Access to Information and Privacy Coordinator's office.

Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada
Chapter 1

General Information

Background

The Department of Agriculture and Agri-Food was established in 1867, the year of Confederation, by an act of Parliament. The formation of the Experimental Farms System followed in 1886 and a Dairy Commissioner was appointed in 1890.

The aim of the Department of Agriculture and Agri-Food is to develop and assist the Canadian agriculture and food system to provide for the needs of Canadian consumers and export markets in a manner which ensures a dependable supply of safe, nutritious food at reasonable prices; to ensure equitable returns to producers, processors and marketers; and to meet Canadian food and technological aid commitments to international development.

The Minister of Agriculture and Agri-Food, the Department and agencies administer 45 acts concerning food and agriculture industries. The activities of the Department extend from the farmer to the consumer, through all phases of production, processing and marketing of crops and livestock. The Department also assists farmers through crop insurance, price stabilization and agricultural adjustment programs to alleviate losses caused by the weather, changing markets and certain other hazards. While the collection and use of personal information is necessary for the performance of most activities, it is especially important for the following activities: research; regulation and licensing of imports and exports of livestock and plant products; control and eradication of animal diseases; and administration of the various loan and subsidy programs.

Responsibilities

The mandate of the Department of Agriculture and Agri-Food is to promote the growth, stability and competitiveness of the agri-food sector through policies, programs and services most appropriately provided by the federal government to assist the sectors to maximize their real contribution to the Canadian economy. The Department's responsibilities embrace most aspects of the agricultural industry. It carries out research into the physical and economic problems of agriculture; inspects and grades farm products; and carries out programs aimed at keeping our crops and livestock safe from disease and insect pests. The Department enforces laws governing the sales of feed, fertilizers and pesticides; and assists farmers through measures such as price stabilization and crop insurance. It also provides consumer-oriented food advisory services and supervises race track betting.

Legislation

The Minister of Agriculture and Agri-Food is solely responsible to Parliament for the following legislation:

- Advance Payments for Crops Act
- Agricultural Products Board Act
- Agricultural Products Co-operative Marketing Act
- Agricultural Products Marketing Act
- Animal Pedigree Act

The Minister of Agriculture and Agri-Food shares responsibility to Parliament for the following legislation:

- Criminal Code, Section 204 (Minister of Justice and Attorney General of Canada)
- Department of External Affairs Act, Section 11(2)(e) (Secretary of State for External Affairs)

Organization

■ Departmental Secretariat

The Secretariat is responsible for the correspondence, briefing and activity scheduling systems for the Minister, Deputy Minister and Associate Deputy Minister, for tracking and reporting on major current issues of concern to the Department, for Parliamentary Relations, and for providing secretariat services to the Departmental Management Committee and the Executive Committee of the Department.

■ Corporate Services Branch

This Branch assists operating branches in achieving efficient, effective and economical delivery of departmental programs through provision of administrative and financial systems, consulting and library services, informatics services and standards to the Departmental Programs. The Corporate Services Branch, through corporate, branch and regional units, assists all management and operational elements in the Department in fulfilling their responsibilities for program delivery. It provides assistance, interpretation and direction to operational branches to ensure that central agency and parliamentary requirements are met.

■ Audit and Evaluation Branch

This Branch provides senior management with accurate, objective and timely information and advice on program effectiveness, efficiency and relevance. The principal activities of this Branch include: developing corporate policies for the audit and evaluation functions, developing annual and long-range plans and schedules for audit and evaluation, and conducting internal audits and program evaluations of departmental programs and operations on a cyclical basis.

■ Communications Branch

The primary purpose of this branch is to provide communications services such as research, media analysis, advice and planning, and communications management to the department. The branch also handles inquiries about Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada and the Canadian agri-food industry.

■ Human Resources Branch

This Branch assists all departmental managers in obtaining and maximizing the use of their human resources through guidance, advice and service relating to human resource matters. The Human Resources Branch develops and administers human resources policies and programs and provides staff training and other related services for a staff of over 13,000 employees of the Department, at various locations across Canada.

■ Food Production and Inspection Branch

This Branch consists of the Animal and Plant Health Directorate, the Food Inspection Directorate, the Pesticides Directorate, the Management Strategies and Priorities Directorate, the Agri-Food Safety and Strategies Division and the Race Track Division. This Branch protects the health of the Canadian plant and animal resource base; maintains and improves the marketability of agricultural and forest products; protects the wagering public at race tracks and assists in maintaining a viable racing industry.

■ Research Branch

This Branch provides new knowledge and improved technology to ensure the efficient production of an adequate supply of safe and nutritious food, a stable and profitable agriculture and food industry, and a judicious use of natural resources essential to Canadian agriculture in order to improve the long-term marketability of Canadian agricultural products. The Branch also provides support to other branches, departments and agencies in activities of national concern in the agricultural and food sector, and assistance to international research programs of less developed countries.

■ Policy Branch

Policy Branch is the departmental organization that provides the focus for the development and coordination of policies, strategies and programs consistent with government objectives for the agri-food sector within the overall economy.

The goal of the Branch is to: integrate federal efforts (in consultation with other program branches of Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada, federal departments, provincial governments and the agri-food industry) in farm development, farm finance, income, production and market risk, agricultural adjustment, and commodity policies; to develop sectoral commodity strategies and market outlooks; to coordinate strategy and policy planning in the Department; and to support other departmental activities by providing economic analysis and data, commodity information and policy support. This is carried out through the sub-activities of Policy Analysis and Evaluation, Economic Research and Analysis and Policy Coordination.

Policy Analysis and Evaluation develops policy options for the Department, analyses economic factors that affect the performance of the agri-food sector, ensures policy impacts are environmentally sustainable, and establishes strategic directions to guide the Department's operational activities.

Economic Research and Analysis provides short, medium and long-term forecasts of economic activity in the agri-food sector linked to the external economic environment and trade for use in policy evaluation.

Policy Coordination integrates economic and social developments and overall government objectives into the policy planning and development processes.

■ Farm Financial Programs Branch

Farm Financial Programs is a business centre for managing the federal partnership role in supporting farm income. The Branch is involved in the negotiation of agreements, the guarantee of loans and the development and monitoring of programs. To carry out this role, the Branch negotiates farm income support agreements with the provinces and producer organizations. Federal/provincial agreements are carried out under the Gross Revenue Insurance Plan, the National Tripartite Stabilization Program, and the Crop Insurance Program; all of which fall under the authority of the Farm Income Protection Act. Federal agreements with producer-organizations are arranged under the Advance Payments for Crops Act, the Agricultural Products Cooperative Marketing Act and the Farm Improvement and Marketing Cooperatives Loans Act. This set of programs offers protection against market, production and revenue risks, guided by the principles of partnership, protection and reliability. To ensure that the agreements are effective, the Branch has development, monitoring and evaluation programs in place. This ensures the agreements result in actuarially sound programs which meet the changing needs of a dynamic industry.

■ Market and Industry Services Branch

The Market and Industry Services Branch plans, develops and implements commodity strategies and programs in support of the agri-food sector; contributes significantly to strengthening our regions and rural communities, farm management skills and processing sector, and expanding environmental efforts. The Branch is accountable for the development and management of domestic and international programs which assist Canada's agri-food industry to improve its competitiveness and to adjust to change. It is comprised of 15 main responsibility centres – five headquartered in the National Capital Region and 10 regional offices located in each province. At headquarters, the International Programs Directorate plans and coordinates Canada's involvement in multilateral food and agricultural organizations, in bilateral relations with other countries on agri-food matters in overseas development assistance and works with the Canadian agri-food industry to develop international markets. The Commodity and Food Industry Directorate is accountable for the development and coordination of commodity strategies and provides a national focus for the management of development programs designed to improve the performance and competitiveness of the agri-food sector from production to consumption. The National Programs Directorate monitors, coordinates and/or delivers agri-food development and adjustment programs including the Canadian Agri-Food Development Initiative, Farm Debt Review Boards, Canadian Rural Transition Program, Farm Management Initiative, Fairs and Exhibitions Program, Animal Pedigree Act, Agricultural Products Marketing Act, and several programs related to sustainable agriculture. The Strategics Planning and Policy Coordination Division coordinates Branch strategic planning and policy activities and feeds into the departmental strategic planning process. The Management Services Division provides support and advice related to operational planning, resource management, human resources training and development, information systems and general administration. In the regions, the ten regional offices are accountable for the implementation of regionally-based Branch programs and coordinate departmental approaches within each province. Two Regional Directors General (Atlantic and Prairies) along with Regional Directors (Quebec, Ontario and Pacific) are also responsible for developing regional strategies.

■ Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Administration (PFRA)

Agricultural productivity, farm diversification and economic stability and growth on the Prairies are enhanced through a variety of soil and water conservation and development programs. The investigation of degradation problems and the promotion of solutions serve to conserve the soil resource for present and future use. Dependable water supplies for agricultural and other related uses at the farm, community and regional level allow greater variety of agricultural activities and render the economy less sensitive to drought. Operation of community pastures on land not suitable for cultivation and distribution of tree seedlings to promote farm shelterbelts assist in conservation of the soil resource. Operation of water storage and irrigation projects and the development of new water resource projects in cooperation with the provinces enhances economic security and provides development opportunities on the Prairies.

■ Grains and Oilseeds Branch

This Branch provides direction and support required for the efficient and effective delivery and development of both domestic and international grains and oilseeds policies, programs and services. It contributes to ensuring the quality of standards and high worldwide reputation of Canadian grains and oilseeds through regulation of the handling industry. It contributes to stabilizing the income of grains and oilseeds producers from short-term market instabilities, providing grains and oilseeds industrial development assistance, and providing a focus for the federal relationship with the co-operatives sector. The Branch is organized into five areas: the Grain Marketing Bureau, the Co-operatives Secretariat, and the Priorities and Strategies Directorate, all located in Ottawa; the Livestock Feed Bureau, located in Montreal, Atlantic Canada and British Columbia, and the National Grains Bureau (NGB), located in Winnipeg (Western Grain Stabilization Administration and Net Income Stabilization Account are part of the NGB).

Grain Marketing Bureau:

Coordinates and carries out trade development activities and contributes to the development of trade policy for grains and oilseeds products. It has close relations with various Crown agencies and quasi-governmental bodies involved in the grain industry and the private grain trade. It administers the Grains and Oilseeds Program and, in conjunction with the departments of Agriculture and Transport, provides support to the minister responsible for the Canadian Wheat Board. The primary objective of the Bureau is to encourage sustained and orderly growth in the production, processing and marketing of grains, oilseeds and their products.

Western Grain Stabilization Administration:
Presently in the process of finalizing the program by collecting overpayments made to producers who participated in the Western Grain Stabilization Program during previous years.

Canadian Grain Commission:
The Canadian Grain Commission administers the Canada Grain Act through the recommendation and implementation of grading standards for grain, the licensing of grain elevators, the inspection and weighing of grain, the economic and statistical monitoring of grain handling and storage systems, research into the quality of cereal grains and oilseeds, and supervision of grain futures exchanges.

Net Income Stabilization Account (NISA):
Administers the program in which individual producers make deposits to an individual account and contributions are matched by the federal and provincial governments. The producer is entitled to make account withdrawals when his net income is low.

Livestock Feed Bureau:
Ensures the availability of adequate feed grain supplies and storage space to meet the needs of livestock producers in eastern Canada and British Columbia, contributes to reasonable price stability for such supplies, and assists in equalizing feed grain prices to livestock feeders in eastern Canada and in British Columbia.

■ Corporate Services Branch

Acts and Legislation
Description: Acts and legislation – general, departmental, federal, foreign and provincial; federal investigative bodies. Program Record Number: AGR CSB 851

Administration
Description: Administration generally; accidents generally; motor vehicle accidents; agreements; appreciation; complaints and enquiries; associations, clubs and societies; audit, review and evaluation; badges, emblems and flags; bilingualism and biculturalism; cafeterias and eating facilities; campaigns and canvassing; ceremonies and celebrations; circulars, directives and orders; committees; conferences, meetings and symposia; corporations, companies and firms; emergency measures; claims by and against the Crown and ex gratia payments; licences and permits; parliamentary matters; plans and programs; reports and statistics; visits and tours; surveys. Program Record Number: AGR CSB 850

Administrative and Management Services
Description: Administrative and management services generally; correspondence management; electronic data processing; forms management; information services; legal services; library services; mail, messenger and postal services; management services; records management; security services; materiel management services; facilities management services; access to information and privacy services; management practices services; telecommunications; travel and transportation services; secretarial, typing and word processing services; translation services; awards and honours. Program Record Number: AGR CSB 852

Civil Emergency Planning
Description: Information on preparedness plans to ensure adequate inspection and regulation of agricultural products and services in the event of a national emergency. Topics: Liaison in emergency planning matters with Privy Council Office and Emergency Preparedness Canada, other federal departments, provincial departments of agriculture, U.S. Department of Agriculture and Agri-Food and Agri-Food and NATO; orientation training in Agricultural Emergency Planning. Program Record Number: AGR CSB 385

■ Audit and Evaluation Branch

Internal Audit
Description: Internal Audit Reports. Topics: Documentation relating to results of audits carried out on departmental programs; systems; functions and organizations. Storage Medium: Hard copy and/or computer diskettes. Program Record Number: AGR AEB 416

Program Evaluation
Description: Information on the evaluation of departmental programs. Topics: Description and objective; analysis of effectiveness. Storage Medium: Hard copy and/or computer diskettes. Program Record Number: AGR AEB 415

■ Communications Branch

Mission Review
Description: Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada under went a Departmental Mission Review to redefine the departmental mission statement. The outcome captures the essential elements of the Department's business and its values as they relate to service to clients and to a positive work environment. Topics: May include the use of questionnaires, of panel discussions and written or oral comments all provided on a voluntary basis. Storage Medium: Paper. Program Record Number: AGR COM 336

Operations
Description: Consists of: Media Relations; Research and Analysis; Inquiries and Industry Communications; Creative Services; Management Services and Speech Unit. Handles: media coordination; research and analysis; editing and writing; preparation of speeches for Ministers, the Deputy Minister and others when they speak on behalf of the Ministers or Deputy Minister; printing and event coordination; audiovisual and photographic services; exhibit planning; and corporate public relations services (e.g., public inquiries, guided tours of Experimental Farm and publication distribution). Topics: Information on the department's work that is disseminated through print, radio and videos, and public relations activities. Storage Medium: Paper, video, computer, photographs and exhibits. Program Record Number: AGR COM 340

Policy and Planning
Description: Consists of four bureaus (Agri-Food Development, Corporate Affairs, Policy and Farm Income, Food Production and Inspection and Research) that deliver communications advice, planning and strategies to client branches. Also responsible for Issues Management and Training. Topics: Public environment; all current agricultural issues and programs. Storage Medium: Paper and computer. Program Record Number: AGR COM 334

■ Human Resources Branch

Human Resources
Description: Human resources generally; accidents and injuries; appointments; attendance; awards and honours; establishment; hours of work and overtime; leave; promotions and reclassifications; regulations and directives; reports and statistics; retirements and separations. Program Record Number: AGR HRB 860

■ Food Production and Inspection Branch

Analytical Methodology Development
Description: Information on analytical methodologies to support and enhance the quality of scientific analysis provided by the division. Topics: Methodology research proposals; assessment studies; methods validation; establishment and dissemination of methodology; program review; analytical literature surveys; research reports; publications; investigational sampling requests, and results. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 070

Biological Programs
Description: Information on the identification of pests and on analysis of pest risk. Topics: Lists of intercepted pests; insects and plant diseases; surveys; pest identification; and analysis of pest risk. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 170

Disease Control
Description: Information on the prevention, control and eradication of communicable and other diseases, and on compensation for related losses. Topics: Animal diseases – brucellosis, tuberculosis, salmonellosis and other indigenous diseases; foreign animal diseases; reportable diseases of animals and poultry; artificial insemination; embryo transfer; veterinary biologics; the following database: Wildlife Serum Bank. Storage Medium: Machine-readable records are available on brucellosis survey arranged by herd at headquarters; also on herd serum banking and rabies control. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 025

Export and Domestic Programs (Plants)
Description: Information on the planning and maintenance of a national program designed to prevent the spread of pests within Canada, survey for and control quarantine pests occurring in Canada and to ensure the acceptance of Canadian agricultural and forestry products in export markets and for movement within Canada by being free of plant pests and meeting the health standards of the receiving country or region. Topics: Export agriculture and forestry products to foreign and domestic markets; pest distribution (publications); ship, mill and elevator sanitation inspection; plant quarantine importation requirements of foreign and domestic market; decontamination and fumigation; pesticide application, phytosanitary export and domestic movement certification; quarantines; the following database: Plant Pest Database. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 156

Export and Import
Description: Information on the certification of Canadian meat products for export to comply with the requirements of foreign countries and on compliance of imported meat, meat products and byproducts with Canadian standards. Topics: Export certification; foreign inspection system and establishment reviews; review of registered Canadian facilities to comply with export requirements; statistics; policy development. Storage Medium: List of all approved products for import and export, and statistics on the import and export of meat are machine-readable. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 090

Export Testing and Certification
Description: Information on the acceptability of Canadian animals and products for export by ensuring their being free of disease or disease-causing agents and by meeting the standards of importing countries. Topics: Species of animals; disease and disease-

causing agents; import requirements of foreign countries; export testing programs and certification; facilitating export; export of birds; export of poultry; export of plants. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 020

Feed Evaluation, Registration and Compliance
Description: Information on pre-sale evaluation of feed, registration of feed, and inspection of feed production and products to ensure compliance with regulatory requirements. Topics: Evaluation of feed; approval of single ingredients; correspondence; labelling; certificates of registration; registration continuance certificates; product inspection; Feedmill inspection; toxicity, residues and diseases; violations; hay and straw grading; the following database: Livestock Feeds Contaminants Database. Storage Medium: Feed database of registered products and listing of analytical results of feed samples are machine-readable; microfilm for expired certificates of registration and company correspondence. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 145

Fertilizer Evaluation, Registration and Compliance
Description: Information on pre-sale evaluation and registration of fertilizer and on inspection of fertilizer products to ensure compliance with regulatory requirements. Topics: Evaluating fertilizer; approval of single ingredients; correspondence; labelling; certificates of registration; product inspection; toxicity residues and diseases; violations; the following databases: Compendium of Fertilizer-Use Pesticides, Heavy Metal Concentrations in Fertilizers and Fertilizer Materials, Levels of Pesticide Contaminants in Fertilizers. Storage Medium: Listing of analytical results of fertilizer samples, Canadian fertilizer plant statistics and fertilizer database of registered products are machine-readable. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 150

Grading and Monitoring
Description: Information on a national program for grading red meats, animal products, poultry and poultry products, and for inspecting and registering hatcheries, egg stations, and egg processing and poultry slaughtering plants. Topics: Grading red meat; grading poultry and poultry products; egg and poultry processing stations; hatcheries (registration and inspection); laboratory analysis of egg products; training and development; import and export inspection; complaints; enforcement; policy development. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 035

Grading, Standards and Labelling (Dairy, Fruit and Vegetables)
Description: Information on grading programs, quality standards and on the design and control of labelling requirements. Topics: Standards – dairy, fresh fruit and vegetables, processed fruit and vegetables, honey and maple products; grading of dairy products; monitoring the grading of fruit and vegetable products; label design and approval; packaging; weight and volumes; studies and surveys; policy development; consultation with governmental and non-governmental organizations. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 045

Humane Treatment of Animals
Description: Information on the prevention of stress-related diseases in animals and humane treatment of animals being transported within Canada or imported to or exported from Canada. Topics: Enquiries; reports; correspondence; transportation systems; stockyards; ports of entry; recommended codes of practice for farm animals. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 010

Import and Export (Seed Potatoes)
Description: Information on the control of imports, export certification, and facilitation of seed potato trade. Topics: Phytosanitary agreements; facilitation of trade; import standards; export certification; complaint investigation (foreign); evaluation of foreign certification programs. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 125

Import, Export and Interprovincial Control
Description: Information on the control and regulation of import, export and interprovincial movement of dairy, fresh and processed fruit, vegetable products and honey and maple products. Topics: Export certification; compliance to import regulations; concessions -processing and packaging; consultations – associations, government agencies (foreign and domestic); statistics; complaints; policy development. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 055

Import Program (Plants)
Description: Information on the planning and maintenance of a national program to prevent the introduction and establishment in Canada of foreign plant pests detrimental to the Canadian agricultural and forestry industries. Topics: Import permits; port inspection statistics, commercial; port inspection statistics, non-commercial; quarantine and decontamination; importation of agricultural and forest products. Storage Medium: Airport inspection file is machine-readable. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 155

Importation of Animals
Description: Information on the control of animal and bird imports to prevent animal disease from gaining entry into Canada. Topics: Veterinary inspection reports; quarantine station activity reports; Australian and European livestock importation programs; imports of game farm and zoological garden animals; imports of pets; feathers; skins, hides and wool; imports of birds; fertilizers; tankage; plant products; insects; others (tropical fish, amphibians, worms). Program Record Number: AGR FPI 015

Ingredients in Pesticides
Description: Information on the evaluation of pesticides to determine whether they will perform as claimed and on suggested precautions for their use. Topics: Product chemistry; toxicology; metabolism; residues; environmental chemistry and toxicology. Access: Files arranged by ingredient code. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 135

Inspection and Compliance
Description: Information on the development, implementation and monitoring of a national field compliance program for registered pesticides. Topics: Monitoring; investigation; enforcement; verifications, sampling. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 140

Inspection and Enforcement
Description: Information on the inspection and enforcement of standards governing seed quality. Topics: Seed inspection; violations and detentions; crop inspection; grading; diseases; seed testing. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 100

Inspection and Monitoring
Description: Information on the inspection and monitoring of dairy, fresh and processed fruits and vegetables, honey and maple products and certain other products; and on related establishments. Topics: Product inspection; establishment inspection; laboratory analysis; certificates of inspection; system auditing; consultation with governmental and non-governmental organizations; violations and prosecutions; inspection fees; complaints; compliance; policy development; the following database: Residues in Agri-Foods Monitoring Program. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 060

Inspection and Monitoring (Meat and Poultry Products)
Description: Information on the inspection and monitoring of food animals, meat products, meat-by products and plant sanitation. Topics: Testing – toxicity, residues, contaminants; disease monitoring; complaint investigation; transport sanitation; inspection auditing; surveys; national and regional inspection and audits -slaughterhouses, storage and processing facilities; stamping devices; policy development; the following database: Residues in Agri-Foods Monitoring Program. Storage Medium: Files of statistics on weekly and monthly poultry kills, disease condemnations and establishment review are machine-readable. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 075

Inspection, Testing and Certification
Description: Information on the inspection and testing of seed potatoes, and certification for domestic markets. Topics: Seed multiplication; seed potato improvement; inspection; enforcement; training programs; storage and transportation; testing (seed lots, field and post-harvest); inventory of varieties; assessment of varieties; complaint investigation (domestic); federal-provincial consultations. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 115

Pari-Mutuel Supervision
Description: Information on the regulation and supervision of pari-mutuel betting on horse races. Topics: Daily pari-mutuel betting activities; pool distribution; investigation reports into alleged race fixing; betting dates; tests of totalizator equipment; race track facilities; racing commissions; conferences; betting systems; betting permits; security of bets and betting data; federal levy on wagering. Access: Files arranged by racing event and date. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 180

Pathology Services
Description: Diagnostic service and research activities related to animal diseases, consultation and licensing for use of biologics, veterinary and pest control products. Topics: Diseases (agents of disease, transmission to humans, economic loss due to disease); diagnostic activities; diagnostic reagents; registration consulting service; licensing and use of biologics, veterinary and pest control products. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 005

Pest Control
Description: Relates to pest control programs, diseases and parasites of plants and animals, control methods for specific pests, test data. Topics: Policies and general information on pest control; adjuvants; hard surface antimicrobials; industrial slime; invertebrate and vertebrate pests; materials preservation; plant diseases; water biocides; weeds and plant growth control; wood preservation; biotechnology. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 081

Pesticide Research Permits
Description: Permits to conduct research on new or registered products. Topics: Policies and general information on research permits and submissions. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 082

Pesticide Statistics
Description: Relates to numerical information about imports, exports, costs of registrations, sales and use, hazards and benefits. Topics: Policies and general information on statistics; statistics on poisonings and accidents, product developments and registrations; sales and use. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 083

Plant Registration
Description: Information on the registration of storages, slaughtering and processing plants. Topics: Construction specifications; equipment; use of non-food materials and agents; storage facilities; policy development. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 080

Program and Management Services
Description: Information on the development and implementation of plant health programs in the areas of Human Resources Development (including Manual Development). Topics: Compensation, public awareness, consultation with client agencies, operational planning, program audit and control, and computer systems development. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 175

Race Surveillance
Description: Information on the surveillance of horse races. Topics: Daily supervision reports; photo finish service; race patrol service; drug control service; test inspectors' personal records. Access: Files arranged by racing event and date. Storage Medium: Film, videotapes and photographic print. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 185

Registration and Fees (Pesticides)
Description: Information on the registration of pesticides under the Pest Control Products Act. Topics: Application for registration; specification forms; product labels; ingredient authorizations; registrant correspondence; pesticide registration review; technical and scientific data in support of pesticide evaluation; evaluation and registrations; the following database: Regulatory Information on Pesticide Products. This database is provided to the Canadian Centre for Occupational Health and Safety. Access: Files arranged by registrant code and registration number. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 130

Registration and Product Standards (Meat and Poultry Products)
Description: Information on standards for the processing, grading and marking of poultry and poultry products, red meat, and animal products. Topics: Sanitation and building standards; grading standards; poultry packaging and labelling; import and export requirements; animal products (furs and wools); policy development; consultation with industry; egg quality data; egg solids. Storage Medium: The egg quality data and egg solids files are machine-readable. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 030

Registration, Licensing and Arbitration
Description: Information on the registration of fresh and processed fruit and vegetable, honey and maple products processing plants, dairy plants, and fresh produce warehouses; the licensing of dealers and brokers; and the arbitration of disputes. Topics: Registration of establishments – dairies; fresh and processed fruit and vegetable, honey and maple products processing plants; fresh produce warehouses; licensing of dealers and brokers; suspension or cancellation of registration; list of registered processors; arbitration boards; complaints; policy development. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 050

Regulatory Communication
Description: Includes guidelines and procedures relative to the dissemination of technical information via various media. Topics: Regulatory communication; computer systems; presentations; publications; regulatory information by telephone. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 051

Regulatory Liaison
Description: Relates to national and international aspects of pesticide management, coordination of policies and regulatory activities. Topics: Regulatory liaison with: federal, foreign, international, national and provincial organizations and governments. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 052

Scientific Analysis
Description: Information on analytical tests to ensure conformity with established quality-assurance and safety standards for certain products and facilities. Topics: Requests for analysis; analytical reports; test results; product safety; sampling programs (quotas); provision standards; consultation with national and international, governmental and non-governmental organizations; methods of analysis; statistics; laboratory accreditation protocols; audits; check samples; quality assurance protocols. Access: Files arranged by date sampled, laboratory number or by commodity, region, date and type of test.Certain files are kept in regional laboratories. Storage Medium: LIMS computer database contains samples received and reported, tests requested and performed, and computer-generated certificates of analysis are machine-readable. Additional data stored in Personal Computer Databases in the Agri-Food Safety and Strategies Division. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 065

Seed Potato Programs
Description: Information on the planning and maintenance of a national program designed to provide seed potatoes of a class and quality that will meet the demands of both domestic and export markets. Topics: Seed potato certification standards; import requirements of foreign and domestic markets; export and domestic certification standards. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 161

Seed Projects
Description: Information on the characteristics of seed varieties, foreign and domestic movement of seed, and availability of adequate supplies. Topics: Seed varieties; importation of seeds; exportation of seeds; statistics; contract multiplication; international liaison. Storage Medium: Seed inventory and seed sealing are machine-readable. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 095

Seed Standards
Description: Information on the development of new or amended seed quality standards; packaging and labelling. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 105

Standards and Labels
Description: Information on the development of and compliance with standards and labels to ensure quality, nutritional value and safety of agri-food products. Topics: Label review on microfilm; approved Canadian and foreign labels (machine-readable list); packaging; food standards – formulas and preparation; additives; policy development. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 085

Standards and Specifications
Description: Information on guidelines, specifications and standards on seed potatoes. Topics: Standards and labelling; laboratory facilities; transportation; storage; seed potato varieties; policy development. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 120

Surveillance Research
Description: Information on all aspects of research into race track surveillance. Topics: Diagnostic activities; drug detection; recording of races on film or video tape; effect of drug administration on horses. Access: Files arranged by drug study. Storage Medium: Film, videotapes and photographic prints. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 190

Training for Inspection and Monitoring (Meat Hygiene)
Description: Information on training for the inspection and monitoring of food animals, meat products and plant sanitation. Topics: Inspection techniques for various species, sanitation practices, humane handling, food processing; basic meat science; basic microbiology; food borne pathogens; biological residues. Storage Medium: Training materials in written format as modules with visual components on video or filmstrip with audio cassette. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 076

Variety Registration
Description: Information on the evaluation of new varieties of seeds for the purpose of registration. Topics: Registration of seeds; list of registered varieties (machine readable); unregistered varieties. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 110

VM Group – Employee Perception Study
Description: As part of its commitment to an open and consultative working environment, the Food Production and Inspection Branch conducted a survey of all its employees in the Veterinary Medicine (VM) Group. The survey was done cooperatively with the Professional Institute of the Public Service of Canada in the form of a questionnaire distributed to all VM Group members. Topics: Information was obtained on the members' working environment, career opportunities, performance appraisals, job satisfaction and role definitions. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 111

■ Research Branch

Animal Production Research
Description: Information on the efficiency of production and the quality of animals in support of market development. Topics: Beef, dairy, swine, poultry, sheep, and honey bees; breeding; nutrition; management practices; physiology; feeding; protection; reproduction; behaviour; carcass quality and grading; genetic resources. Program Record Number: AGR RBR 220

Biological Resources and Scientific Support Services
Description: Information on Canada's biological resources, and on the scientific support services for research programs; Topics: Classification and collections of vascular plants, insects, arachnids, nematodes, fungi; bacteria and viruses; plant gene collections; the following database: Sustainable Agriculture Task Force Database. Program Record Number: AGR RBR 230

Biotechnology
Description: Information on the assessment, development and utilization of basic and emerging technologies in support of agricultural research. Topics: Recombinant DNA technology, eucaryotic/prokaryotic molecular genetics, expression vectors, tissue culture, immunological and nucleic acid probes/diagnostics, gene mapping, cryogenics, microbial (eg. rhizobium/rumen) inoculants, biocontrol of pests excluding insect releases. Program Record Number: AGR RBR 250

Commonwealth Agricultural Liaison
Description: Information on liaison with the Commonwealth International Agricultural Bureau and the Commonwealth Science Council. Topics: Information Service – agricultural scientific information, journals and book reviews; identification service -identification of pests and plant diseases; and biocontrol services -pest evaluation, survey and review services related to the introduction of biological control agents. Program Record Number: AGR RBR 245

Crop Production Development Research
Description: Information on the efficiency of production and quality of crops in support of market development. Topics: Wheat and other cereals; oilseed crops; forage crops; horticultural crops; field crops; breeding; physiology; management practices; protection; disease resistance; plant nutrient studies; N fixation; genetic resources. Program Record Number: AGR RBR 225

Food Processing and Distribution Research
Description: Information on increasing efficiency in the processing and distribution sectors through technological innovation and product improvement. Topics: Food processing (technological innovation, equipment and utilization); the development of new ingredients; packaging and storage (physiology and storage conditions) non-food use of agricultural materials. Program Record Number: AGR RBR 240

Food Quality and Nutrition Research
Description: Information on the safety, quality and nutritive value of edible agricultural products. Topics: Food safety – toxicants and contaminants; food quality – food composition, nutrient availability, nutrition, quality measurement. Program Record Number: AGR RBR 215

Land Research
Description: Information on the maintenance, availability and better utilization of agricultural land to meet current and future agricultural and food production needs. Topics: Soil management and conservation (erosion problems, tillage, reclamation, fertilizer use); soil composition (organic matter, mineral content, chemical analysis); soil mapping; land inventory (classification, surveys, mapping); soil and land evaluation; the following databases: Agroecological Resource Areas, Canadian Soil Information System (CANSIS), Generalized Soil Landscape Maps (GSLM) Degradation File, Land Potential for Agriculture Database, Soil Landscapes of Canada. Program Record Number: AGR RBR 195

Protection
Description: Information on the protection of crops and animals from diseases, insects and weeds, and on minimizing environmental impact from agricultural practices. Topics: Plant disease organisms, insect pests, weeds, pesticides, chemical and biological control, integrated pest management, pesticide management. Program Record Number: AGR RBR 210

Research Branch Activities

Description: Includes general correspondence relating to agricultural science, university and provincial programs. Topics: Research activities of federal departments and agencies as well as provincial governments; in-house research programs; communications and reporting; goals and objectives; expected results; industry collaboration on scientific research projects. Program Record Number: AGR RBR 211

Research Branch – Study Data Base

Description: This data base contains information on agricultural and food research studies underway in Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada -Research Branch. Topics: Computerized input and retrieval system for scientific information on agricultural and food studies undertaken at research establishments. Program Record Number: AGR RBR 221

Water and Climate Research

Description: Information on the use of water resources and the effects of weather and climate on agricultural production. Topics: Irrigation, drainage, desalination, conservation; winter survival of crops, meteorological and climatic indices; crop development models (yield prediction through use of climatic indices); atmospheric carbon dioxide; meteorological records and data; the following database: Agriculture and Meteorology (AGMET). Program Record Number: AGR RBR 200

■ Farm Financial Programs Branch

Administration of Acts

Description: Information on loan guarantees, market development and advance crop payments. Topics: Application for financial assistance (marketing boards, producer organizations, co-operatives); establishing commodity values; auditing; Agricultural Products Co-operative Marketing Act; Advance Payments for Crops Act, Prairie Grain Advance Payments Act. Program Record Number: AGR FFP 255

Agricultural Products Transaction

Description: Information on agricultural product transactions under the provisions of the Agricultural Products Board Act. Topics: Purchase and sale agreements; processing, storage and transportation of agricultural products; foreign assistance programs. Access: Files arranged by commodity, year and procedure. Program Record Number: AGR FFP 590

Commodity Price Support Programs

Description: Information on support prices for agricultural products under the provisions of the Agricultural Stabilization Act and details of payment programs. Topics: Support price (related data, correspondence, reports, producer costs, market return statistics); payment program (deficiency payments, eligibility criteria). Access: Files arranged by commodity and year. Program Record Number: AGR FFP 595

Crop Insurance Program

Description: Information on federal assistance to provincially operated crop insurance programs that provide producers with income stability against specific crop loss risks. Topics: Federal-provincial agreements under the Crop Insurance Act; federal contributions to the provinces; annual report for the Minister under the Crop Insurance Act; provincial crop insurance program proposals, statistical reports, crop insurance annual reports and crop condition reports; audit reports; foreign crop insurance information. Program Record Number: AGR FFP 355

Farm Improvement and Marketing Co-operatives Loans

Description: Information on the administration of the Farm Improvement and Marketing Co-operatives Loans Act to assist in meeting the credit needs of Canadian farmers. Topics: Loan program management – reports, claims, remittances; guidelines; policy; borrower default analysis. Access: Reports of loans made are filed by borrower and lending period. Storage Medium: Reports are machine-readable. Program Record Number: AGR FFP 465

Farm Income Protection Act

Description: The Farm Income Protection Act (FIPA) provides legislation for federal programs which assist farmers in improved long-term income protection against fluctuations in yields, prices or production costs such as the Gross Revenue Insurance Program and the Net Income Stabilization Account. FIPA also provides for the implementation of special measures to address short-term assistance to farmers under initiatives such as the Farm Support and Adjustment Measures. Topics: Agreements with the governments of the provinces for the purpose of establishing a net income stabilization account program and the establishment, operation and cost-sharing of a gross revenue insurance plan; enhancement to the Gross Revenue Insurance Program; enhancement to the Net Income Stabilization Account Program; the 1991 Cash Flow Enhancement Program; the Land Management Assistance Program; the Permanent Cover Program II; the Adjustment Measures for Horticulture. Program Record Number: AGR FFP 369

National Tripartite Stabilization

Description: The Agricultural Stabilization Act supports producers by providing for development of tripartite (federal – provincial -producer) cost-shared programs at support levels to be agreed upon, but with a maximum federal cost of 3% of gross sales of participating producers. Once a tripartite agreement is in place for a commodity, the other support provisions for that commodity no longer apply. Program Record Number: AGR FFP 491

Prairie Farm Assistance

Description: Information on assistance to farmers in the western wheat area in the event of a district crop failure. Topics: Prairie Farm Assistance Act, 1939; claims and payments; program phase-out 1973-74; repeal of the Act, 1979; annual reports. Access: Operational records now stored at National Archives of Canada in Winnipeg; administrative and policy records stored at headquarters. Program Record Number: AGR FFP 370

Relief Assistance Programs

Description: Information on crop loss assistance programs that cover emergency situations not provided for under ongoing crop insurance programs. Topics: Federal-provincial agreements; crop loss assistance program details; federal contributions to programs; soil moisture and crop condition reports; audit reports. Program Record Number: AGR FFP 360

Subsidy Claims and Payments

Description: Information on claims for subsidies from individual producers. Access: Files arranged by producer or number. Program Record Number: AGR FFP 600

Waterfowl Crop Damage Compensation Program

Description: Information on compensation for individual producers in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta who have suffered serious waterfowl crop loss damage. Topics: Federal-provincial agreements; federal contributions; the Crop Damage Prevention Program and policies; program studies; waterfowl crop damage compensation policies; program audit reports. Program Record Number: AGR FFP 365

■ Policy Branch

Agri-Food Policy Review

Description: Information on the Agri-Food Policy Review related to the work of the federal-provincial and government-industry task forces and committees set up to examine the challenges and priorities facing Canada's agri-food industry. Topics: The eleven task forces and committees dealt with: Safety Nets (overall framework), Grains and Oilseeds Safety Nets, Farm Finance and Management, Competitiveness, Transportation, Dairy Supply Management, Poultry Supply Management, Food Safety and Quality, Sustainable Agriculture, Research and Technology Transfer, and Pesticides Registration. Access: Reports of the task forces and committees are available upon request. Files are arranged by policy area. Storage Medium: Machine readable and hard copy. Program Record Number: AGR POL 367

Agricultural Development Policy and Analysis

Description: This bank is used to administer stabilization payments to grain producers. It contains the grain receipts and levy payments of holders of permits issued by the Canadian Wheat Board in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia. Class of Individuals: Grain producers in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia. Purpose: Files in this bank are used to calculate and issue stabilization payments to participating grain producers. Consistent Uses: Disclosure: (1) On an individual request basis, account information is supplied to Revenue Canada to assist in its investigations. (2) The four western provincial crown corporations (Manitoba Crop Insurance Corporation, Saskatchewan Crop Insurance Corporation and the Farm Income and Crop Insurance Branch of the British Columbia Ministry of Agriculture and Food request use of our data bank. Information is provided concerning specific producers' sales by grain type and tonnes (not sales value) and generally extends over a number of crop years. The requests are ongoing and average perhaps one per week involving perhaps a dozen producers at most. In addition, we also provide computer tape files of our participants identified by permit number only while quoting the outstanding levy to be deducted from these accounts. This information is used in conducting audits of crop insurance claims and in pursuing fraudulent claims through the courts. The computer tape files are used for matching participant to claimant in order to determine the amount of levy to be deducted from the claimant's indemnity payment (the provincial corporations are registered as designated purchasers under the WGS Act). (3) Western Grain Transportation Agency: Grain sales information specific to producers in a specific area covering a ten year period is provided. This is an annual request. This information is used to establish compensatory amounts for the additional cost of transporting grain by truck as a result of rail line abandonment and the closure of grain elevators contiguous to it. As additional rail lines become eligible each year for removal from the network, more producers are affected by elevator closures. (4) Canada Grains Council: Historical data which are non-specific as to producer. The data are statistical in nature and used by the council for various analyses and studies. This was an annual request at one time but we have not received a request for the past two years. (5) Auditor General: Complete copies of our master file of name and addresses as well as our payout file. The information is requested annually. The information is used to verify the propriety and accuracy of stabilization payments. (6) RCMP: Detailed information specific to individuals is provided which would include name and address as well as grain sales for one or more years. The information is requested on an as needed basis (very infrequently). This information is issued to conduct criminal investigations. (7) Statistics Canada: Statistical information is provided on an ad hoc basis. Requests are very infrequent. The information is not producer specific and is used to conduct various analyses and studies. (8) Canadian Wheat Board (CWB) Payouts: Producer permit numbers, participant status and the amount of levy yet to be deducted is provided to the CWB once or twice a year. Conversely, each week the CWB furnishes WGSA with a computer tape of name and address changes and new permit number issues. The information enables the CWB to match participant files to their payment files in order to deduct the WGS levy from interim, adjustment and final payments. Information on the payout and the levy by producer is returned for processing to the WGS accounts. The CWB also forwards information weekly providing information about new permit book numbers and name and address which is used to update the WGS data base prior to levy refunds or stabilization payouts. (9) Revenue Canada: Statutory set-offs are received and recorded to intercept amounts owing to the Crown. Levy refunds and stabilization payments are matched to the file of set-offs and may confirmed amounts are diverted to Revenue Canada. (10) Family Orders and Agreements Enforcement Assistance Act: Monthly a computer tape file is received from Justice Canada to perform a name and address match against the WGSA master file. The matching is carried out to identify payees against whom there is an outstanding summons. WGSA payments are intercepted and set aside for instructions from Justice as to the amount to be diverted. Part of the matching process requires us to make positive identification by reference to the CWB where the producer's SIN is recorded (on his permit book application). (11) The information will also be used by the provinces to collect accounts receivable owing to the federal government from several federal agricultural programs under the Farm Income Assistance Initiative. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are held for 20 years. PAC Number: 77-005 Related to PR#: AGR GOB 350 TBS Registration: 001715 Bank Number: AGR PPU 180

Classes of Personal Information

Other Programs and Agreements

This class reflects other programs and agreements not specifically covered under the other classes. These other programs and agreements are aimed at resolving specific problems of a limited nature or in specifically defined areas of the country. For example, Federal-Provincial Agreements such as those under the Agricultural and Rural Development Act (ARDA) are concerned with rural problems of unemployment and social disadvantages. Special ARDA agreements have been used as a vehicle to improve the economic circumstances of native people by providing financial and other assistance to create job opportunities. Personal information may be stored in administering programs falling within this class. This information may include financial, employment, demographic and educational data on individuals. Such data, however, would be stored as part of the general subject files where records are not normally retrieved by name of individual or other personal identifier. This form of personal information is normally retrievable only if specifics are provided concerning the name of the program concerned and the name of the specific project.

General Correspondence and Enquiries
Personal information in this class relates to routine correspondence concerning the regulatory and licensing activities associated with meat inspection, pesticides, feeds and fertilizers, veterinary biologics and the humane transportation of animals. It also relates to general enquiries concerning agricultural research, market intelligence, food advisory information and financial assistance to marketing boards and co-operatives. The personal information contained in this class normally includes the name and address of the enquirer, but is neither arranged nor retrievable by personal identifiers. This form of personal information exists in a fragmented form throughout the subject files controlled by the Department and is normally retrievable only if specifics are provided concerning the subject and the date of the correspondence. The retention period for this class of personal information is controlled by the retention period of the files in which they are stored.

Ministerial Correspondence
This class of information contains correspondence received by the Departmental Secretariat from external organizations and individuals in the form of requests for information, complaints, opinions and other similar submissions related to a broad range of policy issues pertaining to Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada's activities, wherein some unsolicited personal information has been provided by the correspondent. This form of information would be retrievable only if specifics of name, date of communication and subject were to be provided; it is not arranged or retrievable by personal identifiers. The retention periods of these classes of personal information are controlled by the record schedules of the general subject files in which they are stored.

Atlantic Canada Opportunities Agency
Chapter 2

General Information

Background

The Atlantic Canada Opportunities Agency (ACOA) was created in June 1987 to increase opportunity for economic development in Atlantic Canada and, more particularly, to enhance the growth of earned incomes and employment opportunities in the region.

ACOA's head office is located in Moncton, New Brunswick. The Agency maintains regional offices in the capital cities of each of the four Atlantic provinces, as well as in Sydney, Nova Scotia and in Ottawa. Smaller area offices are located in various locations within the four provinces served. Each of the four regional offices is headed by a Vice-President, as are the Sydney and Ottawa offices.

Responsibilities

ACOA's mission statement describes its mandate: "the Atlantic Canada Opportunities Agency is a strategic partnership with the people of Atlantic Canada in the renewal of the Atlantic entrepreneurial spirit." The Agency is dedicated to achieving:

- an expanding competitive economy;
- a self-sustaining entrepreneurial climate;
- more successful small and medium-sized businesses;
- more lasting employment opportunities;
- increased earned income; and
- national policies and programs that reflect the strength, aspirations and opportunities of Atlantic Canada.

To achieve these objectives, seven strategic priorities have been established. These are:
1) innovation and technology transfer; 2) entrepreneurship development; 3) trade and investment support; 4) human resource development; 5) procurement and industrial benefits; 6) investment support; and 7) diversification.

Legislation

- Government Organization Act, Atlantic Canada 1987 (Part I)
- Industrial and Regional Development Act
- Small Business Loans Act
- Special Areas Act
- Department of Regional Industrial Expansion Act

Organization

ACOA delivers two main programs, the Action Program and the COOPERATION Program.

The Action Program offers assistance for both commercial and non-commercial operations. The main areas of activity are: innovation, business studies, capital investment, supplier development, market development, and business support. The level of support available depends on the activity to be undertaken. Support can be in the form of repayable or non-repayable contributions, loan insurance and interest buy-downs.

The COOPERATION program provides the policy framework and strategic federal plan for federal-provincial agreements under the four Atlantic Economic and Regional Development Agreements (ERDA) and for direct federal initiatives with private sector firms, organizations and associations. All Cooperation initiatives are considered within this policy framework which highlights development opportunities within Atlantic Canada, which takes into consideration federal priorities for the Region and which considers the roles, mandates and programs of all federal and provincial agencies in the Region.

The COOPERATION program provides a powerful and flexible mechanism to coordinate federal efforts with those of the provinces and the private sector in order to strengthen the ability of Atlantic Region entrepreneurs to take advantage of development opportunities. Federal efforts under the program may be made through federal-provincial agreements or through direct federal initiatives. Funds under the program are targeted to initiatives which support five priority themes of entrepreneurship, market and trade development, innovation and technology transfer, human resource development and the environment.

ACOA also has advocacy and coordination functions. The advocacy role means presenting and promoting Atlantic interests to other government departments. A major target is influencing the design of national programs and policies and to ensure that Atlantic capabilities are understood and given fair consideration when major Crown procurements are contemplated. The coordination role includes taking the lead on major government and sectoral issues in Atlantic Canada where the objectives of the Government are best achieved through the effective interaction of a number of federal departments, and in some instances, provincial governments and the private sector.

The Agency also has an Advisory Board, comprised of up to 18 private sector members representing all areas of Atlantic Canada, chaired by the President of ACOA. Board members possess a broad spectrum of experience and perspectives in promoting economic development in the region. The Board offers advice and guidance on the policy and program directions of the Agency and plays an important role in the review of large projects. Committees of the Board have been established to focus on subjects such as policy, entrepreneurship and communications. In addition, the Project Review Committee reviews, and recommends on, applications for financial assistance exceeding $1 million under the Action Program.

Program Records

ACOA Action Program
Description: contains project applications for funding assistance under the Action Program. Applications consist of the applicant's profile, supporting documentation, project's description and the Agency's recommendation. Topics: general, program review. Related provincial applications: New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia (incl. Cape Breton), Newfoundland. Access: Projects are listed by province. Program Record Number: ACO PRO 050

ACOA – General
Description: information of a general nature relating to the Agency's responsibilities and initiatives. Topics: general, program authorities, initiatives. Program Record Number: ACO POE 005

Agreements and Programs
Description: matters of a general nature relating to agreements in which the Agency is directly or indirectly involved. Topics: general, agreements arranged by province: New Brunswick, Nova Scotia (incl. Cape Breton), Prince Edward Island, Newfoundland. Program Record Number: ACO PRO 040

Agriculture
Description: information relating to research and development within the Atlantic provinces. Topics: general, Atlantic Meat Strategy. Program Record Number: ACO CSD 090

Business
Description: information regarding business activities, including issues necessitating cooperation with provincial and private sectors. Topics: general, activities arranged by province : New Brunswick, Nova Scotia (incl. Cape Breton) Prince Edward Island, Newfoundland. Program Record Number: ACO POL 075

COOPERATION Program Agreements
Description: contains agreements, sub-agreements for which ACOA has responsibility with the Atlantic provinces. Topics: general, task force meetings. Access: agreements arranged by province: New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island, Newfoundland. Program Record Number: ACO CSD 060

Defence
Description: information regarding activities and recommendations related to the development of defence facilities and industry within the Atlantic region. Topics: general, base closures, activities arranged by provinces: New Brunswick, Nova Scotia (incl. Cape Breton), Prince Edward Island, Newfoundland. Program Record Number: ACO CSD 095

Energy
Description: information regarding Agency responsibilities for development of the energy sector including hydro, oil and gas exploration within the Atlantic provinces. Topics: general, information arranged by province; New Brunswick; Nova Scotia (incl. Cape Breton); Prince Edward Island, Newfoundland. Access: Subject material is divided by province or region. Program Record Number: ACO CSD 100

Environment
Description: information related to those aspects of research and development fields fall within the ACOA's responsibilities. Topics: general, information arranged by province: New Brunswick, Nova Scotia (incl. Cape Breton), Prince Edward Island, Newfoundland. Program Record Number: ACO CSD 105

Fisheries
Description: information related to the research and responsibility which the Agency has directly or indirectly. Topics: general, information arranged by province: New Brunswick, Nova Scotia (incl. Cape Breton), Prince Edward Island, Newfoundland. Program Record Number: ACO CSD 110

Fisheries Alternatives Program (FAP)
Description: program covers the federal response and financial assistance to communities after termination or disruption in their major economic circumstances. Topics: general, program applications listed by province; New Brunswick, Nova Scotia (incl. Cape Breton), Prince Edward Island, Newfoundland. Program Record Number: ACO CSD 155

Forestry
Description: information pertaining to the Agency's responsibility for forestry within the Atlantic provinces. Topics: general, information arranged by province: New Brunswick, Nova Scotia (incl. Cape Breton), Prince Edward Island, Newfoundland. Program Record Number: ACO CSD 115

Industries
Description: information of a general nature relating to various industries and Agency responsibilities. Topics: general, information arranged by province: New Brunswick, Nova Scotia (incl. Cape Breton), Prince Edward Island, Newfoundland. Program Record Number: ACO CSD 080

Major Crown Projects
Description: Crown projects valued over $1 million in which ACOA may directly or indirectly be involved with. Topics: general, projects arranged by province: New Brunswick, Nova Scotia (incl. Cape Breton), Prince Edward Island, Newfoundland. Program Record Number: ACO CSD 160

Manufacturing
Description: information on research and development and science and technology in the manufacturing industry. Topics: general, information arranged by province: New Brunswick, Nova Scotia (incl. Cape Breton), Prince Edward Island, Newfoundland. Program Record Number: ACO CSD 120

Mining
Description: information regarding research and development in the areas of mineral resources and mining. Topics: general, information arranged by province: New Brunswick, Nova Scotia (incl. Cape Breton), Prince Edward Island, Newfoundland. Program Record Number: ACO CSD 125

Procurement
Description: information regarding procurement programs which have been developed within the Agency and procurement negotiations in which the Agency is directly or indirectly involved. Topics: general, information regarding programs and/or negotiations may be accessed by subject matter. Program Record Number: ACO CSD 070

Program Design
Description: information relating to initiatives supporting small or medium-sized businesses within the Atlantic region. Also the Agency's support for entrepreneurship development. Topics: general; advocacy; consultations, corporate plan, entrepreneurship. Program Record Number: ACO POL 010

Programs/Agreements Reports
Description: reports on all ACOA programs and agreements: weekly, monthly, quarterly and annually. Topics: general, weekly, monthly, status reports: Project announcement reports, ACOA annual reports, COOPERATION reports; Fisheries Alternatives Program (FAP) reports. Program Record Number: ACO CAB 045

Science and Technology
Description: information on research and technology as they relate to the Agency's responsibilities in the Atlantic region. Topics: general, Space Program, subject material access by province. Program Record Number: ACO CSD 130

Shipbuilding
Description: information on the region's shipbuilding industry. Topics: general, projects are separated by shipyard. Program Record Number: ACO CSD 135

Tourism
Description: information on tourism and tourism development. Topics: general information is arranged by province: New Brunswick; Newfoundland; Nova Scotia; Cape Breton; Prince Edward Island. Program Record Number: ACO CSD 140

Trade
Description: information touching on all aspects of trade, including negotiations, as well as federal and provincial assistance from federal and provincial levels. Topics: general, meetings, material may be requested by subject matter. Program Record Number: ACO CSD 145

Transportation
Description: information dealing with air, land and marine transportation within the Atlantic region which the Agency may be directly or indirectly involved. Topics: general, subject material is arranged by province: New Brunswick, Nova Scotia (incl. Staffing
This bank contains general documentation related to specific positions as well as documentation related to performance in competitions. The information held includes application forms, résumés, appraisals, assessments, board reports, lists of eligible persons, conflict of interest declarations and agreements to undertake language training. The information relates to applicants competing or being given consideration for a position. The purpose of this bank is to assess applicants for positions. Information is also used during competitions as well as for making appointments based on the eventual lists of eligible candidates. It may also be used at an appeal hearing or during an investigation. Records are retained for two years after the eligible list for a staffing action expires, or for two years after any other administrative action. Records are then destroyed. Bank Number: ACO PPU 005

Atlantic Pilotage Authority Canada
Chapter 3

General Information

Background

As a result of recommendations made by the Royal Commission on Pilotage in Canada, the Pilotage Act was assented to by Her Majesty and the Governor-in-Council and proclaimed February 1, 1972.

The Pilotage Act created four pilotage regions with specific authorities, thereby replacing a large number of local pilotage districts. The four pilotage authorities – Atlantic, Laurentian, Great Lakes, and Pacific – are Crown corporations, responsible to Parliament through the Minister of Transport.

The Atlantic Pilotage Authority was incorporated in carrying out the Pilotage Act in 1972, and pursuant to the Financial Administration Act, (Schedule SC 1983-84, 31) was designated a Schedule III Part I Crown corporation.

Responsibilities

The role of the Authority is to establish, operate, maintain and administer, in the interest of safety, an efficient and economical pilotage service within its geographical boundaries – all coastal waters in the Atlantic region. As a further goal, the authority prescribes tariffs of pilotage charges that are fair, reasonable and consistent with providing revenues sufficient to permit the Authority to operate on a self-sustaining financial basis.

Legislation

- Atlantic Pilotage Regulations
- Authority By-Laws
- Canadian Shipping Act
- General Pilotage Regulations
- Pilotage Act

Organization

■ Administration Division

This Division provides administrative and financial services as required to operate within accepted corporate business procedures.

■ Operations Division

This Division provides pilotage services by assigning and dispatching qualified pilots to ships navigating within the boundaries of the Atlantic Pilotage Authority.

Information Holdings

Pilotage Services
Description: Information on the provision of pilotage services within the Atlantic region. Topics: Dispatching records; pilotage licences; tariff charges; assignments of pilots to vessels; accident reports; collective agreements; international shipping affairs. Program Record Number: APA OPD 005

Tariffs
Description: Information on the setting of tariffs for the provision of pilotage services; also the conduct and results of negotiations concerning the setting of tariffs in various districts throughout the region as well as results of National Transportation Agency of Canada hearings. Program Record Number: APA OPD 010

Personal Information Banks

Accounts Payable Files
The purpose of this bank is to maintain information on the payment of accounts to firms or individuals for services or products provided to the Authority. Files contain the names and addresses of firms and individuals; and invoices for services rendered or products provided detailing the amount owing and any supporting documentation to substantiate the account. Original accounts payable vouchers, together with supporting documentation, are maintained in hard copy and are filed by date of payment. The retention period for original accounts payable vouchers, together with supporting documentation, is seven years. Access to this bank will require name, address and date of account. Bank Number: APA PPU 015

Accounts Receivable Files
The purpose of this bank is to maintain information on sums of money owing to the Authority. Files contain the names and addresses of firms and individuals; details of the amount owing; and any supporting documentation to substantiate the account. Manual files exist to maintain hard copy documentation. The retention period is seven years. Access to this bank will require name and address. Bank Number: APA PPU 010

Application for Employment File
The purpose of this bank is to maintain a record of information relating to applications for employment received from the general public. This bank contains completed application forms, letters and curricula vitae of persons interested in working for the Authority. The retention period for this bank is ten years. Access to this bank will require name, address and date of birth. Bank Number: APA PPU 020

Register of Pilots
The purpose of the bank is to retain a register of certificates and qualifications required under the Pilotage Act. This bank contains information on physical characteristics, licences, certificates, and accidents of pilots. The retention period for this bank is indefinite. Access to this bank will require name and address. Bank Number: APA PPU 025

Service Contracts
The purpose of this bank is to maintain information on the tenders and award of contracts for the supply of such services as land and water transportation. The files contain the list of prospective tenderers; the tenders submitted; an analysis of the tenders received; documentation leading to the award of the contract; and the signed contract between the contractor and the Authority. The files may be referred to for future contracts. The retention period for service contracts is ten years. Access to this bank will require the contract number and description of the service. Bank Number: APA PPU 005

Atomic Energy Control Board
Chapter 4

General Information

Background
The Atomic Energy Control Board (AECB) was established in 1946 by the Atomic Energy Control Act.

Responsibilities
The AECB is the federal regulatory agency responsible for the control of health, safety, and national and international security aspects of prescribed nuclear energy substances and items, and nuclear facilities. The AECB is also responsible for the administration of the Nuclear Liability Act. The Board reports to Parliament through the Minister of Energy, Mines and Resources, and is a departmental corporation within the meaning and purpose of the Financial Administration Act.

Legislation
- Atomic Energy Control Act, R.S.C., 1985, chapter A-16
- Nuclear Liability Act, R.S.C., 1985, chapter N-28

Organization
The Board consists of five members. One of these members is appointed President and Chief Executive Officer of the AECB and is the only full-time member. Reporting to the President are the Secretariat, the Directorate of Reactor Regulation, the Directorate of Fuel Cycle and Materials Regulation, the Directorate of Research and Safeguards, the Directorate of Analysis and Assessment, and the Directorate of Administration.

■ Secretariat
The Secretariat is responsible for the functions of Secretary to the Board, the dissemination of information to the public and the media, and administrative and scientific support to two independent advisory committees dealing with radiation protection and nuclear safety. It is also responsible for corporate planning, coordination of policy development, implementation of internal audit and program evaluation plans, as well as liaison with provincial, federal and international agencies, including the Minister's Office. Administration of the Nuclear Liability Act and compliance with the provisions of the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act rest with the Secretariat. The Secretariat consists of the Office of the Secretary to the Board, the Office of Public Information, the Planning and Coordination Section, and the Advisory Committee Secretariat.

■ Directorate of Reactor Regulation
The Directorate is responsible for the regulation of power and research reactors, heavy water plants and for examining the qualifications of reactor operators. The Directorate consists of Power Reactor Divisions 'A' and 'B', Operator Certification Division, and the Studies and Codification Division.

■ Directorate of Fuel Cycle and Materials Regulation
The Directorate is responsible for the regulation of uranium mines and mills, refineries, and conversion plants; nuclear fuel fabrication plants; radioactive waste management facilities; accelerators; and the use of radioisotopes. Additional responsibilities of the Directorate include the analytical laboratory facilities and compliance inspection services, and regulating the transport packaging of radioactive materials. The Directorate consists of the uranium Facilities Division, the Waste Management Division, the Compliance Services and Laboratory Division, and the Radioisotope and Transportation Division.

■ Directorate of Research and Safeguards
The Directorate is responsible for the initiation and management of projects in the mission-oriented research and support program that is designed to provide information for use in the AECB's regulatory functions. The Directorate also administers the implementation of domestic and international nuclear materials safeguards programs, and the Canadian Safeguards Support Program. The Directorate consists of the Safeguards and Security Division, and the Research and Supports Divisions 'A' and 'B'.

■ Directorate of Analysis and Assessment
The Directorate is responsible for the detailed review and assessment of the arguments submitted by licensees (primarily for reactors) to demonstrate the safety of their designs, the adequacy of their quality assurance, and the protection from radiation hazards threatening both workers and the environments. The Directorate is also responsible for the development of standards and guidelines for radiation protection. The Directorate consists of the Safety Evaluation Division, the Components and Quality Assurance Division, and the Radiation Protection Division.

■ Directorate of Administration
The Directorate is responsible for the administration of the AECB's human, information, financial and physical resources. The Directorate consists of the Personnel Section, the Finance Section and the Information Management Section.

Bank of Canada
Chapter 5

General Information

Background

The Bank of Canada is Canada's central bank. It was incorporated in 1934 under the Bank of Canada Act which charges it with the responsibility to regulate "credit and currency in the best interests of the economic life of the nation, to control and protect the external value of the national monetary unit and to mitigate by its influence fluctuations in the general level of production, trade, prices and employment, so far as may be possible within the scope of monetary action, and generally to promote the economic and financial welfare of the Dominion."

Responsibility for the affairs of the Bank rests with a board of directors composed of the Governor, the senior deputy governor and 12 directors, appointed by the government for three-year terms. The Deputy Minister of Finance sits on the board but does not have the right to vote. The Governor is the chief executive officer of the Bank and handles the direction and control of the Bank's affairs.

Responsibilities

The primary function of the Bank of Canada is set out above. The Act also confers certain powers which, together with provisions in other legislation, enable the Bank to exercise a broad controlling influence over the growth of money and credit in Canada and thereby affect levels of spending and economic activity. Other responsibilities include acting as an adviser and as a fiscal agent to the Government of Canada in the receipt and disbursement of payments, in the operation of the Exchange Fund Account on behalf of the Minister of Finance, and in the issuance, administration and servicing of the government's outstanding debt. The Bank of Canada has the sole right to issue notes intended for circulation in Canada; the issue of coins is the responsibility of the Royal Canadian Mint.

- Bank of Canada Act
- Currency Act
- Financial Administration Act

Organization

■ Securities Department

This department has both operational and analytical duties. Its most important operational functions are to help implement monetary policy through adjustments in excess chartered bank cash reserves or through open market operations, and to issue Government of Canada securities treasury bills, marketable bonds and Canada Savings Bonds both domestically and abroad.

Its analytical function is to monitor conditions in financial markets, forecast key financial flows and study financial relationships relevant to securities markets. The results are communicated to the Bank's senior officers for their use in formulating monetary policy, advising government on matters related to debt management, and influencing the development of capital market structures appropriate to Canadian needs.

■ Research Department

This department's primary responsibility is to assess the significance of current economic developments and prospects in Canada and the United States and to keep Bank management fully informed about them. An aspect of this responsibility is to seek further understanding of the operation of the economy and of public policies which are, or could be, employed in an attempt to regulate it.

■ Department of Monetary and Financial Analysis

This department is responsible for monitoring and analyzing the behaviour of the chartered banks, other financial institutions and capital markets in response to monetary policy and other forces at work in the financial system.

■ International Department

The principal responsibilities of this department include the conduct of foreign exchange operations as fiscal agent for the government and the Bank, and analyses of current and prospective developments in exchange markets, the Canadian balance of payments, economic activity overseas and the international payments system.

■ Department of Banking Operations

The overall responsibility of the Department is to provide efficient and effective service to other central banks, international financial organizations, the Government of Canada, chartered banks, trust companies and all other financial organizations. Its responsibilities include the security and administration of valuables such as gold, securities and currency. The Department also provides fiscal functions for which the Bank of Canada acts as an agent for the Government of Canada. These functions include the clearing of government obligations and receiving deposits for the account of the Government of Canada. The Department has agencies or branches in Vancouver, Calgary, Regina, Winnipeg, Toronto, Ottawa, Montreal, Saint John and Halifax.

■ Public Debt Department

This department is responsible for the administration of direct and certain guaranteed debt issues of the Government of Canada. Its functions include obtaining and distributing supplies of debt certificates, the maintenance of registers and records for control purposes, the payment of interest and the retirement of the debt.

■ Comptroller's Department

The Comptroller's department is responsible for the internal financial functions of the Bank, such as the processing, monitoring and reporting of receipts and payments for management and statutory reporting requirements. These responsibilities involve the coordination of the annual planning budgeting exercise and subsequent control, processing payments for goods, services, payroll and unclaimed balances, recording transactions for administrative expenditures and market operations, accounting for and reporting the Bank's financial position, and keeping records of items in safekeeping.

■ Administrative Departments

The Secretary's department provides corporate secretary support to the Bank's Board of Directors and Management Committee. The department also responds to enquiries from the public, and provides specialized advice, information and support services internally. The department manages the Currency Museum, which displays artifacts from the National Currency Collection. Other administrative departments providing advice and services to support the management of the Bank are: the Audit, Automation Services, Personnel and Premises Management departments.

Unclaimed Bank Balance Inquiries

Description: This bank contains letters requesting verification of ownership of unclaimed bank balances as well as requests to purchase the Unclaimed Bank Balance file. Requests originate with individuals, chartered banks, trust companies, barristers and solicitors and tracing companies on behalf of their clients. Note: Canadian chartered banks are required to transfer all deposit accounts, maintained in Canadian currency, that have been inactive for a period of ten years or more to the Bank of Canada, in accordance with Section 438 of the Bank Act. This also includes all instruments (bank drafts, certified cheques, deposit receipts, money orders and travellers' cheques) that remain on the books of the chartered banks after a period of ten years from the date of issue. The Bank of Canada acts as a custodian for unclaimed bank balances, responds to general inquiries and claims, and makes payments, without fees, to those persons entitled to receive the proceeds. Balances with a value of less than $100.00 that remain unclaimed are kept for a period of twenty years, from the last date of transaction, then are transferred to the Receiver General for Canada. The accounts that represent a balance of $100.00 or more are kept indefinitely, or until claimed. It is not necessary to make a formal request for access to the register of dormant accounts; personal inquiries may be directed to the Payments Division, Comptroller's Department, or access to the complete file on microfiche may be arranged by contacting an agency of the Bank of Canada. Agencies are located in Vancouver, Calgary, Regina, Winnipeg, Toronto, Ottawa, Montreal, Saint John and Halifax, and are open to the public from 09:00 to 15:00, Monday through Friday. As well, these records are available for sale, on a cost recovery basis, on microfiche and certain magnetic media. Class of Individuals: General public. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to process requests, to compile statistics and to maintain a record of the results of the verification process. Consistent Uses: The information is used to respond to inquiries from owners of dormant accounts, or their authorized representatives in order to arrange for payments to rightful owners of these accounts. Retention and Disposal Standards: Positive responses to requests for verification of ownership are kept for seven years, then destroyed. Vouchers and supporting documentation regarding paid accounts under $1000 are kept for 10 years; for paid accounts $1000 and over, they are kept indefinitely. Negative responses to requests for verification of ownership are kept for three years, then destroyed. Records relating to the purchase of the unclaimed bank balance file are kept for a period of seven years, then destroyed. Related to PR#: BOC COM 340 TBS Registration: 000073 Bank Number: BOC PPU 020

Classes of Personal Information

General Correspondence and Enquiries

Correspondence received from external organizations and individuals including requests for information, complaints, comments and suggestions related to a broad range of policy issues pertaining to the Bank's activities.

The personal information contained in this class normally includes the name and address of the enquirer, however, this form of personal information exists in a fragmented form throughout the subject files and is normally retrievable only if specifics of name, subject and the date of communication are provided.

The retention periods of these classes of personal information are controlled by the record schedules of the general subject files in which they are stored.

Mailing Lists

This class contains correspondence and mailing lists which may contain personal information in the form of an individual's name, client number and, his or her home, business or mailing address.

The purpose of this class is to maintain standard lists for the mailing of publications, reports, press releases and other documentation on the Bank's activities and programs.

Paper records are kept for a period of three years, then destroyed. Records on the automated system are updated continuously as required and/or information is kept for two years on the system from the time a client becomes inactive.

Canada Council
Chapter 6

General Information

Background

The Canada Council was created by the Parliament of Canada in 1957 (Canada Council Act, 1957, RSC 1970 c-2, as amended). The mandate of the Canada Council (Section 8(1)) is "to foster and promote the study and enjoyment of, and the production of works in, the arts."

Responsibilities

The general policy objective of the Canada Council is to recognize, foster and promote excellence in the arts. Most of its grants are awarded through an extensive system of competitions judged by juries of practising artists and other independent specialists in the particular disciplines.

In addition to its mandate to foster and promote the arts, the Canada Council has been assigned responsibility for the Canadian Commission for the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) (Subsection 8(2), Order-in-Council PC 1957-831), in conformity with the constitution of UNESCO.

The Council also administers the Killam program of scholarly awards and prizes, financed from a private legacy. The Public Lending Right Commission, which provides payments to Canadian authors for the public use of their works in Canadian libraries, operates under the aegis of the Council.

Background

The Canada Deposit Insurance Corporation (CDIC) was established in 1967 by the Canada Deposit Insurance Corporation Act. The Corporation's primary role is to provide, for the benefit of persons having deposits in a bank, trust or loan company, insurance against the loss of all or part of their deposits to a maximum of $60,000 in the event of the failure of the member institution concerned. The definition of "deposit" may be summarized as moneys received by a member institution which it is obligated to repay on demand, or on a fixed or determinable date that is within five years from the date of the deposit. Deposits not payable in Canada or repayable in foreign currency are not insured. In the furtherance of its main function, the Corporation may, amongst other powers, acquire assets from, or make or guarantee loans to, or deposits with a member institution for the purpose of averting or reducing a threatened loss to the Corporation.

Responsibilities

The Corporation's primary role is set out above. The Corporation's secondary role includes examining the affairs of member institutions in order to obtain information for deposit insurance purposes (under legislation, the examination of member institutions is the responsibility of the Office of the Superintendent of Financial Institutions); acting as lender of last resort to provide short-term liquidation loans under specified authority; managing the acquired assets of member institutions and reducing the risk of loss to the Corporation by guaranteeing loans or deposits with a member institution. In addition, the Corporation acts as curator of a bank, or liquidator or receiver of a member institution; and manages, monitors and invests a deposit insurance fund and other funds accumulated from the operations of the Corporation.

Legislation

- Canada Deposit Insurance Corporation Act
- Canada Deposit Insurance Corporation General By-Law
- Co-operative Credit Associations Act
- Investment Companies Act
- Part X of the Financial Administration Act

Organization

■ Legal Services Unit

This Unit is responsible for providing legal counsel and advice in all legal matters affecting the Corporation. It also performs administrative duties assigned to it by the Board of Directors.

■ Internal Audit Unit

This Unit is responsible for an independent examination and review of internal controls, policies and procedures; systems and practices; their application; and the extent to which they protect the interests of the Corporation. The internal auditor develops and maintains this function in accordance with provisions related to Crown corporations as outlined in the Financial Administration Act.

■ Public Relations Unit

This Unit formulates and develops communication policies that will enable it to support and establish the priorities, policies, programs and activities of the Corporation. It must also communicate those policies to member institutions and the general public.

■ Human Resources Department

This Department is responsible for administering the Corporation's Human Resource Program and for coordinating related activities such as staffing, pay and benefits, training and development, counselling and the application of the Program's policies and procedures in a standard and consistent manner.

■ Information Systems Unit

This Unit is responsible for the development and the implementation of new applications and for the operation and maintenance of existing systems. All aspects of office automation and all computer systems fall under this unit.

■ Insurance and Risk Assessment Unit

The main responsibility of this Unit is for the effective operation of the insurance, member relations and risk assessment functions of the Corporation. It is also responsible for developing and establishing standards of sound business and financial practices, and determining practices that warrant a premium increase.

■ Field Operations – Intervention department

The primary functions of this Department are to develop systems and procedures for the conduct of intervention, and to manage the operations of a number of member accounts.

■ Operations Unit

This Unit is mainly responsible for the management and the administration of operations in the Ottawa and Toronto offices; for the coordination of the activities of the Real Estate Advisory Committee and the Credit Committee; for the development of all corporate plans, budgets, and reports; and for the management of the Corporation's finances and accounting services.

Canada Labour Relations Board
Chapter 8

General Information

Background

The original Canada Labour Relations Board (organized in 1948) was composed of members representing both management and labour appointed by the federal government to deal, on a part-time basis, with the orderly resolution of trade union representation disputes under the Industrial Relations and Disputes Investigation Act.

The Canada Labour Relations Board was established in its present form in 1972 by the amended Canada Labour Code (R.S.C. 1970, CL-1 as amended by S.C. 1972, c.18) and became effective March 1, 1973. The Board is a quasi-judicial body with statutory and regulatory powers pertaining to the administration of Part I of the Canada Labour Code dealing with industrial relations. The members of the Board are non-representational full -time appointees with experience and knowledge of industrial relations and labour law. As members of a non-partisan board they are prohibited from holding any other remunerated office or employment. In general, Part I of the Canada Labour Code charges the Board with a two-fold responsibility: that of granting, modifying and terminating bargaining rights, and that of resolving, through mediation or adjudication, complaints of unfair labour practice concerning violations of the Code by trade unions or employers.

Under Part II of the Code, the Board must, upon referral of a safety officer's decision, inquire into the circumstances giving rise to the decision and may confirm the decision or give any direction which the safety officer is entitled to give. The Board also rules on complaints by employees that they have been discriminated against or punished for exercising their rights in relation to safety.

Responsibilities

The Board's responsibility is set out above. On finding a violation of the Code, the Board is empowered to order reinstatement and compensation where appropriate. It is also empowered, upon application, to order employees to return to work in cases of illegal work stoppages and to attempt to resolve or adjudicate, where necessary, various other types of disputes that may arise under Part I of the Code.

Legislation

- Canada Labour Code (Parts I and II)
- Canada Labour Relations Board Regulations, 1978, SOR 78-499

Organization

The Board has a single program consisting of the administration and interpretation of certain sections of Part I and Part II of the Canada Labour Code. It is supported in this activity by investigation and mediation staff in offices located in Dartmouth, Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver, as well as at its headquarters in Ottawa.

Change of Terms and Conditions of Employment
Description: Application by employers under federal jurisdiction for permission to alter the rates of pay, or any other terms or conditions of employment, or any rights or privileges of employees who are the subject of an application by a trade union to represent the employees in collective bargaining. Program Record Number: CLR OPS 035

Collective Bargaining and Collective Agreements
Description: Applications concerning the existence of disputed collective agreements or the identification of parties bound by a collective agreement; applications concerning the failure of an employer to comply with obligations under a collective agreement respecting any proposed technological change; applications for permission to give the employer notice to begin collective bargaining following a notice of technological change; references from the Minister of Labour directing the Board to inquire into disputes related to the settlement of first collective agreements, and to impose a first agreement on the parties if necessary; applications by individuals who, because of religious beliefs, object to joining a trade union or to paying regular union dues to a trade union (The Board may allow an exception for such individuals, directing the amount normally paid for regular union dues to a registered charity chosen by the employee and the union.); applications by parties to a collective agreement to serve notice to bargain following the establishment of a portion of the public service as a Crown corporation and following certain determinations by the Board as to whether the agreement will remain in force, the expiration date if it does remain in force, whether the employees concerned constitute one or more units appropriate for collective bargaining, and which trade union shall be the bargaining agent for each unit. Topics: Determination of the existence of a collective agreement; revision of terms of collective agreement; technological change; leave to serve notice to bargain concerning technological change; provision of first agreement; religious objections; portion of the public service established as Crown corporation. Program Record Number: CLR OPS 030

Complaints of Unfair Labour Practice
Description: Complaints by persons or organizations that an employer, a trade union or a person has violated or failed to comply with provisions of the Canada Labour Code, Part I (Industrial Relations). Topics: Complaints related to failure to bargain in good faith, interference with the bargaining rights of a bargaining agent and changing of conditions of employment without the consent of the bargaining agent during the prescribed bargaining period; complaints alleging offences by employers such as interference with the formation or administration of a union or the representation of employees by a trade union, or discrimination against employees for union membership, union activity or the exercise of their rights under the Code; complaints alleging violations by trade unions such as trying to force an employer to bargain collectively in respect of employees for whom the union is not the bargaining agent, bargaining with an employer in respect of employees with the knowledge that another organization is the actual bargaining agent, interference in the formation or administration of an employer's organization, unauthorized soliciting of employees during their working hours at their place of employment, requiring the termination of an employee for loss of union membership unless that loss of membership is the result of failure to pay the required union fees, the application of membership rules or disciplinary procedures in a discriminatory manner, and discriminating against a person in matters related to employment or union membership because a person has exercised certain rights or fulfilled specified obligations under the Code; complaints alleging failure of a trade union to represent fairly all employees in the bargaining unit, or failure to establish rules for the referral of members to employment and apply the rules fairly, and alleging failure of a trade union to provide certified financial statements of its affairs to the end of its last fiscal year to any of its members free of charge. Program Record Number: CLR OPS 010

Review and Enforcement of Orders
Description: Applications to amend or rescind previous Board decisions or to reconsider previous decisions; requests to file Board orders in the federal court to give them the weight of an Order of the Court; or applications for the written consent of the Board to prosecute an offence under the Canada Labour Code. Topics: Application for review; filing of Board order in court; consent to prosecute. Program Record Number: CLR OPS 025

Safety of Employees
Description: Complaints by employees either alleging that their employer has imposed a penalty on them because they refused to work in accordance with their rights under Part II of the Canada Labour Code (Refusal to Work because of a Dangerous Situation, or requesting the Board to review a safety officer's decision concerning a refusal to work on grounds of a dangerous situation). Program Record Number: CLR OPS 020

Unlawful Work Stoppage
Description: Applications by an employer (in the case of a strike) or by a trade union (in the case of a lockout) for a declaration that the work stoppage is unlawful and for an order returning employees to work. Topics: Applications concerning unlawful strikes; applications in cases of unlawful lockout. Program Record Number: CLR OPS 015

Personal Information Banks

Religious Objections
Description: This bank contains applications by individuals who, because of religious beliefs, object to joining a trade union or to paying regular union dues to a trade union. The Board may order that a provision in a collective agreement requiring membership in a trade union or the payment of union dues as a condition of employment, not be applied to such employees. Class of Individuals: Individuals who work for companies under federal jurisdiction, as set out in the Canada Labour Code. Purpose: Personal information is obtained solely for the purpose of determining whether an employee's objections to membership in a trade union are based on true religious convictions. Consistent Uses: Religious objections may occasionally require a public hearing to determine complex issues which could affect the Board's decision regarding the objections. Such a hearing may result in the publication of a written judgement containing the facts surrounding the application and the Board's reasons for granting, or rejecting, the application. Retention and Disposal Standards: Simple cases (i.e., those that are withdrawn or settled without the holding of a public hearing) are kept for two years and then destroyed. Other cases are kept by the Board for 10 years, and then transferred to the National Archives of Canada for selective retention. Related to PR#: CLR OPS 030 TBS Registration: 002331 Bank Number: CLR PPU 015

Termination of Bargaining Rights

Description: This bank contains case files concerning applications for revocation of certifications which grant bargaining agents (unions) the right to represent employees in collective bargaining with employers in the federal jurisdiction. Class of Individuals: Individuals who work for companies under federal jurisdiction, as set out in the Canada Labour Code. Purpose: Personal information is obtained solely for the purpose of determining whether an individual is a member of the bargaining unit and therefore entitled to express support for or against his or her bargaining agent. Consistent Uses: Applications for revocation may occasionally require a public hearing in order to determine complex issues which could affect the Board's decision and may result in the publication of a written judgement which will contain the facts surrounding the application and the Board's reasons for granting or rejecting it. Retention and Disposal Standards: Files are kept for five years for successful applications and three years for unsuccessful applications, then transferred to the National Archives of Canada for selective retention. Cases which are withdrawn are destroyed after two years. PAC Number: 84-015 Related to PR#: CLR OPS 005 TBS Registration: 000102 Bank Number: CLR PPU 010

Violations of the Canada Labour Code

Description: This bank contains case files concerning complaints by individuals that a section, or sections, of the Canada Labour Code, Parts I and II have been violated by their employer, their union, or another individual. Files may contain information on grievances, work records, or letters from unions or employers containing opinions or comments about individuals. Class of Individuals: Individuals who work for companies under federal jurisdiction, as set out in the Canada Labour Code. Purpose: Information about individuals is obtained solely for the purpose of bringing about a settlement to the dispute or, failing settlement, for the purpose of adjudication by the Board on the merits of the complaint. Consistent Uses: Information contained in case files, along with testimony given at public hearings may be published in written judgements which set out the Board's reasons for rejecting or upholding a complaint. Personal information is used solely for the purpose of settling or deciding on the merits of each case and is published solely for the purpose of explaining the Board's reasons for its decision and its policy in like cases. Retention and Disposal Standards: Case files are kept for five years if successful and three years if unsuccessful, and are then transferred to the National Archives of Canada for selective retention. Settled cases are kept for the minimum two years required and then destroyed. PAC Number: 84-015 Related to PR#: CLR OPS 010 TBS Registration: 000101 Bank Number: CLR PPU 005

Classes of Personal Information

Other Personal Information Banks

Other case files and subject files held by operational services may contain personal information such as names of individuals, addresses, position titles, job descriptions, salaries, and membership in a trade union. The information is not retrievable by personal identifiers and is collected solely for the purpose of administering the Canada Labour Code. All files are organized by file number and are maintained by operational services at headquarters in Ottawa. Regional offices retain duplicate files for the purposes of investigation until the settlement of a case. Some personal information such as job descriptions and salaries may be published in written judgements where it is pertinent to the background of a case in which the Canada Labour Relations Board decides its decision requires formal elaboration. Such information is usually the result of testimony given at public hearings.

Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation
Chapter 10

General Information

Background

Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation (CMHC) was incorporated as a Crown corporation in January, 1946, by an Act of Parliament. CMHC has authority to act for the Government of Canada in all matters prescribed under the Housing Acts, principally the National Housing Act (NHA). CMHC reports to Parliament through a designated Minister. Its affairs are managed by a board of directors consisting of the chairman of the board, the President, a designated senior vice-president, five members from the public at large and two members from the public service, all appointed by the Governor-in-Council.

Responsibilities

The functions of CMHC, as stated in the National Housing Act, are to promote the construction of new houses, the repair and modernization of existing housing, and the improvement of housing and living conditions. Some of these programs have been used to further government objectives such as economic growth, job creation and energy conservation. CMHC activities are grouped into four components: Government Programs, Administered Funds, Asset Administration and Services to Others.

Legislation

- Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation Act
- Financial Administration Act
- National Housing Act and Regulations

Canada-Newfoundland Offshore Petroleum Board

Chapter 11

General Information

Background

The Canada-Newfoundland Offshore Petroleum Board was established jointly by the Canada-Newfoundland Atlantic Accord Implementation Act, S.C. 1987, c.3 and by the Canada-Newfoundland Atlantic Accord Implementation Newfoundland Act, R.S.N. 1990, c.C-2.

Responsibilities

The Board administers as a regulatory body all petroleum activities within the Newfoundland Offshore area in accordance with the provisions of the Canada-Newfoundland Atlantic Accord Implementation Act as enacted by the Parliament of Canada and the Legislature of Newfoundland and Labrador, and other relevant legislation.

Legislation

- Canada-Newfoundland Atlantic Accord Implementation Act, S.C. 1987, c.3
- Canada-Newfoundland Atlantic Accord Implementation Newfoundland Act, R.S.N. 1990, c.C-2

Organization

The Board consists of seven members. Three members are appointed by the federal government, three by the provincial government and the chairman is appointed by both the federal and the provincial governments.

■ The Executive Committee

The Executive Committee manages the day-to-day activities of the Board. It comprises the Chairman and all of the vice-chairmen.

■ Administration Department

This Department provides administrative, financial, human resource, and computer services to the Board.

■ Industrial Benefits Department

This Department provides advice to the Board concerning the administration of the Canada-Newfoundland benefits plan provisions of the legislation, including provisions related to domestic procurement, employment, project management, research and development, education and training, and employment equity.

■ Legal Services Department

This Department is responsible for providing legal and land advice and services to the Board. Land matters include the issuance of exploration rights through calls for bids; and the administration of exploration, significant discovery and production licenses.

■ Exploration Department

This Department is responsible for evaluating the undiscovered petroleum resource potential of the Board's area of jurisdiction; evaluating results of exploratory drilling; determining significant discovery areas; maintaining a geological and geophysical database and keeping well history reports, cuttings, cores and fluid samples.

■ Operations and Safety Department

This Department is responsible for reviewing and providing recommendations regarding the approval of offshore petroleum exploration, development and production activities; reviewing operators' emergency response plans; monitoring offshore petroleum activities; conducting safety audits and inspections related to procedures, training and equipment; administering and making recommendations regarding the drafting of regulations, their standards and guidelines; monitoring any conditions of approval; coordinating with other agencies as required; and providing status reports of offshore petroleum activities.

■ Environmental Affairs Department

This Department assesses environmental effects; administers and advises on environmental protection regulations and guidelines; establishes and monitors compliance with physical environment and effluent treatment requirements; coordinates with other environmental agencies; and reviews operators' environmental emergency contingency plans.

■ Reservoir Engineering Department

This Department is responsible for oil and gas conservation; assessing discovered resources and productive capacities; administering regulations concerning exploitation schemes for depletion of oil and gas pools, reservoir data acquisition and production rate limitation; reviewing and providing recommendations on well evaluation programs, development plans for oil and gas fields, production accounting procedures and testing programs; maintaining the reservoir database; evaluating conservation and enhanced recovery projects; monitoring field performance; and conducting reservoir performance studies.

Canada-Nova Scotia Offshore Petroleum Board
Chapter 12

General Information

Background

The Canada-Nova Scotia Offshore Petroleum Board was established in 1990 as a joint federal-provincial agency pursuant to the federal Canada-Nova Scotia Offshore Petroleum Resources Accord Implementation Act and the provincial Canada-Nova Scotia Offshore Petroleum Resources Accord Implementation (Nova Scotia) Act. These Acts brought into law the principles established in a 1986 agreement between the federal government and Nova Scotia relating to offshore petroleum resources. The Board has offices in Halifax and Dartmouth, Nova Scotia.

Responsibilities

The Board administers activities related to oil and gas exploration, development and production within the Nova Scotia offshore area. It issues licences under which oil and gas rights are held and approves specific works and activities thereunder. The Board also maintains a public registry of licences, curates samples and geological and geophysical information (which is made available to the public following a statutory confidentiality period), and compiles and develops information on petroleum resources within the Nova Scotia offshore area.

Legislation

- Canada-Nova Scotia Offshore Petroleum Resources Accord Implementation Act, S.C. 1988, c. 28.
- Canada-Nova Scotia Offshore Petroleum Resources Accord Implementation (Nova Scotia) Act, S.N.S. 1987, c. 3.

Organization

The Board consists of five members who are appointed for fixed terms of office. The Government of Canada and the Government of Nova Scotia each appoint two members, one of whom may be a civil servant in each case. The Chairman is jointly appointed by both governments. The Chairman also acts on a full time basis as Chief Executive Officer and is responsible for a staff of fifteen people.

■ Offshore Petroleum Resources

This Department is responsible for assessing discovered petroleum resources and evaluating the undiscovered petroleum resource potential of the Nova Scotia offshore area; recommending lands for disposition through calls for bids (including the terms and conditions of calls for bids and licences); administering licences under which oil and gas rights are held and maintaining a public registry of such licences; evaluating the results of geological and geophysical surveys and exploratory and development drilling; determining areas to be designated as significant discoveries or commercial discoveries; archiving geological, geophysical and well history reports; and curating cuttings, cores and fluid samples.

■ Offshore Operations

This Department is responsible for providing recommendations regarding the approval of plans, programs and specific activities related to exploration, development or production; monitoring any conditions of approval; conducting audits and inspections related to procedures, training and equipment; certifying divers and other diving personnel; reviewing operators' emergency response plans; and monitoring and providing status reports on offshore petroleum activities. It is also responsible for conserving oil and gas resources; assessing the productive capacities of wells; monitoring field performance and conducting reservoir performance studies; and administering regulations concerning production schemes, production rate limitations and the acquisition of reservoir data.

■ Environmental Affairs

This Department assesses the environmental effects of offshore operations as well as risks to offshore operations arising from the physical environment. It administers and advises on environmental protection regulations and guidelines, establishes and monitors compliance with physical environment and effluent treatment requirements, coordinates with other environmental agencies, and reviews operators' environmental emergency contingency plans.

■ Administration, Industrial Benefits and Legal

This Department provides administrative, financial, human resources and legal services to the Board. The Department is responsible for the Board's external communications, including publications and public relations. The Department also administers statutory requirements concerning employment and industrial benefits plans.

Canada Ports Corporation
Chapter 13

General Information

Background

Canada Ports Corporation was established in 1983 pursuant to the Canada Ports Corporation Act. This Act amended the National Harbours Board Act of 1936, the Government Harbours and Piers Act and the 1964 Harbour Commission Act. Reporting to Parliament through the Minister of Transport, Canada Ports Corporation is a Schedule III, Part II Crown Corporation under the Financial Administration Act.

Since 1983, pursuant to the Canada Ports Corporation Act, the ports of St. John's, Halifax, Saint John, Quebec, Montreal, Vancouver, and Prince Rupert have met the criteria of national and regional significance and financial viability and have been established as local port corporations. These too are Schedule III, Part II Crown Corporations.

Divisional ports, which are directly administered by the Canada Ports Corporation, are located in Belledune, New Brunswick; Saguenay, Baie des Ha! Ha!, Sept-Iles and Trois-Rivières, Quebec; Prescott and Port Colborne, Ontario; and, Churchill, Manitoba.

Responsibilities

Canada Ports Corporation is responsible for administering its ports under a common objective and ensuring that they meet the federal government's responsibility for national ports and the optimum deployment of resources. Canada Ports Corporation shares, with other marine components, the broad objective of attending to the development and operation of a safe and efficient national marine transportation system.

Canada Ports Corporation is also responsible for ensuring that ongoing maintenance, upgrading and major expansions to port facilities and infrastructure will provide enhanced services to port users, on a competitive and cost-effective basis, both for domestic and international customers.

Legislation

- Canada Ports Corporation Act, R.S.C. 1985, chapter C-9
- Canada Ports Corporation Administrative By-law, P.C. 1983-1653, 2 June 1983
- National Harbours Board Harbour Dues Tariff By-law, C.R.C. Vol. XII, chapter 1063 and as amended thereafter

Canada Post Corporation
Chapter 14

General Information

NOTE: CANADA POST CORPORATION IS NOT SUBJECT TO THE ACCESS TO INFORMATION ACT.

Background

Canada Post is a federal Crown corporation, established by the Canada Post Corporation Act on October 16, 1981. It collects, processes and delivers mail across Canada, and between Canada and more than 165 other countries around the world. The Corporation delivers 10.44 billion messages and parcels annually to nearly 12 million addresses in rural and urban Canada. Products and services are marketed through a network of almost 19,000 points of sale, more than 75% of which are operated by private businesses.

Canada Post, with approximately 55,000 full and part-time employees, has the third largest work force in Canada outside of government and, with approximately $4 billion in annual revenue, is a large and important part of the transportation and communications sectors of the Canadian economy.

In the course of doing business, Canada Post maintains and uses records of employees, contractors, customers and others. The Corporation places a high value on the protection and propriety of such personal information: employee access to their records and customer confidentiality are longstanding traditions.

Personal Information Banks

■ Mail Operations

Delivery Control Systems
Description: This bank contains delivery records for signature services (Registered and Security Registered, Cash on Delivery, Insured Mail with Proof of Delivery, Priority Courier); change of address notifications/hold mail request forms; directories or lists of customers used to ensure the accurate delivery of mail and the provision of related services (e.g., Community Mailbox, Group Mailbox and Rural Mailbox Delivery and Electronic Mail) and related correspondence. These records contain such information on customers as name, fees paid, present address, previous address, effective dates, signature and proof of identity (when needed in picking up mail and when filing a change of address notification). Limited account information exists in automated form in the Priority Courier Track and Trace and Electronic Mail systems. Class of Individuals: Customers who subscribe to, or receive, postal signature services, submit a redirection/hold mail application or reside in areas requiring name/address lists to effect postal delivery. Purpose: The records are used to support the provision of postal services, including signature mail services; to control the redirection or holding of mail; to ensure accurate mail delivery where delivery service has changed or is difficult; to facilitate the reconciliation and audit of accounts; and to respond to inquiries or claims (see also Customer Service, CPC PPU 030). Electronic name and address lists and related information received from volume mailers are used in creating and addressing Lettermail Plus and Admail Plus items for subsequent delivery. Consistent Uses: Redirection records are also used to correct the mailing lists of large volume mailers where such mailers are using a previous or incorrect address. Change of address notifications are automated for the purpose of producing new address labels, as well as to download information into the National Change of Address database (see CPC PPU 002). Address information is also disclosed to government institutions under certain circumstances in order to facilitate the collection of Crown debts or the making of Crown payments (see CPC PPU 120 and CPC PPU 090). Retention and Disposal Standards: Signature service records are retained for a maximum of two years after the year of delivery and are then destroyed, with the exception of certain financial records, which are retained for seven years. As a convenience to customers, Electronic Mail data are retained under strict security for six months and are then deleted. Change of address/hold mail records are retained for six months after the termination of service and are then destroyed. Directories and lists are updated continuously and destroyed when superseded or obsolete. TBS Registration: 002558 Bank Number: CPC PPU 001

National Change of Address System
Description: This bank contains a mover's previous and new address, the length and dates for which redirection services have been purchased, and records concerning participation in related services available to movers and mailers. Class of Individuals: All subscribers to the redirection of mail service and additional address notification services. Purpose: The NCOA system is designed to facilitate the redirection of mail. Consistent Uses: This new system contains data drawn from all Change of Address Notification forms submitted since January 1993. Activity to date is limited to populating the database, confirming the date's accuracy, and to seeking mover authority to provide their new address to those mailers already having the mover's name and old address. Retention and Disposal Standards: A retention/disposal schedule is under development. TBS Registration: 003294 Bank Number: CPC PPU 002

■ Stamps & Philately

Designer References

Description: This bank contains such information as subject suggestions and enquiries, general correspondence, résumés, samples of work (usually reproduced on 35mm slides) and, if applicable, letters of commission. Individuals seeking access to this bank should provide name and date of previous submission. (Note that stamp subject suggestions may also be stored in Corporate Correspondence, CPC PPU 100, and payment records concerning commissioned designs are also stored in Accounts Payable, CPC PPU 060.) Class of Individuals: Canadian designers, artists, illustrators, photographers and others who have indicated their interest in being considered for a postage stamp design commission and whose work has been judged suitable by the Stamp Advisory Committee. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide a visual reference file of the work of Canadian designers and professional artists who could be considered for a postage stamp design commission. Consistent Uses: The records are used to consider possible designers to be commissioned to submit design proposals for new stamp issues. Retention and Disposal Standards: Samples of work are returned to designers upon request. Records regarding rejected solicitations are retained for two years after the year of rejection and then destroyed. Records relating to commissioned stamp designers are retained for ten years and then transferred to National Archives of Canada. If the records are judged by the National Archivist to be of historical/archival value, they are retained permanently. PAC Number: 88-007 TBS Registration: 001330 Bank Number: CPC PPU 025

Philatelic Customers

Description: This bank contains information in both paper and automated form such as customer enquiries and mailing lists, coded to include special areas of interest, as well as invoices, funds on deposit, credit card numbers, order history, survey responses, and other sales records. A list of former customers who have issued bad cheques is also retained. Individuals seeking access to this bank should provide as many details as possible, such as name, address, subject matter, dates and account numbers. Class of Individuals: Canada Post's national and international customers of philatelic products, sponsors of stamp clubs and those who have expressed an interest. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support the sale and distribution of philatelic products and related promotional material. Consistent Uses: The records are used to support philatelic sales and subscription services; to assist in the presentation of philatelic exhibits; to generate particular lists of customers/subscribers (for example, by area of interest); to control inventory; and for market research purposes, such as the identification of promotional needs and opportunities. Retention and Disposal Standards: Financial records are retained for six years after last administrative use, which is usually payment for and mailing of philatelic products. Classes of Personal Information

Administrative Records

Certain information provided by or about individuals may also be found in administrative records, such as general correspondence and organizational planning files, minutes of committee meetings, library loan and distribution lists, fixed asset inventory control reports, audit reports and evaluations, video recordings and records relating to visits and conferences involving officials of other postal authorities.

Marketing and Sales

This class includes Postage Meter Services and marketing information such as market research studies, various coded mailing lists, market surveys and test reports concerning householders and other Canada Post customers (for example, large volume mailers). The records include correspondence, reports, accounts of sales calls and other meetings with customers, which may contain the names, titles and business addresses of company representatives, as well as profiles of key executives. These records are used for business purposes only, namely to identify customer needs and perceptions and to help make marketing decisions related to product and service mix, price and promotion. Canada Post also temporarily retains certain records which may contain personal information under arrangements with customers and business partners. These records assist in the preparation of account development strategies for national and divisionally managed accounts. Such records are not under the Corporation's sole control and may not be accessed without the prior consent of the customer or business partner involved. Note also that claims and enquiries related to collection and delivery services have been indexed and described as a Canada Post information bank (see Customer Service, CPC PPU 030). Certain records are held in electronic form in the following systems: Cash Receipts, Money Order Information, Canadian Wildlife Service, National Accounts and Marketing Mailing List.

Undeliverable Mail

This class of records includes lettermail and parcels that, for any cause, cannot be delivered to the addressee or returned to the sender. This includes mail that cannot be delivered for legal reasons, and mail that is refused by the addressee or on which postage due is not paid by the sender on demand. The treatment of this mail is governed by the Undeliverable Mail Regulations. Undeliverable mail is opened to facilitate delivery to addressee or return to sender. Undeliverable admail is not returned to the sender or forwarded to an addressee unless it bears a specific request for return or redirection to another address, or has obvious value. Undeliverable international mail is returned to the country of origin unless marked abandoned, in which case it is treated in the same manner as domestic mail. When undeliverable mail of no obvious value does not contain sufficient information to permit the mail to be returned to the sender or forwarded to the addressee, it is destroyed. Where the mail contains cash or merchandise the cash is deposited to the credit of Canada Post Corporation and the merchandise is sold or otherwise disposed of in a manner approved by the Corporation.

Corporate Security

This class includes information detailing complaints received by Corporate Security and the remedial action undertaken. The records are chronologically ordered and thus not retrievable by individual identifier. They include occurrence reports which contain the name, address and phone number of the complainant, the names of the other parties involved, the name of the investigating officer and details concerning causes and remedial action. Should the enquiry result in a suspicion of a postal-related crime or offence, or a Criminal Code offence involving the mail, a file number is added to the occurrence report which is transferred to personal information bank Postal Related Crimes/Offenses (see CPC PPU 085, or CPC PPE 824). Otherwise, the occurrence reports are retained for two years, at which time they are destroyed. The purpose of such retention is to allow for statistical analyses and quality control.

Additional Information

Please see the INTRODUCTION to this publication for information on access procedures under the provisions of the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act.

Records contained within information banks are limited to relevant data subjects. For example, if an individual has never bid on nor been awarded a contract with Canada Post, no record of that individual would exist in the applicable contract bank.

To facilitate access and record retrieval, specific details should be provided, such as those outlined in individual bank descriptions.

If Canada Post exempts any information, the individual refused access is provided with the precise reasons for the exemption and the applicable appeal procedures.

Records are routinely destroyed when their useful life expires; thus, access requests for older records may prove unsuccessful. Individuals are encouraged to seek informal access to their records – employees via their supervisors, and customers, contractors and others via the Canada Post officials with whom they have been dealing.

Canadian Advisory Council on the Status of Women
Chapter 15

General Information

Background

Established in 1973, the Canadian Advisory Council on the Status of Women (CACSW) is composed of 30 members appointed by the federal government to bring before the government and the public matters of interest and concern to women, and to advise the Minister responsible for the Status of Women on such topics.

The Council has 27 members appointed for specific terms, with representation from all the provinces and territories, plus a full-time president and two vice-presidents. Council meetings are held at least twice a year in Ottawa.

Responsibilities

In addressing itself to the concerns of all Canadian women, the 30 members of the Council bring forward the particular problems of their regions. Research and background material provide the base upon which Council recommendations are made following deliberation by members at general meetings.

Recommendations for change in legislation and for other measures to improve the status of women are presented to the government through the Minister responsible. The Council has the unique right and responsibility to inform the public of its recommendations at the same time as it reports to Parliament. Council activities – briefs, speeches, responses to current events, open communication with the public. Maintain an awareness of the inequalities facing women in Canadian society today.

Legislation

- Order in Council PC 1976-781

Organization

The Council's vice-presidents are responsible for specific regions, while the president retains overall responsibility for the operations of the Council. There are regional offices located in Calgary and Montreal. At the central office in Ottawa, three directors have specific responsibilities for research, communications and administration and, along with their staff, support ongoing Council activities across the country.

Canadian Centre for Management Development
Chapter 16

General Information

Background

On April 14, 1988, the Prime Minister announced the creation of the Canadian Centre for Management Development (CCMD), dedicated to excellence in teaching and research into public sector management, enhancing public sector management capabilities, and promoting a strong corporate culture in the federal public service. On March 27, 1991, new legislation entitled Canadian Centre for Management Development Act (Bill C-34) received Royal Assent and the act was officially proclaimed on December 1, 1991.

The Act provides for the creation of a departmental corporation operating at arm's length from the government under the general direction of a Board of Governors. The composition of the Board is to be equally divided between public and non-public sector (academic and business) representatives. The Clerk of the Privy Council is the Chairman of the Board. Among other public sector representatives, the Secretary of the Treasury Board, the Chairman of the Public Service Commission and the Principal of the Centre are ex officio governors.

Responsibilities

The Centre focuses on the orientation, training and development of senior managers in the federal sector. It also has a capability to undertake public management research including the development of teaching cases to enhance and broaden the range of management courses offered by the federal government. There are two campuses in the National Capital Region (NCR) as well as a regional office in Edmonton, Alberta. One of the NCR campuses is located at Gatineau (Touraine), Quebec; the other is situated in the historic Lasalle Academy on Sussex Drive in downtown Ottawa. Courses are also offered at existing facilities in most regions of Canada.

The primary clientele of the Centre includes all members of the Executive Group, Deputy Ministers, Senior Governor-in-Council appointees, managers from the Employment Equity groups at one level below the Executive Group and, managers selected for the Career Assignment Program, the Management Trainee Program and Interchange Canada.

Legislation

- Canadian Centre for Management Development Act

Organization

Office of the Principal

The Principal of the Centre is appointed by the Governor-in-Council and has the rank and status of a deputy minister. The Principal is the Chief Executive Officer of the Centre and has control over the form and content of programs, studies and publications of the Centre, the appointment of staff, the contracting for services and any other authority normally exercised by a deputy head pursuant to a statute or delegated authority. The Principal now also has responsibilities related to Public Service Renewal. By way of a PS2000 Coordinators' Committee, the Principal regularly receives input from departments on how to maintain innovation and continued progress in the implementation of values and objectives of renewal as stated under the Public Service Reform Act. The other positions reporting to the Principal are listed below.

Executive Development Programs Group

The Vice-Principal, Executive Development Programs is responsible for the provision of mandatory and residential management orientation courses and optional non-residential courses, seminars and workshops to members of the Executive Group at all levels, and the educational component of the Career Assignment Program (CAP) and of the Management Trainee Program. This area is also responsible for the registration of participants to all programs offered by the Centre.

Advanced Management Program

The Associate Vice-Principal, Advanced Management Program (AMP) is responsible for the delivery of the AMP to the top ranks of the public service at the level of ADM and above.

Research Group

The Vice-Principal, Research is responsible for the conduct and publication of research projects on a wide range of public sector management issues and concerns, the management of contributions given to a variety of management organizations and associations, the administration of a fellowship program for senior public and private sector officials and academics, the Case Study program and the Management Resource Centre.

RADIAN

RADIAN is responsible for providing optional Distance Learning and Business Communications products and services on a full cost-recovery basis to the public sector, including other levels of government and educational institutions. The Chief Operating Officer reports directly and is accountable to the Principal of CCMD.

Negotiation, Consultation and Conflict Management

This group delivers training programs in conflict management and also provides consulting services in relation to specific negotiation and conflict situations. The group works closely with the Conflict Management Group (CMG) of Cambridge, Mass. which is associated with the Project on Negotiation at Harvard University.

International Activities

The Coordinator of International Activities handles requests for teaching outside of Canada and coordinates visits with CIDA, IPAC and others of representatives from outside the country who are interested in learning more about public sector management issues and concerns are treated here.

Management Services

The Executive Director of Management Services is responsible for the provision of all tasks related to Corporate Services, Human Resources Management, Finance, Administration and Automation at the Centre.

Communications and Marketing/Business Centre

The Director General of Communications and Marketing is responsible for market research and analysis, the preparation of publicity on the Centre to its client population and outside organizations, the relations with the media, and the publication of the Annual Report.

The Business Centre operates as a professional management development consulting team to CCMD's clientele to meet their present and future management development needs and to construct an integrated, inter-active relationship with them.

Canadian Centre for Occupational Health and Safety
Chapter 17

General Information

Background

The Canadian Centre for Occupational Health and Safety (CCOHS) is a corporation under Schedule II of the Financial Administration Act, created by Parliament in April, 1978 to promote the rights of Canadians to a healthy and safe working environment. It is governed by a Council of Governors representing labour, employers and federal, provincial and territorial governments.

Responsibilities

CCOHS promotes a healthier and safer workplace by providing a free occupational health and safety inquiries service to Canadians in both official languages while achieving self-sufficiency through the revenue generating services as a not-for-profit organization. The revenue generating service includes publications, training packages, an online electronic service (CCINFO) that connects users to CCOHS' computer in Hamilton and a compact disc service. CCINFOdisc, consisting of a series of 6 compact discs which are updated quarterly, contains material safety data sheets of trade name chemicals, and other chemical and general health and safety data bases.

Five new specialized compact discs are also offered containing full text publications, complete with graphics, multi-media training packages and full text OH&S legislation.

Four membership options from $100 to $500 are offered to organizations which are interested in supporting the Canadian Centre for Occupational Health and Safety and promoting the fundamental right of all Canadians to a healthy and safe workplace.

Legislation

- Canadian Centre for Occupational Health and Safety Act
- Financial Administration Act, Schedule II

Organization

CCOHS is a corporation under Schedule II of the Financial Administration Act. Its policies are established by the Council of Governors, which consists of a chairman and 12 representatives from labour, employers' organizations and the federal, provincial and territorial governments. It meets three times a year in Hamilton. The Chairman is elected annually from among the Council of Governors. The President and Chief Executive Officer supervises and directs the work and staff of the Centre.

The program is delivered on an inter-disciplinary project team system. There are four directorates through which the program is delivered.

Inquiries Service:
Responds directly to oral or written inquiries from the public.

Project Development and Coordination:
The market-driven project teams that constitute the driving force for the products and services offered by the Centre.

Operations Support:
Provides the support services and other services necessary for the effective operation of the Centre, and coordinates and monitors the national marketing and sales plan.

Comptroller:
Provides centralized planning and financial control.

CCINFO
CCINFO is CCOHS' computerized information service which consists of two distinct modes of delivery – CCINFOdisc and CCINFOline: CCINFOdisc the delivery through CD-ROM (compact disc read-only memory); provides data bases; CCINFOline – the delivery through a telecommunications link to CCOHS' central computer, provides access to data bases.

There are three additional specialized CD-ROM discs containing information on publications, training and legislation: 1) Publications Disc – containing the full text of CCOHS and other national and international publications with accompanying graphics; 2) Training Disc – consisting of multi-media training packages with colour, graphics animation and interactive features; and, 3) Legislation Disc – containing the full text of Canadian occupational health and safety Acts and regulations.

There are five chemical information data bases which respond to the right to know about the hazards posed by chemicals in the workplace. They are: 1) MSDS Data Base focuses on material safety data sheets for trade-named products; 2) CHEMINFO (Chemical Information) supplies detailed information on chemicals and their safe usage; 3) RTECS (a registered trademark of the National Institute for Occupational Health and Safety) is a Registry of Toxic Effects of Chemical Substances, an annual compendium of toxicity data extracted from the scientific literature by NIOSH;

4) REGULATORY INFORMATION ON PESTICIDE PRODUCTS identifies and describes products registered in Canada under the Pest Control Products (PCP) Act, and is produced by Agriculture Canada; and, 5) TRANSPORT OF DANGEROUS GOODS (TDG)/HAZARDOUS MATERIALS (49CFR) is a data base giving regulatory information for the packaging and shipping of substances with recognized shipping names.

Three additional data bases also contain chemical information: 1) PRIS (PEST MANAGEMENT RESEARCH INFORMATION SYSTEM) consists of six data bases covering many aspects of pest control product development, from first introduction in Canada for research up to registration; produced by Agriculture Canada; 2) CESARS (Chemical Evaluation Search and Retrieval System) contains information on chemicals of environmental concern; jointly produced by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (MDNR) and the Ontario Ministry of the Environment (MOE); and, 3) DOMESTIC/NON-DOMESTIC SUBSTANCES LIST (DSL/NDSL) lists substances manufactured or imported into Canada; in Canadian commerce, or used for commercial manufacturing purposes in Canada, under specific criteria, as well as substances not on the DSL, but believed to be in international commerce, although not yet in Canada.

Three data bases on resources describe people and organizations active in Canadian occupational health and safety, and current research projects in the field: 1) STUDIES is a directory of recent Canadian studies in the field of occupational health and safety; 2) ORGS lists Canadian organizations involved in the field of occupational health and safety; and, 3) PERSONS provides a directory of Canadians involved in the field of occupational health and safety.

Two other data bases contain Canadian legal information on occupational health and safety: 1) CASE LAW, a collection of summaries of occupational health and safety cases and decisions from jurisdictions across Canada; and, 2) FATALITY REPORTS, a data base containing information from reports on occupationally related fatalities.

Other data bases accessible through CCINFO:

– CANADIANA (OSH) is a bibliographic data base of documents on occupational health and safety produced in Canada, by Canadians or on Canadian topics.

– ESSENTIALS provides references to publications selected as essential to answer questions on a specific topic in occupational health and safety.

– NOISE LEVELS is a direct-information data base providing numerical data on noise levels relating to different types of machinery used for specific occupations in various industries.

– NON-IONIZING RADIATION LEVELS is a data base containing non-ionizing radiation measurements of specific types of equipment used in a variety of industries and occupations.

– MINING INCIDENTS describes occupational health and safety incidents in mining; developed in co-operation with the Chief Inspectors of Mines Association.

– AIDSCAN for Health Care Workers, created by Ryerson Polytechnical Institute, is a bibliographic data base of documents on working safely with AIDS patients; the physical and psychosocial aspects of care; and the educational or other special projects in which health care workers might be involved.

– DIRECTORY OF OCCUPATIONAL SAFETY AND HEALTH LEGISLATION IN CANADA lists occupational health and safety legislation as made available to the Federal-Provincial Relations Branch of Labour Canada, and is provided by Labour Canada.

– INRS-BIBLIOGRAPHIE, a French-language bibliographic data base covering the international scientific and technical literature available on occupational health and safety; provided by the Institut national de recherche et de sécurité (INRS) in France.

– INET – RESEARCH PROJECTS (INRS), an international directory of research projects that are planned or currently underway on the prevention of occupational risks; produced by the Institut national de recherche et de sécurité (INRS) in France.

– INOR – ORGANIZATIONS (INRS), an international directory of organizations that conduct research on the prevention of occupational risk, whether or not this is their main activity; produced by the Institut national de recherche et de sécurité (INRS) in France.

– DIDS (Document Information Directory System), a listing of NIOSH publications and reports which can be ordered from NIOSH, the US Government Printing Office (GPO) or the National Technical Information Service (NTIS); provided by NIOSH.

– STANDARDS AND DIRECTORIES is a directory of standards, certified products' directories, PLUS products and other miscellaneous information products published by the CSA (Canadian Standards Association).

– CIS/ILO was created by the Centre d'informations de sécurité et de santé au travail of the International Labour Office in Geneva. CIS/ILO is a bilingual, bibliographic data base on publications in occupational health and safety worldwide.

– NIOSHTIC, developed by the U.S. National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health, is a bibliographic data base with international coverage of publications in occupational health and safety.

– SOLUTIONS, consist of solutions which organizations actually implemented in the workplace to solve OH&S problems.

– NIPERA CAB (Current Awareness Bulletin), produced by the Nickel Producers' Environmental Research Association (NIPERA) in the U.S. to develop and disseminate information on any health or environmental effects that might be associated with the production and use of nickel, its compounds and alloys. Program Record Number: OHS ISS 055

Canadian Commercial Corporation
Chapter 18

General Information

Background

A Crown corporation established in 1946, Canadian Commercial Corporation (CCC) is wholly owned by the Government of Canada. It reports to Parliament through the Minister of Public Works and Government Services.

Responsibilities

The Corporation's mandate is to assist in the development of trade between Canada and other nations. Its principal activity is to facilitate sales to foreign governments and international agencies on behalf of Canadian suppliers. In all transactions CCC assumes the role of prime contractor, undertaking to deliver a product or service to the foreign customer with a "back-to-back" obligation from a Canadian supplier. To achieve this task, the Corporation offers a wide range of export services to Canadian exporters, provides them with special access to foreign government markets and enhances their credibility by guaranteeing contract performance.

Legislation

- Canadian Commercial Corporation Act

Organization

The board of directors is comprised of Canadian business executives, public service officials and the President of the Corporation.

■ Corporate Management Division

This unit is responsible for the development of corporate policy and planning, for communications and awareness activities, and for the provision of management information systems and data processing services within the Corporation.

■ Finance and Resources Administration Division

This unit is responsible for ensuring sound financial management practices for all policies and programs of the Corporation; in addition, it oversees the human resources, administration and security requirements of the Corporation.

■ Operations

Two distinct operational groups within CCC facilitate government-to -government export contracts; the United States Division and the Overseas Division. The latter includes a section devoted to concluding sales with United Nations purchasing agencies and in projects funded by international financial institutions.

Canadian Cultural Property Export Review Board
Chapter 19

General Information

Background

The Cultural Property Export Review Board was established through the Cultural Property Export and Import Act on September 6, 1977. The duties of the Review Board as set out in section 20 of the Act are: pursuant to section 29, to review applications for export permits; pursuant to section 30, to make determinations respecting fair cash offers to purchase; and pursuant to section 32, to make determinations for the purpose of subparagraph 39(1)(a) (i.1) or 110(1)(b.1) of the Income Tax Act.

Administrative services to the Review Board are provided through the Department of Communications by the Movable Cultural Property Secretariat. All Review Board files are housed with the Secretariat. The personal information they contain pertains to members of the Review Board, applications for grants, loans, cultural property export permits, appeals against the refusal of cultural property export permits and applications for the certification of cultural property submitted on behalf of donors or vendors. Application forms are filed by number but can be accessed through a manual cross-index or automated system containing the name of the appellant (in the case of an appeal) or the donor/vendor (in the case of certification). Review Board member files are maintained in alphabetical order.

Responsibilities

The Review Board is responsible for preserving in Canada significant examples of Canadian heritage in movable cultural property, reviewing applications for export permits, making determinations on fair cash offers to purchase and making determinations for the purposes of the Income Tax Act. It also provides advice to the Minister of Communications on matters affecting the preservation in Canada of the heritage in movable cultural property. In particular, it recommends to the Minister, pursuant to section 35 of the Act, grants and loans to designated institutions and public authorities in Canada for the purchase of objects for which permits have been refused under the Act, or for the purchase of cultural property outside Canada that is related to the national heritage. The grants and loans are made out of monies appropriated annually by Parliament.

In reviewing an application for an export permit the Board must determine whether the object in question: is included in the Canadian Cultural Property Export Control List; is of outstanding significance by reason of its close association with Canadian history or national life, its aesthetic qualities or its value in the study of the arts or sciences; is of such a degree of national importance that its loss would significantly diminish the national heritage.

Where the Review Board determines that the cultural property subject of an application meets the criteria of outstanding significance and national importance, and the cultural property qualifies for certification for income tax purposes, the Review Board issues a Cultural Property Income Tax Certificate to the designated institution or public authority making such an application. It should be noted that objects proposed for certification need not be included in the Canadian Cultural Property Export Control List. Thus objects less than 50 years old and made by a living person may qualify. It should also be noted that a certified cultural property subject of a Cultural Property Income Tax Certificate is exempt from tax on taxable capital gains when disposed of (by gift or sale) to an institution or public authority in Canada designated for the purpose and, in the case of a donation, also qualifies for the 100 percent tax credit provision under the Income Tax Act.

Canadian Dairy Commission
Chapter 20

General Information

Background

The Canadian Dairy Commission was established by the Canadian Dairy Commission Act in October 1966. The Commission consists of a chairman, a vice-chairman and a commissioner, appointed by the Governor-in-Council; it is accountable to Parliament through the Minister of Agriculture and Agri-Food. To assist the Commission with advice on dairy pricing matters, there is a consultative committee of nine members, appointed by the Minister, who represent a variety of interests.

Responsibilities

The objectives of the Commission are to provide efficient producers of milk and cream with the opportunity of obtaining a fair return for their labour and investment, and to provide consumers with a continuous and adequate supply of dairy products of high quality.

The Commission, under its authority to purchase and sell dairy products, supports the market price of major processed products, principally butter and skim milk powder. The prices that producers receive for industrial milk and cream are related to these product support prices.

The Commission exports surplus dairy products, including skim milk powder and whole milk products such as evaporated milk, cheese, whole milk powder and other specialty products.

The Commission makes direct payments to producers from funds provided by the government to moderate consumer prices. These payments are made on qualifying milk and cream shipments produced within a Market Sharing Quota system to meet domestic market requirements, and a special export program.

The supply of industrial milk and cream is managed nationally through a Market Sharing Quota program administered under the National Milk Marketing Plan. The Commission, in chairing the Canadian Milk Supply Management Committee (CMSMC), directs the development of policy and coordinates the administration of the national quota and provincial market shares that are determined by the CMSMC.

Legislation

- Farm Income Protection Act
- Canadian Dairy Commission Act

Organization

- Policy Section

This provides analysis and advice on dairy-related issues.

- Subsidy Operations Section

This administers the payment of subsidies on qualifying shipments of industrial milk and cream to producers in order to make dairy products more affordable to consumers. This involves processing applications for registration of producers' permits, maintaining records of provincial and individual producer Market Sharing Quotas and milk and cream production, paying subsidies on the basis of those records, and directing and controlling the levy program.

- Marketing Sections

These involve both domestic and export activities, including the purchase, sale, transport, warehousing, financing and payment of assistance on the export of dairy products and animal feed under the Commission's domestic price support and special export program. Products involved are butter, skim milk powder, cheese, evaporated milk, whole milk powder and specialty products.

Canadian Film Development Corporation
Chapter 21

General Information

Background

The Canadian Film Development Corporation was established by an Act of Parliament (R.S.C. 1970, Chapter C-8) in March, 1967. The Corporation, publicly known as Telefilm Canada, is responsible for fostering the growth and development of the private sector of the Canadian film, television and video industry.

Responsibilities

Through Telefilm Canada, the Government of Canada provides support, as a partner, to the private sector for the production of film and broadcast material, either in the form of investment funds or through a variety of resources at the Corporation's disposal.

The Corporation meets the diverse needs of this industry through a wide range of funds. Support is available at all stages of the process, from screenplay development to final production and beyond to the distribution and marketing of the finished product in Canada and abroad.

Telefilm Canada is a Crown corporation that reports to Parliament through the Minister of Communications. It is headed by a board of directors and a chairman appointed by the Governor in Council. The Governor in Council, on the recommendation of the Corporation's board, also appoints an executive director who acts as chief executive officer and is responsible for day-to-day operations. Headquarters is located in Montreal with offices in Toronto, Vancouver, Halifax, Los Angeles, Paris and London.

Legislation

- Canadian Film Development Corporation Act, 1970, R.S.C. chapter C-8.

Organization

■ Planning and Policies

This sector is responsible for the formulation of policies and strategies for the administration of Corporation funds. The sector is also responsible for establishing formal liaison with industry representatives and federal and provincial institutions, and for the evaluation of the cultural and industrial impact of Telefilm Canada policies.

■ Production and Development

This sector has overall responsibility in the administration of the Feature Film Fund, the Canadian Broadcast Program Development Fund and the Interim Financing Fund. It co-ordinates decision-making and production and development activities among the Canadian offices of the Corporation.

■ Financing and Administration

This sector is responsible for: financial planning; monitoring spending and commitments; financial tracking; personnel; computer systems; legal affairs; and contract management.

■ Distribution, Marketing and International Affairs

This sector is responsible for the overall administration of marketing, distribution and export activities and funds, in order to promote the visibility and competitiveness of Canadian productions in Canada and abroad, and to foster growth in distribution-related sectors. The sector is also responsible, on behalf of the Minister of Communications, for the administration of Canada's co-production treaties with Algeria, Belgium, China, Commonwealth of Independent States, Czech and Slovak Republics, France, Germany, Hong Kong, Hungary, Israel, Italy, Mexico, Morocco, New Zealand, Romania, Spain, Switzerland, the United Kingdom, Yugoslavia, Argentina, Australia, Ireland and the Netherlands. It also evaluates applications made under these treaties and makes recommendations to the Minister regarding provisional and final approval.

■ Research and Analysis

This sector is responsible for studies concerning the impact of the Corporation's various programs and the evolution of the industry in general, in order to promote better long term planning and ensure the Corporation's activities effectively meet the needs of the industry.

A Human and Material Resources sector and a Communications sector complete the organizational structure of the Corporation.

Department of Canadian Heritage
Chapter 22

General Information

Background

The Department of Canadian Heritage was created on June 25, 1993, through the reorganization of the federal government, and modified slightly when the Liberal cabinet was formed on November 4, 1993. It comprises elements of the Department of the Secretary of State (Official Languages, Native Citizens, State Ceremonial, Canadian Studies and Youth Participation); the Department of Communications (Cultural Industries, Arts and Heritage); the Department of Multiculturalism and Citizenship (Multiculturalism, Human Rights, Voluntary Action and Race Relations); the Department of the Environment (Parks Canada and Historic Sites); and the Department of Health and Welfare (Amateur Sport and Official Games). An element of the Department of Consumer and Corporate Affairs (Registrar General) could eventually be part of the new Department.

Responsibilities

The Department of Canadian Heritage is mainly responsible for promoting the development of a strong Canadian identity and common values among all Canadians and recognition of our natural and historical heritage, linguistic and multicultural identity, and achievements in sport, the arts and culture.

The Department of Canadian Heritage is responsible for protecting our natural heritage and historic sites (Parks Canada sector) and promoting artistic development and Canadian heritage (Cultural Development and Heritage sector), promoting multiculturalism, official languages, Native culture, amateur sport, human rights, and the full participation of all Canadians in Canada's development (Citizenship and Canadian Identity sector).

Organization

Citizenship and Canadian Identity Sector

The Citizenship and Canadian Identity program encourages the use of the two official languages in Canadian society and promotes their equal status; coordinates the cross-government commitment to multiculturalism; advances opportunities for Canadians of all ethnocultural backgrounds to participate in and contribute fully to Canadian society; and promotes voluntarism. It supports Aboriginal peoples in their efforts to resolve their particular issues. The program supports the advancement of Canadian studies; promotes young people's involvement in Canadian society; encourages Canadians to value sport and to participate; advises in matters of state protocol and manages state ceremonial and events. It is responsible for increasing the awareness, knowledge and enjoyment of human rights and fostering compliance with Canada's human rights obligations.

■ Promotion of Official Languages and Official Languages in Education Branch

The Branch has the following objectives: to foster and support the development of the official-language minorities in Canada; to promote the recognition and use of French and English in Canadian society; and, to promote, encourage and assist the development and provision of education in the language of the official language minority community of each province and territory, and provide opportunities for Canadians to learn their second official language.

■ Promotion of Official Languages Branch

The Promotion of Official Languages component assists official-language to establish and maintain their own organizations and institutions in order to help them participate, in their own language, in every aspect of Canadian society. It co-operates with the provincial, territorial and municipal governments, as well as other Canadian institutions, to promote the progress of both official languages as well as the development of official-language communities by offering French and English services. It encourages and assists federal institutions to participate in the development of official language minority communities and the promotion of linguistic duality in Canada. It favours and encourages a wider acceptance and appreciation of both languages by all Canadians, as well as a better understanding among the Canadian official-language communities. In addition, it co-operates with the private and voluntary sectors to offer French and English services and to foster the recognition and use of both official languages.

Official Languages in Education:

Under a Protocol of Agreements signed between the Government of Canada and the Council of Ministers of Education, Canada, bilateral agreements are concluded with each province and territory. Under the agreements, support is provided for the main following expenditure categories: Infrastructure Support, Program Expansion and Development, Teacher Training and Development, and Student Support. The Protocol of Agreements also provides for the funding of two national programs : The Summer Language Bursary Program and the Official-Language Monitor Program. Under the Language Acquisition Development Program, financial assistance is provided to volunteer organizations, professional associations, and Canadian institutions for national projects aimed at collecting and providing information on official languages in education or at developing techniques for teaching the official languages. This assistance supplements the agreements on official languages in education. Through the Queen Elizabeth Silver Jubilee Endowment Fund, scholarships are awarded to university students who wish to pursue studies in their second official language.

Canadian Studies and Special Projects Directorate:

In order to encourage Canadians to learn about Canada, provides technical and financial assistance to individuals, organizations, private sector companies and corporations, and educational institutions working to advance the field of Canadian studies. The Directorate administers a series of funding programs to support the development of Canadian studies learning materials in a number of specific content areas considered to be underdeveloped or neglected in the field, and to encourage greater private sector funding of Canadian studies projects. A number of publications are produced as well which provide information on current Canadian issues.

Youth Participation Directorate:

Encourages and facilitates the participation of young people aged 14 to 19 years in Canadian society. The Open House Canada Program provides financial support to a number of national non profit organizations to cover the travel costs for student exchanges and national forums. The Directorate is also responsible for coordinating Canada's participation in the Commonwealth Youth Program.

Native Citizens Directorate:

Co-ordinates and administers programs that serve organizations of Status Indians, Non-Status Indians, Métis and Inuit. A consistent feature in all programs is that projects are community-based, initiated and managed by aboriginal people. The Directorate provides assistance through the Native Friendship Centre Program, the Northern Native Broadcast Access Program, the Aboriginal Representative Organizations Program, the Aboriginal Women's Program, the Native Social and Cultural Development Program. The Directorate also administers two Aboriginal Languages Agreements with the governments of the Northwest Territories and the Yukon.

■ Regional Operations

The regional network comprises nine regional offices and sixteen district offices. Regional Operations manage and promote the Department's programs and services in all regions, focusing special attention on the specific needs and the aspirations of each region. They administer grants and contributions and provide technical assistance to provincial, regional and local organizations for all departmental programs delivered at the regional level.

■ State Ceremonial and Canadian Identity

The Branch co-ordinates the organization and the delivery of state ceremonies and activities such as royal visits, unveiling ceremonies and state funerals. It supports the role of the Crown in Canada through assistance to the offices of Lieutenant Governors and the provision of advice on the exercise of royal prerogatives. It also manages the Government of Canada gift bank and co-ordinates activities regarding the use of Parliament hill. It also provides advice on precedence, titles and flag etiquette. Further it is responsible for the planning and co-ordination of Canada Day celebrations on Parliament Hill and across the country through 12 volunteer provincial/territorial Canada Day committees. An active part of all program components is the promotion of Canadian symbols. State Ceremonial also oversees the flag program by distributing flags and other materials to members of the House of Commons and Senate.

■ Voluntary Action

Encourages active citizenship by supporting the participation of Canadians in community affairs. It provides technical, professional and financial support to national, regional and local voluntary organizations in carrying out citizenship activities. (Voluntary associations are non-profit, community-oriented and concerned with public issues.)

■ Human Rights

Achieves its objectives through a program of support for education, research and development work by non-governmental organizations, as well as by operating a secretariat for the two major governmental human rights committees chaired by the Department: the Federal Interdepartmental Committee on Human Rights, which facilitates the coordination of the federal government's human rights responsibilities; and the Continuing Federal-Provincial-Territorial Committee of Officials Responsible for Human Rights, which provides a mechanism for liaison and consultation on matters relating to Canada's international human rights commitments. The Human Rights Directorate coordinates the preparation of Canada's reports to the United Nations on human rights. The activities of the program include the provision of both financial aid and technical support to non-governmental organizations concerned with human rights education, development and research, and assisting and coordinating the progress of human rights in Canada.

■ Multiculturalism

■ Programs Branch

Three programs provide financial help and advice to community groups, to Canadian institutions and, in some cases, to individuals. They are:

Community Support and Participation (CSP):

The purpose of this program is to promote the full and equitable participation in Canadian life of first-generation Canadians and of individuals and communities from Canada's ethnocultural and visible minorities. The program supports non-profit community-based organizations in their efforts to identify, address and advocate for community concerns, including issues affecting special needs groups such as women, youth and seniors. The program consists of two components: 1) Citizenship and Community Participation (CCP): support is provided to immigrant-serving agencies for on -going initiatives that assist first-generation Canadians to participate as full and equal citizens; 2) Community Support: support is provided to national, regional and local organizations, that are representative of ethnocultural and visible minority communities helping them maintain a sense of community and to develop a stronger voice in response to community concerns, such as intergenerational/cross-cultural understanding, heritage retention and equality of opportunities to share the benefits and responsibilities of citizenship.

Heritage Cultures and Languages (HCL):

All Canadians benefit from the contribution to the cultural, artistic and academic sectors made by Canadians of various ethnocultural backgrounds. The main object of the HCL Program, therefore, is to promote the development and expression of heritage cultures and languages as an integral part of Canada's artistic, cultural and academic life.

The Creative and Cultural Expression component, the Heritage Language component, and the Canadian Ethnic Studies component together promote equal access for artists of minority background, assist in the production of scholarly material for the study of heritage languages, encourage the scholarly study of Canada's multicultural society, and work with academic and cultural institutions to effect an environment more receptive and reflective of the pluralism of contemporary society.

Race Relations and Cross Cultural Understanding (RCU):

This program is designed to foster the elimination of racism and racial discrimination, to help Canadian institutions adapt to Canada's multicultural reality, to promote cross-cultural understanding, and to promote among Canadians and in Canadian institutions an appreciation and acceptance of the principles of multiculturalism.

■ Secretariats

Multiculturalism Secretariat – Cross-Government Commitment:

The Secretariat encourages and assists federal institutions to implement the Multiculturalism Policy of Canada, within their mandates, and monitors and reports on progress in this area.

Japanese Canadian Redress Secretariat (JCRS):

The Secretariat has been established to implement the 5 year Japanese Canadian Redress Program announced by The Prime Minister on September 22, 1988.

Canadian Multiculturalism Advisory Committee:

As provided in the Canadian Multiculturalism Act, the committee advises and assists the Minister on the implementation of this Act and any other matter relating to Multiculturalism.

Cultural Development and Heritage Sector

The Cultural Development sector is responsible for promoting artistic development in Canada, increasing public access to Canada's heritage and assisting in the preservation of this heritage. This mandate includes stimulating access to Canadian arts and heritage products and services and developing their availability, as well as encouraging public participation in related cultural activities.

The sector formulates policies and develops programs for both arts and heritage and Canada's cultural and broadcasting industries. Support for organizations active in these areas is provided. In fulfilling its mandate the sector works closely with federal arts, heritage, and broadcasting agencies – including the Canada Council, the National Arts Centre, Canada's national museums, the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, and the Canadian Radio-Television and Telecommunications Commission. The sector advises the Minister on all matters related to its mandate.

■ Heritage Branch

Encourages and supports the preservation and the promotion of Canada's national cultural heritage. The Branch is responsible for the development of legislation and national policies that protect and ensure increased public access to the heritage of Canada. It maintains ongoing liaison with federal heritage agencies and with national heritage organizations. The Branch is responsible for the design and delivery of heritage programs such as the Museums Assistance Program, the Insurance Program for Travelling Exhibitions, the Access to Archaeology Program and the Movable Cultural Property Program and it provides professional and technical services to ensure that Canada's cultural heritage is adequately protected and made accessible to the widest possible number of Canadians.

■ Broadcasting Policy Branch

Formulates policies, proposes legislation and designs and administers programs in relation to the Canadian broadcasting system. It is responsible for ensuring that the Canadian broadcasting system contributes to the realization of Canadian social, cultural and economic objectives; enhancing the production and exhibition of Canadian television and radio programming and their availability to Canadians; and providing advice concerning the implementation of policies and programs by the independent agencies responsible for these activities including the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation (CBC), the Canadian Radio-Television and Telecommunications Commission (CRTC) and Telefilm Canada. Provides advice in relations to responsibilities of the Minister under the Broadcasting Act with respect to the issuance of policy directions to the CRTC and the review of CRTC broadcasting decisions.

■ Cultural Industries Branch

Formulates national policies, proposes legislation, designs and administers programs in the fields of copyright, film and video, sound recording and publishing. It is responsible for supporting the cultural and economic development of the cultural industries in Canada; enhancing the production and distribution of Canadian films, video programs, sound recording, books and periodicals and to ensure their availability to Canadians; ensuring, through the development of copyright policy and legislation, the legal recognition and protection of the economic and moral rights of creators and users and providing advice concerning the implementation of policies and programs by the cultural agencies which are consistent with the federal government's cultural policy and objectives.

■ Quebec Sector

The Quebec Sector is responsible for providing adequate access to Canadian cultural and communications products and services and promoting the orderly development of communications systems essential to the integrity and social, cultural and economic development of Canadians. It participates in the development and utilization of the broadcast frequency spectrum; it promotes new communications and informatics technologies and provides federal departments and agencies with telecommunications services.

It administers services and programs relating to broadcasting, cable, sound recording, book publishing, copyright, museums and heritage, performing arts, literature and the visual arts.

■ Regional Development Branch

Responsible for the operational management of all programs within the Department's mandate in the fields of communications and culture in the province of Quebec. It is also responsible for the promotion of basic regional dimensions in the policy development process in the fields of arts, broadcasting, information technology, cultural industries, informatics, museums, telecommunications and heritage. It implements the Department's Mission by developing and implementing programs, activities and projects for the various Quebec client groups. It manages the Cultural Initiatives Program, the Agreement between the Government of Canada and the Government of the French Republic regarding cooperation and exchanges in the museums field, the Museum Assistance Program in Quebec, and the Sound Recording Development Program for the entire country. It also represents the Department in its dealings with the other levels of government, the business community and the public at large in Quebec.

Workplace Automation Research Directorate:

Responsible for leading-edge applied research on information and communications technologies. It works closely with other directorates within the department, other departments, private organizations, and the Canadian scientific community to develop a solid base of skills and expertise in Canada. The directorate's activities relate to technological, human and organizational dimensions of information and communications technologies. Through national joint projects which foster cooperation between various groups of specialists, this directorate provides a forum for exchanging information on workplace automation.

■ Spectrum Management and District Operations Branch

Housed in one regional office, four district offices, four satellite offices and one regional spectrum service center. Services relating to spectrum management are made available to the public through these locations. The directorate designs and administers the regional aspects of departmental programs, and advises the assistant deputy minister on regional issues and concerns. The district and satellite offices provide public liaison for the department in all aspects of its mandate. While their primary role is to ensure the orderly development and utilization of telecommunications in Canada, they also provide liaison with the general public, industry, governments and universities in matters relating to the departmental mandate. This directorate is also responsible for providing federal departments and agencies with telecommunications services.

■ Regional Offices

Atlantic Region, Ontario Region, Prairies and Northwest Territories Region, Pacific Region: Also involves district and sub-offices and monitoring stations. The Regional Offices assume overall responsibility on any matters that flow from the Department's mandate, including federal-provincial relations. The Atlantic Region is responsible for the Department's presence in Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Newfoundland. The Prairies and Northwest Territories Region has responsibility over Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and the NorthWest Territories while the Pacific Region's responsibilities cover British Columbia and the Yukon. The regions and their associated districts are the delivery points for the spectrum management activities. In addition, they are responsible for the delivery of departmental programs such as the Museum Assistance Program (MAP) and the Cultural Initiatives Program (CIP). They are also responsible for the negotiation and delivery of Economic Regional Development Agreements as well as other regional activities of the Government Telecommunications Agency (GTA), Public Affairs and Communications and Culture. They provide an interface with the public, industry, governments at all levels, and universities.

Files contain information about the corporate and financial status of the book publishers or industry groups involved. Personal information retained could include citizenship, nationality and other personal and financial information of company presidents, vice-presidents and shareholders. The information is used to determine eligibility for funding under the program. Files are retained for seven years and are then forwarded to National Archives of Canada for selective retention. (See also Program Records: COM ACI 250 – Book Publishing Industry Development Program).

Canadian Heritage Information Network

This class of personal information is pertinent to the collection of museum objects by Canadian museums. The purpose of the information is to create a national inventory of museum collections and to assist museums in managing their collections. The documents may contain references to individuals with whom Canadian museums deal in relation to collecting. Also contained is basic biographical information on Canadian artists. The records are created and supplied by Canadian museums and are maintained as long as is necessary for their management.

Insurance Program for Travelling Exhibitions

This class of personal information contains applications and supporting documentation submitted by museums, galleries, archives and libraries seeking insurance coverage for exhibitions which they organize and host. These documents contain the names and addresses of lenders of objects to the exhibition, as well as a description and the monetary value of the objects being loaned. This information is not filed by personal identifier, but rather by title of the exhibition. This information is used to determine the eligibility of the exhibition for insurance coverage through the program and for the preparation of insurance certificates for lenders to the exhibition. Records are retained for seven years, then transferred to the National Archives of Canada for selective retention. (See also Program Records: COM MHP 270 – Travelling Exhibitions: Applications for Insurance).

Cultural Initiatives Program

This class of personal information contains applications and supporting documentation submitted by cultural organizations seeking financial assistance for their activities. These documents may contain personal information pertaining to the directors and officers of cultural organizations including names, addresses and earnings. As well, the curriculum vitae of participants and/or expert advisors to the proposed activity may be held on file. This information is not filed by personal identifier but rather by cultural organization or activity title. This information was compiled to assess applications for funding of special projects under the program including management development projects, capital projects and special events such as festivals or conferences, etc. Records are retained for seven years, then transferred to National Archives of Canada for selective retention.

Arts and Culture Organizations Inventory/EDP

This class holds records pertaining to organizations identified on a regional basis. The information at present consists of name, address, contact and phone number. The class is to be up-dated on an ongoing basis and used for making announcements, organizing meetings and preparing correspondence, as well as possibly identifying eventual recipients to be sent survey questionnaires. These files are retained for seven years.

Labour Market Study

Part 1 of this bank contains personal information on approximately 1200 employees of the museums across Canada and responses to questions on training and professional development opportunities, employment conditions, educational and training background, and some demographic data. Part 2 contains data on 500 museums and responses to questions on the museums labour market such as number of full-time and part-time positions; number of people employed for each job and their classifications; current budgets, etc. Records will be kept for five years (plus two years dormant).

Canadian Human Rights Commission

Chapter 23

General Information

Background

The Canadian Human Rights Commission was given its mandate with the passage in July, 1977 of the Canadian Human Rights Act. The Act became operative on March 1, 1978.

Responsibilities

The Commission's program objective is to give effect to the principle that within the federal sphere every individual should have an equal opportunity to participate in Canadian life consistent with his or her duties and obligations as a member of the Canadian society.

Specifically, the Commission deals with complaints of discrimination in employment, in the provision of goods, services, facilities and/or accommodation customarily available to the general public and in the provision of commercial premises or residential accommodation, based on any of the ten prohibited grounds of discrimination enumerated in the Act: race, national or ethnic origin, colour, religion, age, sex, marital status, family status, disability, or conviction of an offence for which a pardon has been granted. The Commission also attempts to resolve cases through the conciliation/settlement process before considering the tribunal process.

The Canadian Human Rights Act prohibits discrimination in policies and practices affecting wages for male and female employees who are performing work of equal value. As a result, the Commission investigates complaints alleging inequities in wage-related practices.

The Commission also monitors annual reports filed by federally regulated companies under the Employment Equity Act, and where appropriate, initiates compliance actions.

The Commission also has a statutory responsibility to discourage and reduce discriminatory practices through public education, liaison, and any other means it considers appropriate. This responsibility is discharged by producing promotional and educational materials, developing and conducting information programs to foster public understanding of the principles of equal opportunity enshrined in the Canadian Human Rights Act, and by working cooperatively with employers and service providers both at the headquarters and regional levels.

The Commission functions as an independent agency and reports to Parliament through the Minister of Justice.

Legislation

- Age Guidelines (SI/78-165, October 25, 1978)
- Canadian Human Rights Benefit Regulations (SOR/80-68, January 11, 1980; amendment: SOR/82-783, August 19, 1982; SOR/83-615, July 28, 1983; SOR/85-512, May 31, 1985)
- Customs and Excise Human Rights Investigation Regulations (SOR/83-196, February 25, 1983)
- Equal Wage Guidelines (SOR/86-1082, November 18, 1986)
- Human Rights Tribunal Appeal Regulations (SOR/80-394, May 27, 1980; SOR/86-294, March 19,1986)
- Immigration Guidelines (SI/80-125, July 23, 1980)
- Immigration Investigation Regulations (SOR/80-686, August 27, 1980)

Organization

The Commission is headed by the Chief Commissioner who has deputy minister status and is supported by the Deputy Chief Commissioner and the Secretary General. There are seven administrative/operational branches at headquarters: Legal Services, Anti-Discrimination Programs, Employment and Pay Equity Programs, Communications, Policy and Planning, Corporate Services, and Personnel Services.

■ Legal Services Branch

This Branch provides advice to Commission members and staff on all legal matters which fall within the jurisdiction of the Commission, and information and advice on the administration of legal matters pertaining to legal proceedings by or against the Commission in a Human Rights Tribunal or in a court of law. Staff of the Branch are responsible for the conduct of cases.

■ Anti-Discrimination Programs

The Branch is responsible for encouraging compliance with and enforcing Part III of the Canadian Human Rights Act, by developing operational policies and procedures, ensuring the quality of investigation reports, delivering the conciliation function, and providing training to investigators and functional direction to regional staff.

■ Employment and Pay Equity

This Branch investigates complaints which allege discrimination based on data submitted by employers in their Employment Equity Reports. Action plans, including hiring and promotion goals, are developed to resolve problem areas. In addition, the Branch enters into cooperative reviews with employers interested in assessing their employment equity status. The Branch is also responsible for the investigation of pay equity complaints in the federal jurisdiction and for policy development and education. Investigations determine if there is a wage gap between males and females working for the same establishment. Measures are recommended to close any wage gaps.

■ Communications

This Branch supports the information and persuasion aspects of the Commission's mandate through a variety of products, a public education program and media relations initiatives. The communications products cover a wide range of human rights topics including human rights law, the operation of the Commission, the ten prohibited grounds of discrimination and issues such as employment and pay equity. Special education programs are designed through research and consultations with employers and special interest groups. Publications include an annual report to Parliament, a journal devoted to thoughtful discussion of human rights, news releases, speeches, brochures and posters, all of which are available in alternate formats. Recently, the Commission has produced several videos dealing with general human rights themes and special topics like equal pay. Much of the Commission's work, including Human rights Tribunal and Federal and Supreme Court decisions, is publicized by the Branch through mainstream and community-based media.

■ Policy and Planning

This Branch supports the Commission's decision-making process by undertaking research, monitoring national and international human rights issues and by developing policies and guidelines for the Commission's review and approval.

■ Corporate Services

This branch provides all administrative support services such as planning and evaluation, finance, assets management, access to information and privacy, information management, informatics, library and translation/editing services.

■ Personnel Services

This Branch provides personnel support services to headquarters and the regional offices. They include staffing, classification, pay and benefits, staff relations, training and human resource planning, official languages and safety.

Canadian International Development Agency
Chapter 24

General Information

Background

The Canadian International Development Agency (CIDA) supports the social and economic development of Third World countries.

Responsibilities

CIDA is the principal federal entity responsible for implementing Canada's Official Development Assistance (ODA) Program. CIDA's assistance is delivered through several channels to allow Canadians -companies, universities, voluntary organizations, individuals and public institutions – play their part in responding to a complex set of needs and the efforts of international development partners.

Legislation

- Department of External Affairs Act
- Financial Administration Act
- International Development (Financial Institutions) Continuing Assistance Act

Organization

The Agency is headed by the President who reports directly to the Minister of Foreign Affairs. The President is assisted by the Vice President, Corporate Affairs and the Corporate Secretary.

The Corporate Secretariat is responsible for the coordination of four executive committees and forums, the executive correspondence and requests received under the Access to Information and Privacy Acts. It is also responsible for the activities related to Parliamentary Relations.

Policy Branch

Policy Branch's mandate is twofold: (1) to provide advice to the Minister and the President of CIDA on long-term and immediate development policy and strategic issues; and (2) to formulate and maintain the corporate development policy base for the Agency within the general context of CIDA's mission and Canada's foreign policy.

Within this mandate, Policy Branch has the following functions:

Strategic Planning:

Responsible for matters relating to the Official Development Assistance (ODA) budget eligibility, the Agency's corporate planning cycle and longer term strategic analysis and planning.

Policy Coordination:

Ensures consistency and coherence in development policy at all levels in CIDA through dialogue and information exchange with CIDA's other branches. Also responds on behalf of the Agency to requests for quick responses from the Minister and the President of CIDA.

External Relations:

Responsible for relations with the Development Committee of the OECD, for relations with other donors and with ODA Crown Corporations (IDRC, ICHRDD, IISD).

Environmental Policy and Assessment:

The Division is responsible for the formulation and implementation of environment policy in the context of Canada's official development assistance program, and for coordinating CIDA's input to and representing the Agency at interdepartmental and international fora addressing environmental policy matters. This latter responsibility includes the coordination of CIDA's participation in Canada's follow-up to the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development (UNCED), as well as the implementation of the Biodiversity and Climate Change Conventions. The Division also has the responsibility for developing administrative mechanisms and methodological guidelines to ensure that CIDA is in compliance with the environmental assessment review process and the Canadian Environmental Assessment Act.

Good Governance and Human Rights:

Responsible for articulating CIDA policy on political aspects development, mainly in the areas of good governance, human rights and democratic development. The division also looks at ways to enhance CIDA's capability to plan and deliver projects and programming in these areas and generally serves as a centre of expertise.

Development Economics Policy:

Responsible for contributing to the Agency's policy base on economic development including private sector development in developing countries. It provides advice to the President, senior management, and program branches on economic and social issues in providing ODA, and is responsible for coordinating CIDA inputs into Canadian positions at the World Bank and IMF Executive Board meetings. The Division also represents the Agency at interdepartmental and international fora addressing economic issues regarding developing countries including trade.

Canadian Partnership Branch

The Canadian Partnership Branch (CPB) manages CIDA's Official Development Assistance (ODA) Partnership Program. CPB manages CIDA's relationships with the myriad Canadian groups and firms involved in international development activities. CPB's mandate is to promote mutually beneficial partnerships for sustainable development, by like-minded organizations and people, between Canada and developing countries.

CPB provides grants and contributions to Canadian, international or developing country, private investors, institutions, organizations and government agencies in support of industrial cooperation, development cooperation and development education.

The responsive nature of all CPB programs is the principal feature distinguishing them from the bilateral (geographic) programs. Unlike the bilateral programs, CPB responsive programs place the full developmental responsibility in the hands of our partners.

Industrial Cooperation Division (INC):

Unlike the other CPB divisions, the efforts of this Division are focused exclusively toward Canadian business and the funding of single projects.

The ultimate objective of these activities is technology transfer and mutually beneficial development, and the establishment of sustainable commercial linkages between Canada and developing countries.

The INC program facilitates the increased participation of Canadian, international and developing country private investors, institutions, organizations and governments in the economic and industrial growth of developing countries by encouraging mutually beneficial business collaborations between Canada and developing countries.

INC presents a single public interface to the business community. Depending on the scope or geographical focus of a firm's potential activities, proposals are processed by the Africa, Americas or Asia bureaus.

Non-Governmental Organizations Division:

The Non-Governmental Organizations (NGO) Program responds to requests from Canadian fund-raising NGOs to co -finance appropriate development projects or programs in developing countries. Special emphasis is placed upon grass-roots development activities and the development of linkages or partnerships between Canadian and local NGOs and community groups in developing countries. The NGO Program has three facets:

The Direct-administered NGO Program deals with: program-funded NGOs; project-funded NGOs with an indicative planning figure (IPF) over $250,000; and NGOs with special circumstances. The relationship between the NGO Program and Canadian NGOs is one of partnership, rather than donor/client. The NGO Program respects the independence, integrity and personality of the NGOs.

The Decentralized Program deals with project funded NGOs with an IPF less than $250,000. The decentralized programs are based on the principles of peer review, participatory procedures and networking. They respond to the needs of smaller NGOs, who have limited human and financial resources. Four decentralized programs are currently in operation in the following regions: B.C., the Prairies, Ontario and Quebec.

The Public Participation Program (PPP) supports Canadian NGOs and institutions active in increasing the awareness of Canadians about development issues.

Institutional Cooperation & Development Services Division:

The Institutional Cooperation and Development Services Division (ICDS) deals with specialized not-for-profit organizations active in international development.

Educational Institutions Program:

This focuses on the overseas development-related activities of Canadian post-secondary institutions, providing support through two distinct channels: the Universities Program and the Colleges and CEGEP Program.

Cooperatives, Unions and Development Services Program:

This program encourages the developing country activities of Canadian cooperatives and union, through a distinct Cooperative Program and a Unions Program. It also encourages technology and skills transfer to developing countries through its Volunteer Sender Program.Youth Program:

Provides cost sharing support to the initiatives of Canadian youth organizations working in developing countries, to encourage hands-on development.Technical Cooperation:

This group is responsible for two prime functions: 1) Training and Awards: Deals with the administration of various fellowship and awards programs financed by CIDA, as well as regulations and policies governing the selecting and recruitment of technical assistance cooperant/experts and in-country trainees. 2) Briefing Centre: Organizes the pre-departure and in-country briefings given to technical assistance personnel, both CIDA cooperants and personnel of Canadian executing agencies.

International NGO and Governance Division:

The INGO Division has a strong policy and operational focus on civil society and governance.

International NGO Program (INGO) supports global networks of national and local non-governmental organizations involved in development issues of importance to Canada, including human rights, democracy, the environment and population. The INGO Program is a major "knowledge" contributor to CIDA in these areas. Canadian organizations that are members of INGO networks benefit through information exchange.

The Governance Program concentrates its support on Canadian institutions working in the areas of public sector capacity building, including the municipal level, governance and human rights. Overall objectives are to promote democratic development, to improve the capacity of developing country governments to develop policies favouring equitable, sustainable economic growth and to facilitate regional cooperation.

The Professional Associations Programs supports the initiatives of a variety of Canadian professional groups that improve the capacities of related organizations in developing countries. With new information technologies, there is considerable scope for increased professional volunteer input.

Policy, Strategic Planning and Operations Division:
This division comprises the following three functional groups:

Branch policy and strategic planning, which includes: (a) social and political policy; (b) economic and trade policy and (c) change management. This service division formulates and evaluates policies, programs and systems that allow CPB to achieve its mandate.

Branch operational functions, which are: (a) technical advisory unit; (b) financial management; (c) information management; (d) HRD and administration. These groups coordinate branch activities, and also supply the CPB with technical advice, financial and informatics support. They operate the Branch's professional services, financial, data processing and electronic communication networks.

External Relations and Consultations:
This group is one of CIDA's major interface with stakeholders, partners and other government departments, scheduling, coordinating and organizing stakeholder consultations on behalf of all operational CIDA branches. It is also responsible for management of the five CIDA regional offices across Canada. Located within the International Trade Centres in Moncton, Montreal, Winnipeg, Calgary and Vancouver, these regional offices provide business information on CIDA's programs, handle registrations of CIDA consultants and inquiries about the Industrial Cooperation Program. They also maintain contact with local NGOs, service groups active in development, universities and other local partners.

Multilateral Programs Branch

CIDA funds for multilateral programs are channelled through United Nations agencies and other international development organizations. In addition, CIDA and the Department of Finance provide funds to international financial institutions such as the regional development banks and the World Bank. While the organizations are responsible for the administration of projects, Canada participates in their governing bodies to ensure that the organizations are operating within appropriate policy and operational guidelines, and that they meet Canada's interests and those of the international community as a whole. The Multilateral Branch is composed of the following four divisions.

Multilateral Technical Co-operation Division:
the Division is responsible for promoting Canadian development policies in, and supporting the efficient and effective operation of multilateral technical cooperation organizations involved in enhancing the human and institutional capabilities of developing countries. These organizations include UN bodies such as the UN Development Program, UNICEF, the World Health Organization and the UN Fund for Population, plus institutions of the Commonwealth and the Francophonie.

Food Aid Centre:
responsible for the CIDA food aid program and for programs related to the Consultative Group for International Agricultural Research. The Centre manages Canada's input to the World Food Programme of the United Nations; develops food aid policy; prepares and processes submissions seeking project approval from the food aid budget; coordinates the planning of food aid activities in consultation with other operating branches; initiates discussions on and participates in the process of food aid budget reallocations when necessary during the course of the fiscal year, in consultation with other operating branches. The Centre provides a coordinating role within the Agency in policy and program discussions concerning food aid with Treasury Board, the Department of External Affairs, Agriculture Canada, Finance, the World Food Programme, the Canadian Wheat Board, the Canadian Dairy Commission and food producers and processors. The Centre provides professional services to the Agency in the field of nutrition and coordinates the Agency's input to the Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO), the World Food Council (WFC) and the International Wheat Council (IWC).

Financial Institutions Division:
Develops and maintains the international financial institutions as mechanisms for development financing. It provides guarantees (i.e., callable capital) to facilitate the recycling of private capital resources for development financing, and in so doing multiplies the availability of such financing. The funds are provided to regional development banks. The Division participates with other departments in the management of Canadian assistance provided through the Department of Finance to the World Bank Group. It ensures that the international financial institutions (IFIs) are managed in a manner to maintain their credit worthiness in the international capital markets. The Division is also responsible for the Management of Canadian assistance provided to the Global Environment Facility and the International Fund for Agricultural Development. The Division fosters policies within the IFIs that are consistent with the developmental and humanitarian principles of Canadian foreign policy.

The International Humanitarian Assistance Program:
Provides financial support for efforts to alleviate human suffering caused by natural and man-made disasters abroad. This assistance is normally channelled through international institutions and Canadian and international non-governmental organizations involved in such work. Grants are given primarily in support of the regular programmes of three major institutions: the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR), the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestinian Refugees (UNRWA), and the International Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC). Grants are also given in support of special country appeals or for projects launched by these and other humanitarian institutions. To ensure the flexibility needed by an emergency response mechanism, a policy of providing largely untied IHA programme grants is maintained.

Asia Branch

The principal objective of Asia Branch is to plan, develop and implement Canada's aid program (currently directed to three regions including nineteen countries); and to integrate Canadian development activities to these countries.

Under the direction of the Vice-President, Asia Branch is composed of three regions: South Asia, South East Asia and China. Each regional program is responsible for the management of aid programs to the recipient countries in the region, as well as the relationship of these programs to Canadian interests.

The program is composed of projects throughout Asia under implementation by contractors, consultants, non-governmental organizations and individual cooperants. There are approximately 310 ongoing projects, primarily concentrated in the agriculture, rural development, energy, institution building, human resource development and social development sectors, at various stages of development.

Strategic Policy and Planning Unit:

The Strategic Policy and Planning Unit provides guidance to the Branch in concert with Agency corporate functions. The three main areas of activities of the Unit are policy development, communications and stakeholder relations. The identification of issues through policy research leading to policy development will be the basis for the formulation of coherent strategic plans, with links to the agenda of Policy Branch. The Unit will also formulate and implement consultation and communication strategies with Canadian stakeholders.

Technical Services Unit:

The division provides scientific and technical expertise to the branch in the identification, planning and implementation of programs and projects. The division's knowledge of the Canadian industrial and professional resource base is critical in matching domestic capabilities with the needs of recipient countries. Expertise in the division is available in disciplines related to infrastructure, natural resource management, environment and socio-economic development.

Management Division:

A staff organization ensuring adherence to the Agency's regulatory framework and providing all required management services to the Branch. This includes the following functions: accountability, human resources management, administration, information management and management systems, financial advisors and contract services.

Americas Branch

The Americas Region consists of 35 developing countries which for program delivery and administrative purposes, are organized by the Branch into the Caribbean, Central America and South America and Haiti programs. The Region is highly diverse geographically, developmentally, and resource distribution. CIDA supports development activities that promote a politically stable, economically liberal and socially equitable Region, free of environmental degradation.

Sectors of involvement include agriculture, economic development, environment, forestry, fisheries, transport, energy, health, education and telecommunications. Activities in the area of social development, institutional support and industrial co-operation can be funded through Bilateral, Multilateral and Partnership channels and implemented by Non-Governmental Organizations (NGOs), Non-Governmental Institutions (NGIs) and private enterprise. CIDA also supports small development projects in almost all countries through the Canada Fund for Local Initiatives (CFLIs).

Caribbean Program:

Assists the Caribbean countries to become more competitive in an increasingly liberalized global economy and to strengthen their environmental management capabilities. The program emphasizes support to projects that promote regional cooperation and integration as a means to increase self-reliance, and that facilitate to other regional markets. The Program focuses primarily on the countries of Jamaica, Guyana and the Eastern Caribbean islands of Grenada, St. Vincent and the Grenadines, Dominica, St. Lucia, Antigua, St. Kitts/Nevis, and Monserrat. There are also small bilateral programs in Trinidad and Tobago, Barbados and Belize, with CFLIs in the British Virgin Islands, Anguilla, and the Dominican Republic.

Central America Program:

Objectives are to support poverty alleviation, economic recovery and adjustment, and sustainable development of natural resources. In addition, it incorporates four cross-cutting themes; environmental sustainability, human resource development, participation of women in development, and human rights, democratic development and good governance. The countries covered include Honduras, Nicaragua, Costa Rica, El Salvador and Guatemala, with CFLIs also provided to Mexico and Panama.

South America Program:

To assist in the alleviation of poverty; to provide balance of payments assistance in support of structural adjustments; to assist in strengthening the capacities of the key institutions; and to support the cooperative efforts of Latin American Institutions. The program concentrates its bilateral activities in the poorest countries of Ecuador, Peru, and Bolivia. Other countries receiving development assistance are Argentina, Brazil Colombia and Uruguay. CFLIs are provided in Chile, Paraguay and Venezuela.

Haiti Program:
Provides humanitarian assistance to Haiti. The program will be expanded once the political situation has been resolved.

Africa and Middle East Branch

In February 1992, CIDA published a strategic document entitled AFRICA 21, which provides the framework for its development cooperation with Africa. CIDA's strategy is based on a vision of an Africa on the path to sustainable development; a vision of a more united, more democratic and more entrepreneurial Africa. With some distinctions, these characteristics also apply to the Maghreb and the Middle East.

CIDA's Africa and Middle East Branch is headed by a Vice-President and sub-divided in seven divisions: West Africa, North Africa and Middle East, East and Central Africa, Southern Africa, Strategic Planning, Strategic Management, Technical Directorate.

Central and East Africa Region:
The objective of CIDA's Central and East Africa Regional Program is to support entrepreneurship, human rights and good governance.

This region consists of twenty-two countries. Only Cameroon has a traditional bilateral program in this region.

This region also includes the Horn of Africa (Ethiopia, Eritrea, Sudan, Somalia, Djibouti), where CIDA's activities focus mainly on food aid and humanitarian assistance.

There is also a regional activity support program which focuses particular attention on the areas involved in the Africa 21 strategy: democracy, entrepreneurship, and regional integration through implementing activities promoting assistance to regional institutions, especially in the fields of agricultural research, training, and human resource development, as well as the regional implementation of projects to meet specific national needs.

After the budget cuts of December 1992, which had a particular impact on the countries of Central and East Africa, CIDA adopted a responsive approach to the needs and priorities of the countries involved by creating two regional funds, the Democratic Development and Good Governance Fund, and the Private-Sector Support Fund.

CIDA has established a Canadian Fund for Local Initiatives for each of the twenty-two countries of this region to allow the implementation of small-scale projects.

Southern Africa Region:
The goal of CIDA's program in Southern Africa is to support regional cooperation and integration. The objectives of the program coincide with those of the Southern Africa Development Community (SADC), a ten member organization which includes the nine countries of this region. (The tenth member, Tanzania, does not fall under this regional umbrella). SADC's objectives include the creation of a true regional economic community and the eventual elimination of all barriers to trade, investment and migration between countries in the region.

A distinct programming framework exists for the Republic of South Africa (RSA) which focuses on the facilitation of the RSA's political transition to a democratic state. As this transition successfully evolves it is anticipated that the RSA will be invited to join SADC as its eleventh member.

CIDA has established a Canada Fund for Local Initiatives in each of the ten countries for small projects. There is also an overall Regional Initiatives Fund for small projects which embrace the objectives of regional cooperation and integration.

North Africa and Middle East Region:
CIDA's program in this region is designed to support the transition to a market economy and the equitable distribution of wealth, to build the capacity of public institutions, to support sustainable natural resource management, to support the peace process, and to promote the emergence and consolidation of partnership between Canada and the region.

The program is thus based on three key themes: economic reform, environmental sustainability, and capacity building.

It is subdivided into three programs: one for Egypt, one for the Maghreb, and one for Jordan and the Middle East.

West Africa Region:
The West Africa Region covers all of the sixteen countries of ECOWAS, the Economic Community of West African States. The goal of the Canadian development cooperation programme in the region is to support the West Africans in a development and growth process targeted to more sustainable balance between population, economy and environment.

Corporate Management Branch

The mandate of the Branch is to promote continuous improvement in management within CIDA by acting as a catalyst for the adoption of modern management and practices; by assisting in the alignment of all elements of the organization in order to achieve CIDA's mission; and by providing services to achieve development results through teamwork with various clients.

The Branch consists of the following divisions: Finance, Contracting Management, Information Technology, Corporate Review, Corporate Management Development and Corporate Management Services. A Legal Services Division staffed by representatives from the Department of Justice is resident within the Branch for administrative purposes.

The main functions of the Branch include: financial, contracting and information technology policy and systems development; resource management and analysis; financial services; financial risk assessment;

special financial investigations; contracting selection; corporate contracting operations; external business relations; information technology and telecommunications services; program audit and evaluation; regulatory compliance; corporate planning; information management; and organization renewal.

Professional Services/Technical Services Units:
the Professional Services Branch has been dismantled. The Branch's specialists are now working in Technical Services Units which are located within the following branches: Policy Branch, Multilateral Branch, Canadian Partnership, and the three geographic branches.

Scientific, Technical and Information Directorate:
Advises on issues involving scientific and technical knowledge and practice throughout the Agency and represents the Agency in national and international fora on corporate level scientific and technical questions. The Information Unit manages corporate information relevant to CIDA's mandate, including the data used in reporting to international organizations and in CIDA's Annual Report. The unit also manages several internal data bases (e.g. the Development Information Centre, Corporate Memory, the Sectoral Documentation Centre). The Directorate also advises on and contributes to the work of other units concerned with the management of the corporate policy process and the formulation of a strategic plan for the Agency.

Personnel Administration Branch

Provides advice, strategies, programs, systems and services in the areas of human resources management, administrative services and security to assist the Agency in accomplishing its mission. This includes guidance and support to management and staff to develop and maintain a qualified, productive and sustainable workforce and an enabling work environment that promotes continuous learning and organizational effectiveness.

Communications Branch

The Branch has two main activities: corporate communications support for the Agency and its activities; and development information to raise awareness of development and global issues.

In terms of corporate communications, the Branch advises the Agency and the Minister on communications and public relations matters, develops and implements communications strategies, monitors and assesses public opinion through media analysis and public opinion polling; and produces and delivers information products and services.

In terms of development information, the Branch produces material developed with youth as primary target audience. Products include publications, co-produced audio-visual productions and exhibits and displays, forming an integrated programming approach. These products are supported by a range of materials designed to assist educators.

Canadian International Trade Tribunal

Chapter 25

General Information

Background

Bill C-110, which established the Canadian International Trade Tribunal (CITT) and dissolved the Canadian Import Tribunal, the Tariff Board and the Textile and Clothing Board, received Royal Assent on September 13, 1988. Sections of the Canadian International Trade Tribunal Act establishing the corporate structure of the CITT were proclaimed on September 15, 1988. Sections of the Act giving the CITT operational responsibilities and dissolving the Canadian Import Tribunal, the Tariff Board and the Textile and Clothing Board came into force on December 31, 1988.

Responsibilities

The CITT is a quasi-judicial tribunal responsible for conducting the general economic trade, injury and tariff-related inquiries previously carried out by the three predecessor organizations. It is also responsible for hearing, determining and ruling on appeals, primarily of customs and excise decisions made by the Minister or by the Deputy Minister of National Revenue, previously carried out by the Tariff Board; and for hearing and determining issues pursuant to other acts, primarily injury determinations resulting from anti-dumping and countervail actions previously carried out by the Canadian Import Tribunal. In addition, the Tribunal will consider injury complaints from all Canadian goods producers and conduct safeguard inquiries as provided for by the Act. This producer-requested "Direct Access" to import safeguard inquiries was formerly available only to the textile and clothing industries through the Textile and Clothing Board. The duties and/or functions of the Tribunal are set out in the Customs Act, the Excise Tax Act, the Energy Administration Act, the Special Import Measures Act, and the Canada United States Free Trade Agreement Implementation Act.

Legislation

- International Trade Tribunal Act, 1988
- Customs Act (R.S.C., 1985, C-54)
- Energy Administration Act (R.S.C., 1985, CE6)
- Excise Tax Act (R.S.C., 1985, C-E14)
- Special Import Measures Act (R.S.C., 1985, C-515)
- Canada/United States Free Trade Agreement Implementation Act, 1988

Organization

The Tribunal consists of the Chairman, two vice-chairmen, and not more than six other permanent members to be appointed by the Governor in Council. The Governor in Council may also appoint up to five temporary members, as required. The Tribunal is supported by the Research Branch, the Legal Services Branch and the Secretariat.

Canadian Museum of Civilization
Chapter 26

General Information

Background

The Canadian Museum of Civilization (CMC), a Crown Corporation, was established in 1990 by the Museums Act.

Responsibilities

The purpose of the Corporation, as defined in the Act, is: "to increase, throughout Canada and internationally, interest in, knowledge and critical understanding of and appreciation and respect for human cultural achievements and human behaviour by establishing, maintaining and developing for research and posterity a collection of objects of historical or cultural interest, with special but not exclusive reference to Canada, and by demonstrating those achievements and behaviour, the knowledge derived from them and the understanding they represent."

Legislation

- The Museums Act (Statutes of Canada 1990, Chapter 3)

Organization

■ Directorate of the Canadian Museum of Civilization (CMC)

This Directorate is responsible for the direction of the museum and the management of all its activities, resources and outputs.

■ Collections Branch

This Branch maintains, preserves and makes accessible to users the Collections of the Canadian Museum of Civilization.

■ Research Branch

This Branch undertakes research programmes designed to add to the Collections of the Museum and to the level of knowledge relating to the analysis of regional cultural entities that make up our heritage and through investigation of the processes that have served to define the Canadian cultural experience.

■ Exhibitions and Programmes Branch

This Branch plans, develops, manages and evaluate a balanced programme of permanent, temporary and travelling exhibitions and interpretive programmes (live interpretation, special events and education) in support of the Museum's purpose and objectives.

■ Public Affairs Branch

This Branch is responsible for the Museum's public image, media and public relations, promotional activities and material, advertising, internal communications, official ceremonial events, liaison between the Museum, government, the community at large and the business world as well as fundraising. In addition, this Branch is responsible for the marketing activity of the Museum, a publishing programme, the coordination of Museum volunteers and the liaison with the Association of Friends of the Museum.

■ Finance and Museum Services Branch

This Branch is responsible for the provision of management and financial services. These include materiel and facilities management, as well as personnel, protection and informatics services. Furthermore, this Branch plans, establishes and manages commercial programmes.

■ Canadian War Museum (CWM)

The Canadian War Museum is an affiliated museum of the CMC. It is autonomous in its public programming and collections functions; it obtains most of its administrative services from CMC. The purpose of the Canadian War Museum is "to share in the remembrance of, and serve as a memorial to, those Canadians lost in, or as a result of, war; to examine the war and war-related history of Canada and its effect upon Canada and Canadians; and to document Canada's continuing commitment to peacekeeping and the maintenance of international security".

Canadian Museum of Nature
Chapter 27

General Information

Background
The Canadian Museum of Nature (CMN), a Crown Corporation, was established in 1990 by the Museums Act, and reports to parliament through the Minister of Communications. It is administered by its own directorate under the authority of a Board of Trustees. The President is the Chief Executive Officer of the CMN.

Responsibilities
The purposes of the Corporation, as defined in the Act, are to establish and maintain for research and posterity a collection of natural history objects, with special but not exclusive reference to Canada, and to use the collection, the knowledge derived from it and the understanding it represents, to increase throughout Canada and internationally, interest, knowledge, appreciation and respect for the natural world.

Legislation
- The Museums Act, 1990

Organization
The Museum is comprised of a Directorate and 6 programmes:

■ Directorate
The Directorate includes the President's, Executive Vice-President's, Vice-President's and Chief Operating Officer's offices, and the Board of Trustees. Their responsibilities are to provide overall direction, guidance and management of operational and administrative divisions within the Museum.

■ Governance
This programme enables the Museum to be governed by the Board of Trustees by establishing an efficient and effective secretariat, monitoring and evaluating museum activities, establishing the corporate image and profile, and encouraging new ideas and initiatives.

■ Environmental Issues
This programme is responsible for the direction of research, Museum involvement in science policy development, intergovernmental affairs, science information coordination and dissemination, national and international network development, and the development of Traditional Knowledge in the Museum. The main elements of the programme that seek to focus activity and create its sense of coherence are the Centres of Knowledge. These Centres form six general interest blocks through which all projects approved by the programme are funded; the Canadian Centre for Biodiversity, Polar Studies, Inter-American Studies, Planetary Evolution, Humans and Nature, and Science and Society.

■ Business Enterprises
This programme is responsible for the coordination and implementation of a wide range of revenue-generating and cost savings programmes aimed at delivering a positive profit picture for the CMN. These objectives are fulfilled through various operations such as: Commercial Operations which includes the Boutique, and Visitor, Rental, Parking and Food services; Professional Services and Product Development which is responsible for coordinating revenue contracts in response to outside requests for Museum scientific, technical and professional expertise; Marketing and Communications division which is responsible for all museum advertising and promotion, media and public relations, market research and planning, and consultant to projects throughout the museum; Publishing division which is responsible for disseminating information about the CMN, its research, activities and results through popular and scientific publications; Community Relations division which is responsible for President's Events, Community Events, Volunteers, and Resource Development such as fund-raising and membership.

■ Capital Projects
This programme is responsible for negotiating the custody transfer of the museum's facilities from the GSC to the CMN; the planning and development of new accommodations and outgoing coordination of services for the management of current accommodations for the CMN; providing professional, technical and administrative advice and services on accommodation matters; and integrating museum priorities into accommodation planning for the achievement of the museum's mandate.

■ National Heritage
This programme is responsible for the care and development of the national collections in natural history, their use in the interests of Canada and other nations, and leadership in the care and management of, and research on collections care. The Programme is a recognition that collections are important to Canadians, the CMN's collections responsibilities go beyond the walls of the Museum and that different types of expertise lead to excellence in collections care and research.

■ Public Programmes
This programme is responsible for the evaluation, development and maintenance of programmes and activities to increase knowledge and appreciation for the natural world using the CMN's collection of natural history objects and specimens through exhibit-based programmes and a wide variety of modern educational media.

Canadian Polar Commission
Chapter 28

General Information

Background

In September 1985 the Minister of Indian Affairs and Northern Development commissioned a study group to investigate the state of Canadian polar science. Based on extensive consultations with Canada's northern research community, government departments, and non-government organizations, the study group produced its report, Canada and Polar Science, in March 1987. Among its recommendations was a call for the creation of "a national body ...to provide ongoing contact, at a senior level, between the federal government and those concerned with Canadian polar science and research".

Professor Thomas Symon's report The Shield of Achilles, which became the draft of a mandate for the Canadian Polar Commission, expressed concern that a new commission not duplicate the efforts of other institutions, but "...build upon, complement and support the work of the many diverse existing Canadian institutions, programmes, and organizations that are dedicated to the development of polar knowledge".

As a result of these efforts, the Canadian Polar Commission provides a new focus for polar scientific research in Canada. Through active interchange with industry, the private sector, governments, aboriginal people and other northern residents, the academic community, and interest groups, the Commission can reinforce Canada's existing role and reputation in the polar world.

Responsibilities

The mandate of the Commission is to monitor and to assess the state of polar knowledge in the country, and to foster the development of this important part of Canadian science. To this end, the Commission's role is to help determine scientific priorities with regard to polar regions, encourage Canadian organizations to support development and dissemination of knowledge of these regions, advise the minister responsible (Minister of Indian and Northern Affairs) on polar matters, disseminate information about polar research, and foster international cooperation regarding the sharing of polar knowledge.

It is within the mandate of the Commission to sponsor conferences, seminars and other activities, provide financial support for studies and the publication of reports, recognize achievements in polar science, support and encourage in various ways the endeavours of those who are involved in polar research.

Legislation

- Canadian Polar Commission Act (February 1991)

Organization

The Canadian Polar Commission is made up of 12 members, selected for their skills and merits. These members, who form the Board of Directors of the Commission, cannot be full-time employees in the Public Service of Canada. They are appointed for three year terms. Sub-committees have been established on indigenous knowledge, the environment, international affairs, social health and the Canadian Polar Information System. The Polar Commission itself can call on others, especially northerners, to sit on these committees.

Other details concerning the organisational structure of the Commission were not available at the time this material was submitted.

The Canadian Polar Commission offices are located in Ottawa, Yellowknife and Kuujjuaq.

Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission

Chapter 29

General Information

Background

The Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission (CRTC) is an independent public authority established by Parliament in 1968 as a successor to the Board of Broadcast Governors, an earlier regulatory agency. Its mandate was to regulate and supervise all aspects of the Canadian broadcasting system. These responsibilities were enlarged in 1976 by the Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission Act, under which the Commission assumed responsibility from the Canadian Transport Commission for regulating telecommunications carriers within federal jurisdiction. On 4 June 1991 the new Broadcasting Act was proclaimed in force. On 25 October 1993 the new Telecommunications Act was proclaimed in force to replace the Railway Act and the National Telecommunications Powers and Procedures Act.

Responsibilities

In broadcasting matters, the CRTC regulates both the public and private broadcasting sectors. It has the power to issue, inter alia, renew, amend, suspend or revoke licences and to set any conditions of licence it feels necessary. With respect to federally-regulated telecommunications carriers, the CRTC has the power to ensure that the rates charged by the carriers are just and reasonable, and not unjustly discriminatory. The Commission's approval is also required for traffic and certain other types of agreements and capital stock issues.

In order to fulfil its mandate, the CRTC collects a variety of information pertaining to applicants and existing licensees operating programming, distribution or network undertakings (cable, radio and television) across the country. Financial and operating information is collected on a yearly basis in Annual Returns. Programming on radio and television is monitored: television stations, including pay television and specialty services, must submit detailed program logs monthly and radio stations must submit their program logs upon request. In the course of the public hearing process, information concerning the applications being heard is made available for public examination, as outlined in the CRTC Rules of Procedure. These public files include the text of any intervention made by anyone wishing to express his/her views with respect to particular applications or issues raised in public hearings. In telecommunications hearings, interrogatories and other more formal practices may be carried out, as outlined in the CRTC Telecommunications Rules of Procedure. The Commission receives complaints and enquiries from specific individuals or corporations, or interest group regarding both broadcasting and telecommunications. Copies of complaints relating to broadcasting matters are forwarded to the licensee concerned for comment and placed on a file available for examination by the public. In Public Notice 91-90 dated 30 August 1991, the Commission announced its support for the Canadian Broadcast Standards Council (the CBSC), which will administer industry standards and codes of conduct. In Public Notice 92-22 the Commission also endorsed the Cable Television Standards Council (CTSC) which will administer Cable Service Standards.

Legislation

- Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Act (1976)
- Cable TV Regulations (1986)
- Radio Regulations (1986)
- Television Broadcasting Regulations (1987)
- Pay Television Regulations (1990)
- Specialty Services Regulations (1990)
- Broadcasting Act (1991)
- Telecommunications Act (1993)

Organization

■ Broadcasting Sector

The broadcasting component is composed of three sectoral activities -Radio, Television Programming, and Cable Distribution and Broadcast Technology.

■ Radio, Television Programming, and Cable Distribution and Broadcast Technology

These Branches are responsible for content policy development, as well as operational compliance, monitoring and analysis of applications. They provide advice on operational, policy and regulatory aspects of the radio, television and cable industries respectively, assist in determining priorities and plans regarding future broadcasting developments and monitor new developments in broadcasting and cable technology.

■ Secretary General

This Sector is the official point of contact between the Commission and the public. It coordinates Commission activities commonly used by both the broadcasting and telecommunications sectors.

■ Secretariat Operations and Licensing Branch

This Branch oversees the Planning and Scheduling Section, the Decisions and Proceedings Division, and the Licensing Sector. The Branch also exercises functional direction over the five regional offices with respect to activities in the broadcasting and telecommunications fields and to federal-provincial relations. The Branch also administers the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act.

■ Regional offices

They are five in number and provide an official CRTC presence in the various regions of Canada to advise headquarters of the concerns of interested parties in their region. They provide information to provincial governments, the industry, the academic community and the public.

■ Industry Analysis Division

This Division is responsible for the Commission's marketing, financial and ownership analysis policies, as well as ownership compliance and control of the broadcasting industry.

■ Public Affairs Division

The Public Affairs Division formulates and evaluates communications strategies, policies and initiatives and is responsible for all public relations activities, as well as for the production and distribution of CRTC publications. The Division also responds to briefs, letters, written inquiries and complaints received by the Commission and coordinates the referral of complaints to the Canadian Broadcast Standard Council (CBSC) and the Cable Television Standards Council (CTSC) in the case of issues covered by industry standards administered by the Councils.

■ Telecommunications Directorate

The principal mandate of this Directorate is to ensure that the rates charged by the carriers under federal jurisdiction are just and reasonable and not unjustly discriminatory. The Directorate assesses tariffs and agreements filed for approval by carriers, assists the Commission in the development of regulatory policies, decisions and orders and identifies and analyzes regulatory issues stemming from individual applications or major hearings.

■ Economic, Social and Technical Analysis Branch

This Branch analyzes and provides advice to the Commission on rates, market structure, current and future regulatory issues, technical issues, service quality and socio-economic aspects of regulatory issues. The Branch is responsible for assessing the carriers' construction programs and for advice to the Commission regarding the depreciation, renewal and amortization of carrier equipment.

■ Financial Analysis Branch

This Branch is concerned with the financial aspects of rate regulation and the carriers' inter-corporate activities, statistical analysis, accounting and auditing carrier activities. The Branch is also responsible for the implementation of the inquiries into carrier costs.

■ Decisions and Operations Branch

This Branch plans and coordinates telecommunications staff agendas, receives and schedules applications, advises applicants on proper procedure, and formulates, drafts and edits public notices, orders and decisions issued by the Commission. The Branch is also responsible for the resolution of complaints and inquiries from subscribers and competitors of the federally-regulated carriers.

■ Corporate Services

This Section provides services to both our Telecommunications and Broadcasting branches, as well as coordination in the area of Finance, Human Resources and Informatics.

■ Legal Directorate

The CRTC's general counsel and staff provide legal services to the Commission concerning the interpretation and implementation of the CRTC Act and the Broadcasting Act, the various acts on telecommunications, statutory instruments made pursuant to these acts, and the related federal and provincial legislation. Counsel advise the Commission of the legal implications of policy matters, conduct questioning, and advise on procedural matters at public hearings. They also make recommendations and carry out legal proceedings instituted by or against the Commission.

■ Finance and Management Services Branch

This Branch provides financial, program planning, management and administrative services to ensure the most effective operation of the Commission and the most cost-effective and efficient development and use of new services and facilities. It collects broadcast licence fees and helps to formulate licence fee regulations. The Branch also coordinates informatics activities throughout the Commission, maintains a library for communications industry information in Canada and administers the Commission's records management, mail room and fleet management services.

■ Human Resources, Official Languages and Security

This Division advises the Chairman and staff on all aspects of the administration of human resources, including classification, staffing, pay and benefits, staff relations and special program administration, including employment equity and training and development. Responsibility also entails the administration of the CRTC's security function.

■ Audit and Evaluation Division

This Division performs internal audits (financial, compliance, operational), and evaluates program effectiveness. It also studies and reviews regulatory reform.

Access Request Data Bank

Description: This bank contains the access request forms sent by individuals, the replies to such requests and information related to their processing. Class of Individuals: Members of the public who have made access requests to the Commission. Purpose: The bank is used for processing access requests only, and to report on the number of access requests received annually. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for two years and then destroyed. PAC Number: 86-001 TBS Registration: 001820 Bank Number: CRT PPU 060

Annual Returns

The purpose of this bank is to maintain a record of financial analysis and ownership information relating to individuals and/or companies authorized under the Broadcasting Act to own and operate broadcasting undertakings (cable, AM, FM or TV) in Canada. Some of the financial data contained is used in the assessment of annual licence fees to be paid by licensees. Assessments and a record of payments are maintained. The annual returns are filed alphabetically on a national basis and are used in (a) compiling and analyzing the broadcasting industry, e.g. growth trends and industry performance; and (b) preparing financial analysis comments for the various public hearings held across the country with respect to the granting or renewing of licences for broadcasting undertakings. Retention and Disposal Standards: Files are retained for twelve years and then destroyed. PAC Number: 82-037 Bank Number: CRT PPU 015

Applicants File

The purpose of this bank is to provide information on individuals and/or companies, partnerships, and individuals doing business under a registered name, relative to obtaining, renewing and amending a licence for broadcasting undertakings. This bank contains identification of the applicant; investment (equity and/or securities) held by the applicant in a Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission licence holder, newspaper or other media publisher, theatre or cinema, advertising agency, broadcasting sales representative, broadcasting program material producer or distributor, music recording producer or music publisher, lessor of property, plant or equipment of the licensee, company owning securities in any of these categories, potential advertising client of the undertaking; staff information; service information; capital costs and facilities; and financial operations. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for fifteen years. PAC Number: 91-021 Bank Number: CRT PPU 035

Broadcast Correspondence Files

The purpose of this bank is to maintain a record of correspondence with licensees, including AM and FM radio, television and cable TV, concerning programming matters such as logs, tape records of programs, commercials, and Canadian content. Comments, enquiries, and complaints cover a wide range of topics, most of which are related to the Broadcasting Act and regulations under the Act. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for fifteen years. PAC Number: 91-021 Bank Number: CRT PPU 020

Complaints and Representations File

The purpose of this file is to maintain a record of any person who wishes to lodge a complaint with or make any representation to the Commission, with respect to any matter within the powers of the Commission that is not directed to any application. The file contains the name, address, and telephone number of the person and agent, if any, lodging the complaint or making a representation and the nature of the complaint. Copies of the complaints are also placed on a file available for examination by the public. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for fifteen years. PAC Number: 91-021 Bank Number: CRT PPU 005

Interveners File

The purpose of this file is to maintain a record of any person who is interested in an application and who wishes to file with the Commission an intervention for the purpose of supporting, opposing or modifying an application. The file contains the name, address and telephone number of the intervenor and his or her agent, if any. Details accompany the interventions on most occasions. Interventions are public documents and are retained on a file available for examination by the public. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for fifteen years. PAC Number: 91-021 Bank Number: CRT PPU 040

Legal Branch

The purpose of this bank is to provide a record of legal opinions and advice given to the Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission by this branch and other sources and to retain some of the material upon which such advice was given. The bank provides a record of prosecutions and investigations conducted by this branch and retains some of the material upon which such prosecutions and investigations were contemplated or carried out. It also provides a record of cases in which the CRTC is involved and some other material relevant to such cases. Bank Number: CRT PPU 045

Ownership Profiles

The purpose of this bank is to maintain a record of ownership profiles relating to individuals authorized under the Broadcasting Act to own and operate broadcasting undertakings in Canada. The bank contains the name of the individual ownership shareholding, together with the location and type of undertaking (cable, AM, FM or TV). The bank is established on a national basis and is used in preparing ownership comments (Factum Book) for the various public hearings held across the country with respect to the granting of licences for broadcasting undertakings. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for fifteen years. PAC Number: 91-021 Bank Number: CRT PPU 010

Personal Service Contracts

The purpose of this bank is to maintain a record of individuals who have been engaged under contract by the Commission. It contains basic data such as social insurance number, educational qualifications, employment history, appointment and termination dates, amount of fees paid and other allowable expenses and payments. The information is used to determine taxable income and to issue the T-4 Supplementary for income tax purposes and as source data for personnel required to carry out special studies from time to time. Retention and Disposal Standards: Files are retained for six fiscal years and then destroyed. PAC Number: 86-001 Bank Number: CRT PPU 050

Telecommunications Complaints, Inquiries and Briefs

The purpose of this bank is to provide a depository for case files pertaining to complaints and/or inquiries from customers or users of telecommunications services, furnished by the telecommunications companies under the Commission's jurisdiction. Such files contain all information relevant to the submission, processing, investigation and disposition of such complaints or inquiries, and include correspondence between the individual originating the complaint or inquiry and the Commission, as well as investigative material and correspondence between the Commission and the telecommunications company against which the complaint or inquiry is directed. Complaints and inquiries deal with such matters as quality of service, rates and charges, credit and collection practices. The information in this bank deals only with the federally-regulated telecommunications companies. The files in this bank are active only during the period of investigation or inquiry, normally 30 to 60 days, after which they are closed. Retention and Disposal Standards: Files are retained for ten years and then destroyed. PAC Number: 85-002 Bank Number: CRT PPU 025

Canadian Saltfish Corporation
Chapter 30

General Information

Background
The Canadian Saltfish Corporation (CSC) was established in 1970 under the authority of the Saltfish Act. Within its area of jurisdiction (Newfoundland and Labrador and on the Lower Northshore of Quebec), the CSC has the exclusive right to interprovincial and export trade in cured cod fish. The CSC is a federal crown corporation listed under Schedule III, Part I, of the Financial Administration Act.

Responsibilities
The CSC's mandate is to improve the earnings of primary producers of saltfish while operating on a self-sustaining basis without appropriations from Parliament. As well, it has the statutory obligation to buy all saltfish offered to it, subject to price and terms and conditions of purchase (including quality provisions).

Legislation
- Saltfish Act (1970)

Organization
The CSC is managed by a nine member board of directors composed of a chairman, a President, one director from each participating province, and five other directors. The Chairman and the President are appointed by the Governor-in-Council. The remaining directors are appointed by the Minister of Fisheries and Oceans with the approval of the Governor-in-Council. Directors from a participating province are appointed on the recommendation of the Lieutenant Governor-in-Council of a participating province.

Canadian Security Intelligence Service
Chapter 31

General Information

Background
The Canadian Security Intelligence Service (CSIS) operates pursuant to the Canadian Security Intelligence Service Act.

Responsibilities
CSIS collects, analyzes and retains information and intelligence respecting activities that may on reasonable grounds be suspected of constituting threats to the security of Canada, and reports to and advises the Government of Canada in relation to these matters.

The Service also plays a role in providing security assessments to departments of the Government of Canada (in accordance with section 13 of the CSIS Act and government security policy) and may provide security assessments to the government of a province or any department thereof, any police force in a province, and to the government of a foreign state or institution thereof or an international organization of states or institutions thereof when a security clearance is a required condition of employment. As well, CSIS may advise any Minister of the Crown on matters relating to the security of Canada, or provide any Minister of the Crown with information relating to security matters or criminal activities that is relevant to the exercise of any power or the performance of any duty or function by that Minister under the Citizenship Act or the Immigration Act, 1976. It may also conduct such investigations as are necessary in order to provide security assessments or advice to Ministers.

Further, CSIS may, in relation to the defence of Canada or the conduct of international affairs, assist the Minister of National Defence or the Secretary of State for External Affairs, within Canada, in the collection of information or intelligence relating to the capabilities, intentions or activities of any foreign state or group of foreign states or any person other than a Canadian citizen or permanent resident, or corporation.

Legislation
- Canadian Security Intelligence Service Act

Canadian Security Intelligence Service Records
Description: This bank consists of information on individuals who came to the attention of the former RCMP Security Service while carrying out its responsibilities pertaining to informing the government of national security concerns. This bank may also contain information on individuals who incidently came to the attention of CSIS as a result of carrying out its mandate under section 12 and/or section 16 of the CSIS Act. This bank may contain information on individuals mentioned in reports related to probable unauthorized disclosure of, or unauthorized access to, classified information or assets. Class of Individuals: Defectors, human sources or individuals, the nature of whose actions or activities caught the attention of CSIS or of its predecessor, the former RCMP Security Service, while investigating: espionage or sabotage against Canada detrimental to the interests of Canada; foreign influenced activities within or relating to Canada that were clandestine or deceptive or involved a threat to any person; activities within Canada that were directed toward the use of serious acts of violence to achieve a political objective within Canada or a foreign state; or activities that were directed toward the unlawful covert undermining, or the overthrow by violence, of the constitutionally established government system in Canada; individuals, other than Canadians or permanent residents, whose capabilities, intentions or activities regarding the defence of Canada or the conduct of international affairs are inimical to the interests of Canada. Purpose: Collected and obtained by the former RCMP Security Service and by CSIS under section 12 or section 16 of the CSIS Act concerning threats to the security of Canada. Consistent Uses: CSIS may only disclose information if it does so in accordance with the controls of subsection 19(2) of the CSIS Act. First, it may disclose information for the purposes of the performance of its duties and functions under the CSIS Act or the administration or enforcement of that Act, or as required by any other law. The Service may thus disclose personal information to the Government of Canada, for example, as part of its duty to report and give advice to the government regarding activities suspected of constituting threats to the security of Canada. Secondly, where the information in the Service's possession may be used in the investigation or prosecution of an alleged contravention of the law, or where it relates to the conduct of Canada's international affairs or to the defence of Canada, then the information may be disclosed to the appropriate police officials and to the Attorney General, the Secretary of State for External Affairs, and the Minister of National Defence, respectively. Thirdly, information may be disclosed where, in the opinion of the Minister, disclosure to any Minister of the Crown or person in the Public Service of Canada is essential to the public interest and that interest clearly outweighs any invasion of privacy that could result from the disclosure. Personal information may also be disclosed to the Inspector General and to the Security Intelligence Review Committee. This bank may be used as a source of information or for linking with other information sources for the purposes of fulfilling CSIS's legislated mandate. All linkages are in compliance with the provisions of the Privacy Act. This information may also be used for audit, research, planning, evaluation and statistical purposes. Retention and Disposal Standards: Information in this bank is under continuous review and files are disposed of in accordance with the retention and disposal schedules as approved by the National Archivist. When files have been designated as historical, they may be transferred to the custody and control of the National Archives of Canada. PAC Number: 82-013 Related to PR#: SIS DDS 010 TBS Registration: 000837 Bank Number: SIS PPU 015

Complaints Against CSIS or Its Employees
Description: This bank contains complaints communicated to CSIS, the Security Intelligence Review Committee (SIRC) or the Office of the Solicitor General of Canada against CSIS or its employees, and any record generated to resolve such complaints that is under CSIS control. In addition to the requirements indicated on the Personal Information Request form, individuals must provide the location where the complaint was reported and the nature of the complaint to retrieve the information of interest for processing. Class of Individuals: Individuals involved in complaints against CSIS or its employees. Purpose: To determine the validity of complaints and to record any corrective measures taken, including recommendations for disciplinary or misconduct proceedings. Consistent Uses: Used in disciplinary and misconduct processes under the CSIS Act. The SIRC or the Inspector General may also use information in this bank to conduct investigations of CSIS. Information in this bank may also be used for the management of CSIS, research, planning, evaluation and statistical purposes. Retention and Disposal Standards: A minimum of two years after the last documentation on the individual complaint file. However, letters of complaint may be destroyed after one year. TBS Registration: 002762 Bank Number: SIS PPU 035

CSIS Candidates
Description: This personal information bank contains recruitment documents or applications for employment with CSIS and any related correspondence. This bank may also contain personnel or staffing interviews, polygraph tests, psychological tests, test results, analysts' reports and security assessment advice. Class of Individuals: Potential CSIS candidates. Purpose: To meet the administrative and/or operational needs of CSIS. Consistent Uses: Information may be transferred to an employee bank if the individual is offered and accepts employment. The candidate's skills may be assessed and, if deemed suitable, may be invited to serve in a capacity other than the position or level of initial interest. This information may also be used for research, planning, evaluation and statistical purposes. Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained a minimum of two years. However, unsolicited applications are destroyed after six months. PAC Number: 78-001 TBS Registration: 000839 Bank Number: SIS PPU 025

Information Requested From Investigative Bodies
Description: This bank contains copies of the written requests or Treasury Board Forms 350-56 (83/2) (Request for Disclosure to Federal Investigative Bodies) forwarded by investigative bodies, listed in Schedule II of the Privacy Regulations, to CSIS under paragraph 8(2)(e) of the Privacy Act. This bank contains the replies to such requests and particulars related to their processing. Class of Individuals: Individuals under investigation, or individuals who have been investigated, and for whom personal information was requested from CSIS. Purpose: This information was compiled to comply with the Privacy Act to enable CSIS to account for the number of requests it has replied to under paragraph 8 (2)(e) of the Privacy Act. The information will allow the Privacy Commissioner to audit the procedures utilized as set out in Treasury Board Guidelines. Consistent Uses: The information is used to verify the conditions of disclosure and to account to the Privacy Commissioner for the number of requests received annually. This information may also be used for research, planning, evaluation and statistical purposes. Retention and Disposal Standards: Personal information in this bank will be kept a minimum of two years after all legal processes have been completed. PAC Number: 85-001 TBS Registration: 001682 Bank Number: SIS PPU 030

Security Assessments/Advice
Description: This bank contains personal information on individuals who are or have been the subject of a request for a security assessment for pre-employment/employment with federal government departments and the private sector working under federal government contracts, when a security clearance is a required condition of employment. Similar records are held in respect to security assessments required by a provincial government, a foreign state, or an international organization of states. This bank may also contain criminal records, credit bureau results, security analyses, security assessments and investigative reports, related correspondence and a notation of the level of security clearance granted. In addition, this bank may hold information on persons subject to security assessment or advice relative to the Citizenship Act or Immigration Act. Class of Individuals: Persons for whom CSIS was asked to provide a security assessment or advice, including contract and company personnel working under federal government contracts; CSIS employees; and individuals who would seek admittance or to remain lawfully in Canada; and individuals seeking citizenship. By virtue of the screening process, personal information may be held on individuals who are not themselves the subject of the security assessment. Purpose: Collected under section 15 of the CSIS Act to provide security assessments pursuant to section 13 or advice pursuant to section 14, of the Act. Consistent Uses: Pursuant to sections 19(2), 13 and 14 the CSIS Act, CSIS may disclose information or may match information in the preparation of a domestic or foreign security assessment or in providing advice pertinent to the Citizenship Act or Immigration Act. It may also be used for data matching. All linkages for the purposes of conducting lawful investigations in matters which may on reasonable grounds, be suspected of constituting threats to the security of Canada and in other lawful investigations are in compliance with the provisions of the Privacy Act. In addition, information may be provided to the Inspector General and the Security Intelligence Review Committee, the Federal Court and the Supreme Court. This information may also be used for research, planning, evaluation and statistical purposes. Retention and Disposal Standards: Information in this bank may be retained from two years to twelve years from the last updating, and then disposed of subject to the Retention and Disposal schedules approved by the National Archivist. When files have been designated as historical, they may be transferred to the custody and control of the National Archives of Canada. PAC Number: 82-013 Related to PR#: SIS DDS 005 TBS Registration: 000835 Bank Number: SIS PPU 005

Self Protection Activity
Description: This bank contains personal information on individuals in contact with CSIS with a view of providing services directly or through contract to CSIS. The information may include the individual's name, any aliases and other personal identifiers. Class of Individuals: Individuals in contact with the Service. Purpose: The purposes for which the information in this bank was recorded is in support of CSIS's counter intelligence program. The information will allow CSIS to better protect itself from infiltration by hostile foreign services and others whose interests are inimical to the interests of Canada. Consistent Uses: Information in this bank may only be used in support of CSIS's counter intelligence program. Retention and Disposal Standards: Information in this bank will be retained for a minimum of ten years, and destroyed when considered to be of no further value. Related to PR#: SIS DDS 010 TBS Registration: 003297 Bank Number: SIS PPU 050

Unlawful Conduct Investigations
Description: This bank contains allegations, investigational reports, interviews, reports to the Solicitor General of Canada and related correspondence collected, pursuant to subsection 20(2) of the Canadian Security Intelligence Service (CSIS) Act, of activities by CSIS employees who may have acted unlawfully in the purported performance of the duties and functions of the CSIS under the CSIS Act. Class of Individuals: Individuals involved in investigations conducted under subsection 20(2) of the CSIS Act. Purpose: To determine the validity of allegations of unlawful conduct by CSIS employees and to take appropriate corrective measures if required. Consistent Uses: Information in this bank may be disclosed to the Attorney General of Canada and to the Security Intelligence Review Committee or Inspector General for review or to meet reporting requirements. Information in this bank may be used in disciplinary and conduct processes under the CSIS Act. This information may also be used for the management of CSIS, research, planning, evaluation and statistical purposes. Retention and Disposal Standards: Personal information in this bank will be kept for a minimum of five years. The National Archives of Canada is required to be consulted before disposal of this information. PAC Number: 86-001 Bank Number: SIS PPU 040

Classes of Personal Information

In the course of carrying out the daily investigative activities and functions of the Canadian Security Intelligence Service, personal information may be accumulated such as in the security assessments and crisis management programs which are not described in the specific personal information banks. This information is not used for an administrative purpose affecting an individual, and can include names, addresses and other identifying data in a record. Such information is only retrievable if full specifics are provided concerning the subject matter. The retention period for this form of information is in accordance with the retention and disposal schedules associated with the subject files in which they are stored.

Unsolicited opinions or requests for information are received by way of signed letters. This information is not used for an administrative purpose, other than to respond in some instances to the individual. This correspondence is stored in a file associated with the subject matter, and is disposed of in a manner authorized by the National Archivist.

Canadian Space Agency
Chapter 32

General Information

Background

The Act of Parliament establishing the Canadian Space Agency was proclaimed into force on December 14, 1990. The Canadian Space Agency was created from divisions of the former Ministry of State for Science and Technology (MOSST), the National Research Council of Canada (NRC), the Department of Communications (DOC) and Energy Mines and Resources (EMR).

Responsibilities

The objects of the Canadian Space Agency are to promote the peaceful use and development of space, to advance the knowledge of space through science and to ensure that space science and technology provide social and economic benefits for Canadians.

Legislation

- The Canadian Space Agency Act.

Organization

Executive Offices

The President and the Executive Vice-President are the executive officers of the Canadian Space Agency. They are assisted by the Vice-President, Human Space Flights, the Director General, Radarsat, the Vice-President, Research and Applications, the Vice-President, Policy Coordination and Government Relations and the Vice-President, Corporate Services. A Director, Legal Services, a Director, Communications and an Audit and Evaluation Committee are part of the executive offices.

Human Space Flights

■ Canadian Astronaut Program Office

The Canadian Astronaut Program maintains and trains astronauts to encourage and support the development and execution of Canadian scientific and technological programs in space, including the international Space Station Program. Canada's Astronauts collaborate with industry, universities and other institutes to undertake research that can be classified in two broad categories; space life sciences related to the adaptation of humans to microgravity, and applied sciences research to develop hardware and experiments to fly in microgravity. This type of research contributes to the development of new medical techniques and treatments, contributes to the advancement of space exploration, and may lead to the development of new products and processing techniques.

■ Space Station Program Office

The Canadian Space Station Program Office is responsible for management and control of Canada's participation in the international Space Station project, as it relates to design, development, construction, testing, operation, utilization and evolution of the Mobile Servicing System (MSS) as well as technology transfer and intellectual property. This includes the Strategic Technologies in Automation and Robotics (STEAR) program for development within Canada's industry and research community of advanced technology capabilities to support evolution of the MSS. The Office also funds the User Development Program (UDP), aimed at developing Canadian universities and industry as users of Space Station.

■ RADARSAT Program Office

This office is responsible for managing the design, development, construction, testing and operation of the RADARSAT remote sensing satellite system in cooperation with several provincial governments, the private sector (Radarsat International), NASA and NOAA. The RADARSAT system is Canada's first remote sensing satellite system and will utilize a synthetic aperture radar to produce map-like images of the earth regardless of weather conditions. The images will have scientific and commercial applications in the monitoring of natural resources, navigation, and environmental monitoring.

Research and Applications

■ David Florida Laboratory

The Canadian Space Agency's David Florida Laboratory (DFL) is Canada's national facility for the environmental testing and integration of space systems, subsystems and components. On a fee for service basis, the DFL offers the Canadian space industry testing for their space products in the areas of thermal (thermal vacuum, thermal balance), structural (vibration, modal, static load), and RF (antenna, communications, payload, RFI/EMC) verification. Additional facilities and services available through the DFL include large cleanroom highbay integration and storage areas, expert consultation on test programs, and test technology development for modern spacecraft. On a non-interference basis, and as schedules permit, testing and test support is also provided to Canadian non-space as well as foreign space and non-space companies. The facilities and services available through the DFL are unique in Canada.

■ Space Technology

The Space Technology Branch conducts a program of research and development through three Directorates; Space Mechanics, Space Systems and Space Optical Technology. Also with the Branch is a R & D Contracts Office, with responsibility for technology transfer and intellectual property overview.

Space Mechanics

The Space Mechanics Directorate conducts a program of research and technology development within the Space Agency in four key technology areas: computer and intelligent systems, dynamics research, applied mechanics research and control systems.

Space Systems

The Space Systems Directorate conducts research and development in four key technology areas: spacecraft systems analysis, RF technology, digital technology and space systems applications.

Space Optics

The Space Optics Directorate conducts research and development in three technology areas: remote sensing applications, spectroscopy applications and optical and electro-optical instrumentation.

Space Science Program

This Division is responsible for space science related activities in Canada falling within the disciplines of Aeronomy and Space Physics, Astronomy and Life and Materials sciences in the Microgravity environment. The Division seeks out opportunities and encourages Canadian scientific participation in international programs and, participates in national and international space programs through the design, development, construction, testing provision and operation of major facilities and scientific instruments.

Policy Coordination and Government Relations

External Relations

The Directorate provides strategic direction, support and expertise to the Agency in the areas of international and federal/provincial relations. It identifies opportunities for cooperation and opens doors to the Canadian space industry in the international market. Working in conjunction with a range of foreign space agencies, industries and international organizations to expand support for Canada's expertise in space, the Directorate manages the Agency's international cooperation MOUs and is the focal point for the Agency's relations with other federal government departments.

Policy

The Directorate coordinates, analyses and develops policy initiatives, strategies and priorities respecting Canada's participation in national and international space programs. It serves as the focal point for coordinating space activities, provides essential support in the development of Canada's Long Term Space Plan and assesses progress made towards achieving Canada's space policy objectives.

Ottawa Office

The Ottawa Office is primarily responsible for facilitating the day-to -day interactions of the Canadian Space Agency with the Minister's office. This office coordinates the parliamentary liaison activities and is the custodian of Cabinet documents.

Corporate Services

Administration

The Administration Directorate plans, develops, and implements programs in the areas of management, maintenance and construction of facilities, telecommunications and security. This Directorate also maintains an up-to-date inventory of assets, manages custom clearances as well as the contracts and procurement services. It also advises management on all matters related to these areas.

Relocation Office

The mandate of the Relocation Office is to coordinate the relocation of the Agency's program staff from Ottawa to the new headquarters in Saint-Hubert. In order to achieve this, the Office has established a planning framework, budget and timetable. The Office is coordinating this project with all those involved in Corporate Services and the programs affected by the relocation.

Finance

The Finance Directorate is responsible for the development, direction and coordination of financial policies, procedures, systems and controls within the Canadian Space Agency; for ensuring that the requirements for acquisition, control and disbursement of funds, budgets and financial assets are met; for coordinating and preparing the Multi-Year Operational Plan and Estimates; for maintaining accurate financial and management accounting records; and for designing and producing corporate financial reports for all Agency activities.

Information Management

The Information Management Directorate is responsible for ensuring that the Agency is provided with efficient and effective integrated systems to support operations, research, administration and management needs, and plans, develops, and implements programs in the areas of information technologies, management of information holdings and library services. It also coordinates the Access to Information and Privacy requests.

Human Resources

The Human Resources Directorate is responsible for the planning, development and implementation of sound, pro-active and progressive policies and personnel programs, needed to successfully locate, recruit, develop, effectively utilize and retain high calibre scientific, technical and support staff to meet the growing demands for space technology expertise within the Canadian Space Agency. The Directorate's activities focus on classification, staffing, compensation, staff relations, training and development and human resources planning. These activities assist managers in assuming their personnel management responsibilities.

■ Official Languages

The Official Languages Division is responsible for the interpretation, application, and monitoring of federal government official languages' policies and programs within the Canadian Space Agency as well as for adapting these policies to the Agency's operational context.

■ Saint-Hubert Project Office

The Saint-Hubert Project Office is responsible for the delivery of the future Agency's Headquarters in Saint-Hubert within the approved project definition, budget and established target dates. It supervises all of the project activities, from project definition to project delivery and evaluation following implementation.

■ Audit and Evaluation

The Directorate of Audit and Evaluation is accountable for providing Agency management with an independent capability to perform audits that are consistent with Agency and Central Agency policies, responding to Agency priorities, and enhancing the efficiency, effectiveness and economy of operations; and for providing essential input to the Agency's processes of policy/program formulation and resource allocations; also assists in carrying out evaluations of those programs/activities.

Communications

The Directorate develops and implements a communications and public affairs, strategic plan to support the Canadian Space Program and to respond to public interest. This plan is based on a detailed environmental analysis which is also produced by the Directorate. A key role of the Directorate is to provide advice to the Minister, the Agency's senior management, and program managers on communications issues. In carrying out its functions, the Agency produces and distributes information and promotional materials to the media and to the general public, and monitors media coverage of the Canadian Space program. The Directorate provides an essential communications support to the Agency as a whole.

Information Holdings

Executive Vice-President
Description: Working papers, memoranda and correspondence with federal and provincial government departments, universities and industry on policy and planning; correspondence, memoranda and reports on the administration and operation of the Agency. Topics: General administration, speeches, audits. Program Record Number: SPA EVP 010

President's Office
Description: Information on visits, lectures, gifts, interviews, correspondence with the Minister, outside enquiries on selection of staff, agenda, minutes and documents pertaining to executive committee meetings. Topics: General Administration, speeches. Program Record Number: SPA PRE 005

■ Human Space flights

Canadian Astronaut Program Office
Description: Information, correspondence, memoranda and technical material related to IML-1 Mission, CANEX-2 flight and other CAP microgravity projects, international and national agreements and all technical research and development within the program. Topics: Policy and agreements, general correspondence, finance, shuttle operational flights, public relations and speaking engagements, equipment, training, technical definitions, engineering and scientific studies and evaluations and scientific working groups. Program Record Number: SPA OPE 020

Radarsat
Description: Information on the management of Canadian participation in the RADARSAT Program; the provision of international and national agreements and all technical research and development within the RADARSAT Program. Topics: Configuration management, equipment -RADARSAT Studies, ground systems, simulation facility, tests and integration, remote sensor development, solar arrays – technology, working groups, panel meetings and document reviews, regional development and technology exploitation. Program Record Number: SPA OPE 025

Space Station Program Office
Description: Information on the management of Canadian participation in the Space Station Program; the provision of the Mobile Servicing System, including international and national agreements, all technical research and development within the Space Station Program, technology transfer agreements, licences and patents. Administrative, financial and technical information on all aspects of the STEAR and UDP programs; STEAR contract proposals (commercial confidential), feasibility study reports delivered under contract. Topics: Configuration management, space robotics, Space Station studies, space assembly and maintenance systems, simulation, ground control facilities, materials in space, remote sensor development, solar arrays, NASA working groups, panel meetings and document reviews, regional distribution, technology diffusion, industrial development. Program Record Number: SPA OPE 030

Vice-President – Research and Application
Description: information, correspondence and working papers on visits, presentations and meetings with federal and provincial governments, private industry and universities along with international agencies. Topics: General administration, speeches, audits. Program Record Number: SPA RVP 010

■ Research and Applications

David Florida Laboratory – Administration
Description: Correspondence; reports and memoranda pertaining to policies, contracts, test programs, program forecasts, and other administrative matters as they pertain to the overall operation of the laboratory. Topics: Policy; general correspondence; enquiries; visits/tours; facility use and loan agreements; co-operation and liaison with industry, federal departments, universities, associations, international organizations, and countries; technical support; resource documents; conferences and seminars; buildings and properties; equipment and supplies; and facility documents. Program Record Number: SPA APP 050

David Florida Laboratory – Operations
Description: Correspondence and documents on the operation of the individual test facilities (i.e. thermal vacuum, vibration, radio frequency). Topics: Environmental testing/space simulation; thermal vacuum (infrared testing, outgassing studies, helium leak detection); (structural vibration, modal analysis, shock testing, static load, seismic block); radio frequency (passive intermodulation measurements, electromagnetic interference/compatibility, radar cross section measurements, spherical near field measurements); mass properties measurements (vertical and horizontal axis measurement systems); integration facilities (high bays, class 100,000 clean rooms); quality assurance;. Data acquisition/data processing systems; enquiries and results of various subsystem and spacecraft level testing. Program Record Number: SPA APP 055

Space Mechanics
Description: Correspondence, memoranda, and working papers: general directorate correspondence; DOC – Agency; EMR – Agency MOUs and correspondence. Topics: current research activities include: dependable processing systems, knowledge based systems, control of large space structures, robot controls, sensor technology, materials & structures, thermal control technology, composite materials, dynamics/test of space structures, robot dynamics, and in-orbit characterization of SSRMS. Program Record Number: SPA APP 060

Space Optics
Description: Correspondence, memoranda, working papers and reports related to projects. Topics: general directorate correspondence; CRC. NRC and NSERC-Agency MOUs correspondence concerning current research activities: far infrared laser, bolometric detectors, detector passive cooling techniques, laser range finder, optical data processing techniques, optical fibre system elements, optical sensors for remote sensing, selective optical coatings, 3D-vision systems, object recognition systems. Program Record Number: SPA APP 080

Space Science Program
Description: Information, correspondence, memoranda and reports related to project planning, program forecasts, the management of the Space Science and User Development Programs, international and national agreements and all technical research and development within individual projects. Topics: Policy; general correspondence enquiries; administration and operation of the Division; visits; lectures; papers and talks; publicity; financial records; agreements and memoranda of understanding; co-operation and liaison with associations, international organizations and countries; public relations and speaking engagements; licences and permits; security; seminars; committees; finance, shuttle operational flights, equipment, training, technical definitions; engineering studies; satellite projects; space science program Development and planning group; CANOPUS Data Analysis Network; Suprathermal Ion Mass Spectrometer; Viking UV Imager; Waves in Space Plasma; Wind Imaging Interferometer; Ultra Violet Imager; FREJA Cold Plasma Analyser; RADIOASTRON Radio Astronomy Program; Far Ultra Violet Spectroscopic Explorer; Measurement of Pollution in the Troposphere; General Excitation Mechanisms in Nightglow; Thermal Plasma Analyser and the ODIN Optical Spectrograph; Biocosmos; International Microgravity Laboratories – I and II; Aquatic Research Facility; Cosmic Background Radiation; Microgravity processes in Fluid Dynamics, Chemistry, Crystal Growth, Metals and Alloys, Glasses and Ceramics, Biotechnology and Combustion; Radiation Biology; Human Physiology; Canadian Float Zone Furnace; Canadian Advanced Protein Crystallisation Apparatus; Spacebound microgravity conferences; Canadian Space Agency Rocket (CSAR) Program; Parabolic Aircraft (T-33, Falcon & KC-135); Protein Crystallisation . Program Record Number: SPA APP 065

Space Systems
Description: Correspondence, memoranda, working papers and reports related to projects. Topics: General correspondence including administration, personnel and finance; spacecraft systems group, RF technology group, digital technology group, high-temperature superconductive multiplexer, power transistor development, Solid-state power amplifier (X-Band), digital modular (X-Band), passive intermodulation (PIM), radiation damage to gallium arsenide, space qualification of GaAs devices, satellite system modelling, remote sensing microwave instruments, dual-polarization antenna, smallsat cost reductions. Program Record Number: SPA APP 075

Space Technology
Description: Information, correspondence, memoranda and reports related to project planning, program forecasts, the management of Space Technology, international and national agreements and all technical research and development within individual projects. The holdings of the branch office include administration, personnel and finance for the Branch. There are also general files on committees, international cooperation and agreements, contracts, inter-departmental coordination and ESA programs. Program Record Number: SPA APP 070

■ Policy Coordination and Government Relations

Economic Studies
Description: Studies, reports, analysis. Topics: Potential economic spin-offs of major space-related projects. Program Record Number: SPA EXT 105

European Space Agency
Description: Correspondence, reports, memoranda, general enquiries and requests from industries relevant to Canada's membership in the European Space Agency. Topics: General correspondence, Statutes, Annual reports, Council deliberations; ESRIN; financial data, reports of committees, progress reports on projects, contracts to Canadian firms, etc. Program Record Number: SPA EXT 110

Federal/Provincial Relations
Description: Correspondence, reports, memoranda, general enquiries and requests from provinces. Topics: General correspondence, Annual Reports of Provincial Organizations, documents on provincial space activities and programs; Feasibility studies. Program Record Number: SPA EXT 115

Industrial Development
Description: Correspondence, reports, memoranda, general enquiries and requests from industries and scientific organizations pertaining to economic and financial aspects of private organizations. Topics: General correspondence; Annual reports; Industry directories; regional conferences. Program Record Number: SPA EXT 120

International Relations
Description: Correspondence, reports, memoranda, general enquiries and requests from industries and foreign organizations relevant to Canada's space cooperation activities with foreign countries and organizations. Topics: Foreign Agencies Annual reports, documents on foreign space activities and programs; NASA; NASDA; [etc]; Cooperation arrangements and MOUs; minutes of steering committees, Panels, working and ad hoc groups meetings. Program Record Number: SPA EXT 125

International Space University
Description: Correspondence, reports, course catalogues, memoranda, general enquiries and requests from individuals, relevant to Canada's contribution to the International Space University activities. Topics: General correspondence, Annual reports, Canada's contributions, Canadian ISU foundation; ISU permanent campus; ISU summer sessions. Program Record Number: SPA EXT 130

Ottawa Office
Description: The files contain ministerial and parliamentary relations information. Topics: Ministerial memoranda, memoranda to Cabinet, Treasury Board Submissions, Written and Oral Anticipated Questions, Correspondence. Program Record Number: SPA COR 205

Policy
Description: Correspondence, reports, briefs, memoranda, general enquiries and requests pertaining to Canadian space activities. Topics: General correspondence; space policy; Long Term Space Plan; programs. Canadian Space Program. Program Record Number: SPA EXT 140

Regional Distribution
Description: Correspondence, reports, memoranda, and data on the regional distribution of Canadian Space Program expenditures. Topics: General correspondence, regional distribution of space and space-related contracts and expenditures; industry team; Government team; SPAR MOU; data base. Program Record Number: SPA EXT 145

Space Agency Forum
Description: Correspondence, reports, memoranda, general enquiries and requests from individuals, national and international organizations relevant to the Space Agency Forum activities. Topics: General correspondence, reports of the Space Agency Forum, Hand-out for distribution; preparation and organization of meetings, participation in working groups. Program Record Number: SPA EXT 135

■ Corporate Services

Audit and Evaluation
Description: Correspondence, reports, memoranda. Topics: Audit and Evaluation. Program Record Number: SPA COR 241

Contracts Administration
Description: The files contain general correspondence, proposals and evaluations, contracts and purchase orders with industry. Topics: Correspondence, contracts for professional services and purchase orders for materials, equipments and supplies. Program Record Number: SPA COR 200

EDP Operations
Description: Information on the operation of the Division. Topics: Administration and Scientists requirements; strategies, standards, policies, computer hardware/software, data communication, office automation, database management, EDP training, computer maintenance, technical support, computer needs, system development, internal and external EDP Professional consultants, future planning. Program Record Number: SPA COR 220

Facilities Management and Telecommunications
Description: In accordance with Treasury Board and CSA policies, provide facilities and telecommunications service to all CSA employees. Topics: Processing requests regarding office disposition services, telephone system services, vehicle fleet management, parking management and forms management. Program Record Number: SPA COR 210

Human Resources
Description: Correspondence, reports, memoranda, general enquiries. Topics: Organization charts, job descriptions, position classifications, staffing, planning, training, development, equity, redeployment, competition posters. Program Record Number: SPA COR 215

Inventory Control, Customs and Excises
Description: Coordination and steering of programs for Life Cycle Material Management of assets throughout the Agency. Topics: Statistics on Agency assets, movement of material on international level, recording and documenting capital acquisitions through crown research projects and grants establishing up to date information on equipment used throughout the Agency. Program Record Number: SPA COR 225

Records Management
Description: Information on the planning, development and implementation of records and of information systems and programs including related services. Topics: Records classification, records retention schedules, equipment relating to records, retrieval and reference services, mail and messenger services, review and analysis of forms, requests under the Access to information and privacy legislation. Program Record Number: SPA COR 240

Relocation Office

Canadian Wheat Board
Chapter 33

General Information

NOTE: THE CANADIAN WHEAT BOARD IS NOT SUBJECT TO THE ACCESS TO INFORMATION ACT.

Background

The Canadian Wheat Board was established by the Canadian Wheat Board Act in 1935 to provide for the orderly marketing of wheat, and since 1949, oats and barley, produced in the area designated by the Act. The marketing of oats was removed from the Board in 1989.

Responsibilities

The Board is obliged by law to purchase wheat and barley offered to it for sale by producers at an elevator or railway car and to pay an initial payment for same in accordance with the Act. The Board is then obliged to market this grain in interprovincial and international markets. The surplus proceeds received upon sale and available for distribution are divided equitably among the producers delivering grain to the Board after the initial payment made to the producers and the Board's operation costs are deducted. The Board is also responsible for administering a delivery system which is designed to maximize marketing opportunities, as well as allocate delivery opportunity among producers wishing to deliver grain for sale in interprovincial and international markets to elevators and railway cars. The Board also administers the Prairie Grain Advance Payments Act pursuant to which advance payments are made to producers undertaking to deliver wheat and barley as quotas permit.

Information Holdings

Grain Growers Advance Payment Records
This bank is used to record the value of cash advances issued and refunds received from grain growers under the Prairie Grain Advance Payments Act. The information gathered is used to monitor the grower's repayment of monies advanced. Repayment is conditional on the grower's delivery and sale of grain as soon as he or she is able to do so. The information is shared with grain companies that act as agents of the Board in making and collecting cash advances. The information is summarized and controlled as required by the federal government. As of August 1990, it will be shared with those lending institutions specified by the producer which have a lien against the grain. Files are retained for three years following the retirement of the advance payment. Bank Number: CWB PPU 010

Grain Growers Delivery Records
This bank contains a record of each producer certificate issued to a grower by a grain company, in payment for the grower's delivery of grain to the Board account. The growers delivery records are the basis for equitable distribution of profits realized from the sale of grain by the Canadian Wheat Board. The information produces statistical statements by district(s), grain company and type of grain. It is shared with Revenue Canada, Employment and Immigration Canada for unemployment insurance purposes and provincial crop insurance organizations. Files are retained for seven years. Bank Number: CWB PPU 015

Grain Growers Payment Records
This bank contains a record of each payment made to grain growers which resulted from an increase in the price paid for grain or from the profits realized from the sale of grain by the Canadian Wheat Board. The information is maintained to control the value of payments and monitor bank cashings, lost cheques, uncashed cheques, etc. Statements are produced showing the value of payments by district(s), kind of grain, date of issuance, date of bank clearance and for other control purposes. Information in this bank is shared with Revenue Canada, Agriculture Canada's NISA and GRIP programs, and in the case of non-resident producers with their representatives in Canada and the Bank of Montreal. Files are retained for seven years. Bank Number: CWB PPU 005

Grain Growers Permit Records
This bank is used to establish and maintain a record of each grain growers' entitlement to market grain under the quota system. Under the authority of the Canadian Wheat Board Act, this bank may contain the Social Insurance Numbers of those producers who chose to supply them. The permit book application information is used to monitor and record grain growers' delivery and sale of grain to Board Account and verify grain growers' entitlement for Cash Advances under the Prairie Grain Advance Payments Act. The grower's name and address are used to distribute profits realized from the sale of grain. Summary statements are produced by district(s) and type of grain for planning purposes. Information in this bank is used to prepare voters' lists for Canadian Wheat Board Advisory committee elections. Various components of the information are also shared with Revenue Canada, Agriculture Canada (including its Special Canadian Grains Program, the Drought Assistance Program and its NISA and GRIP programs), Canada Customs for inter-provincial and export licences, provincial crop insurance organizations, various other provincial institutions, departments and related commodity groups and universities for consistent use and statistical research purposes and the grain companies who are agents of the Board. Files are retained for seven years. Bank Number: CWB PPU 020

Citizenship and Immigration / Human Resources Development

Chapter 34

General Information

Background

New Organizations under Implementation: The creation of a separate Department of Citizenship and Immigration, under its own minister will bring together all Immigration policy and program activities as well as the citizenship responsibilities from Multiculturalism and Citizenship. The Minister will also have the responsibility for the Immigration and Refugee Board.

Human Resources Development: This department will consist of various components from Employment and Immigration, Labour, Health and Welfare, Secretary of State and Multiculturalism and Citizenship with ten regions corresponding to the ten provinces.

Current Organization: The Employment and Immigration Reorganization Act, passed in 1977, created the Canada Employment and Immigration Commission (CEIC) by integrating the former Unemployment Insurance Commission and the former Department of Manpower and Immigration. The legislation also created the Department of Employment and Immigration, which provides services to the Commission and the Minister.

Responsibilities

The specific federal mandate assigned to the Minister of Employment and Immigration under this Act encompasses all matters not assigned by law to other departments, branches or agencies of government, relating to the administration of labour market programs and policies in the areas of employment, unemployment insurance and immigration.

Two major objectives dominate the work of the Commission/ Department: To realize the full productive potential of Canada's human resources, it administers a national unemployment insurance program while supporting the initiatives of individuals to pursue their economic needs and, more generally, their self-fulfilment through work; and to administer the admission of immigrants and non-immigrants in accordance with the economic, social and cultural interest of Canada.

- Department of Multiculturalism and Citizenship Act, S.C. 1991, c. 3

Organization

Employment and Immigration Canada is made up of two organizations, the Canada Employment and Immigration Commission and the Department of Employment and Immigration. The Commission is responsible for all unemployment insurance and immigration programs. The associated program groups, Employment, Insurance and Immigration, collect, generate and use the bulk of personal information on clients. The Department consists of Public Affairs, Strategic Policy and Planning and Youth Affairs.

■ Transition and Renewal Secretariat

There are four components to the secretariat: Operations, Development, Communications and Administration. In order to meet the mandate, the Secretariat is tasked with working closely with the Chairs of the Working Groups and Steering Committee to steer the process, to identify and solve problems and to ensure the integration of all aspects of the transition and renewal exercise. It will advise on the process of organization building, based on research, external expertise and consultation, through the development of a mission and shared values and practices. The Secretariat will also provide timely, factual and anecdotal information on the process.

■ Corporate Secretariat

The Secretariat consists of Briefing, Cabinet and Parliamentary Affairs, Executive Services, Information and Correspondence Management, Stakeholder and Intergovernmental Relations, Public Rights Administration Directorate, and the National Aboriginal Management Board Secretariat. It is responsible for support services to the Commission and the senior management, the coordination of corporate issues and activities, federal-provincial and international relations, and the administration of the Privacy, Human Rights and Access to Information Acts.

■ Employment Group

The Employment Group is responsible for the efficient functioning of the Canadian labour market. One of the objectives of this group is to match job opportunities with available qualified workers and to ensure that employers can get the skilled workers they need in a timely and effective manner.

It also encourages human resource planning by the private sector, the adjustment of enterprises, and assistance to individuals in adjusting to changing labour market conditions.

The Employment Group provides assistance where it is most needed, by focusing programs on individuals, employers and communities that would benefit most from government support. It has been restructured to focus on a continuum of programs and services that will provide our clients with the best quality of service possible.

The legislative authorities for the activities of the Employment Group are contained in the National Employment Service Regulations, the National Training Act, the Annual Appropriation Act and the Employment Equity Act.

Targets and means of monitoring are established to ensure the equitable participation by women in all labour market programs. There are also special approaches tailored to the needs of individuals with employment disadvantages, and to the special needs of Canada's Aboriginal peoples.

■ Financial and Administrative Services

This group provides financial, administrative operational and management support services to EIC's operations in NHQ and in the regions to ensure accountability, control and security.

■ Human Resources Services

This group provides a full range of personnel services to EIC.

■ Immigration Group

This group is responsible for the development, implementation and assessment of immigration policies and services. Its activities include the recruitment and selection of immigrants, the regulation of the entry of refugees, temporary workers, foreign students and visitors to Canada and responsibility for processing applications from prospective immigrants and for issuing various types of visas at posts abroad when the request is initiated outside Canada. Other responsibilities include reporting on international migration issues, developing and revising of policies and ensuring compliance with the business immigration programs – entrepreneur, self-employed and investor, assisting Canadian residents on their return to Canada and assisting with the settlement and integration of recently arrived immigrants. The work of the group also encompasses the exclusion, control or expulsion of persons whose admission or stay in Canada is prohibited by law. In addition, it is also responsible for the provision of services and advice in the fields of immigration medicine and related issues.

■ Insurance Group

This group develops and executes legislation, policies, programs and systems with respect to benefit payments and control of payments according to the Unemployment Insurance Act, administered by the Commission, including regular, sickness, maternity and parental unemployment insurance benefits, benefits paid to claimants referred to approved training, benefits paid to claimants in approved work sharing and job creation projects, and labour adjustment benefits. The Group represents the Commission in submitting or contesting appeals with respect to decisions concerning such benefits. It is also responsible for the development of financial parameters under the Unemployment Insurance Act as well as for policy development with respect to the Supplementary Unemployment Benefits Program, the Interstate Claim Program, Social Insurance Number Program, the Government Annuities Program and the Unemployment Insurance Premium Reduction Program.

■ National Services

National Services is responsible for the administration of the Social Insurance Number, the Canadian Government Annuities and the Unemployment Insurance Premium Reduction programs.

■ Public Affairs Branch

The Public Affairs Branch plans, co-ordinates, advises and implements EIC activities in the areas of communications planning and evaluation, internal communications, public opinion research, promotion, information, media relations, publishing and advertising. The Branch informs the public, in both official languages, about EIC policies, programs and services related to Unemployment Insurance, Immigration, Employment, Social Development and Education, Labour and Income Security Programs.

■ Strategic Policy

This group has broad responsibility for developing and maintaining statistical information banks which may be used for research, evaluation, policy and program analysis, and development in support of the various EIC programs and services. The data are frequently extracted from the personal information banks described in the previous sections and they may be supplemented by questionnaires, surveys or other research tools. These data may be of interest to several groups within EIC.

■ Systems and Procedures Group

This group is responsible for the development and operation of the manual and electronic data processing systems required to execute EIC's programs.

■ Youth Affairs Group

The Youth Affairs Group is the organizational branch of EIC which supports the office of the Minister of State for Youth by providing a broad advisory and coordination role for youth issues and concerns.

Social Development and Education

(Formerly located in Health and Welfare Canada as Social Services Programs Branch)

Promotes and supports the social and economic well-being of Canadians through programs and policies which ensure a cohesive, effective and fair system of social assistance to persons determined to be in need as a result of a financial test of need, and welfare services (such as day care) to persons in need or likely to become in need if the services were not provided; advance the full participation in Canadian life of women and persons with disabilities; help to ensure that Canadians have the opportunity to acquire the literacy skills they need to participate fully in the social and economic life of Canada; provide financial support for post-secondary education and help make post-secondary education more accessible to needy students; promote quality child care; and facilitate the adoption of children from abroad and their relocation to Canada.

■ Cost-shared Programs Directorate

(Formerly Health and Welfare Canada, part of the Social Services Program Branch)

The Directorate administers three cost shared programs. The Canada Assistance Plan (CAP) is a cost-sharing program through which Canada contributes to the eligible costs incurred by provinces, territories and municipalities of providing social assistance, welfare services of a preventive, supportive or rehabilitative nature, and work activity projects intended to improve the employability of persons who have employment difficulties.

The Vocational Rehabilitation of Disabled Persons Act (VRDP) is a cost-sharing program through which Canada pays 50 per cent of the costs incurred by the provinces in providing a comprehensive program for the vocational rehabilitation of physically and mentally disabled persons. The Act also enables Canada to make direct contributions to individuals and non-governmental organizations for vocational rehabilitation research.

■ Social Development Directorate

Supports and promotes the development of social infrastructures, expertise and services aimed at enhancing the autonomy, social integration and quality of life of individuals, families and communities.

Child Care Programs Division:

Created in December 1987 as a part of the National Strategy on Child Care, is committed to enhancing and sustaining high-quality child care in Canada. It is responsible for administering the Child Care Initiatives Fund, a contribution program, for innovative research and development projects and public awareness programs; and providing consultation and information services on child care (through the National Child Care Information Centre) to government and non-government offices, associations, professionals, individuals, and the daycare community at large.

National Welfare Grants Division:

National Welfare Grants Division (NWG) is a National Social Research and Development Program that develops and promotes knowledge and resources which address significant social development issues facing Canadians and Canadian society. NWG provides project contribution funds to non-profit organizations to address priority social development issues which contribute significantly to the social and economic well-being of Canadians. National Welfare Grants Fellowships are available for full-time study leading to advanced diplomas or doctoral degrees in social welfare or a closely related field. Grants are provided to national voluntary social service organizations as partial funding for national office activities.

National Adoption Desk:

The National Adoption Desk provides services related to International adoptions to provinces and territories. The Desk's primary activities are the development of new and maintenance of existing Intercountry Adoption Programs; coordination of intercountry adoption cases on behalf of the provinces and territories; and coordination of information and intercountry adoption matters among the provinces/territories, other federal departments and foreign authorities. The Desk represents all provinces and territories except Quebec which manages its own relations with other provinces and foreign countries through the Secrétariat à l'adoption internationale de Québec.

Disabled Persons Unit:
Promote and support the development of programs and services that enhance opportunities for persons with disabilities to live and work within the community. Working with other federal departments, national voluntary organizations and the private-sector, the Unit co-ordinates activities which promote and support the development of programs and services that enhance opportunities for persons with disabilities to live and work within the community. Under the National Strategy for the Integration of Persons with Disabilities, the Unit administers a contribution program to support community and economic integration for persons with disabilities and the social integration of children and youth with disabilities. The Unit also provides funding in support of the Independent Living Centre pilot project in partnership with the Canadian Association of Independent Living Centres.

■ Education Support Branch

(Formerly located in Department of the Secretary of State of Canada)
The Branch administers post-secondary education payments to the provinces and territories under the Federal-Provincial Fiscal Arrangements Act and the Federal Post-Secondary Education and Health Contributions Act (1977). It co-operates with the Department of External Affairs in ensuring the effectiveness of Canada's participation in international educational activities. It conducts research and analysis related to the development of national education issues. It develops responses to questions from institutions related to education, from Parliament and from the public. It works with Statistics Canada to collect statistics concerning education, maintains a database on information relevant to education, consults with federal and provincial departments, and produces an annual report to Parliament on Federal and Provincial Support to Post-Secondary Education in Canada.

Women's Program:
(Formerly located in Department of the Secretary of State of Canada) Responsible for providing financial and technical assistance to voluntary organizations working towards equality for women. Its objectives are: To increase public understanding in order to encourage action on women's equality issues; to promote the organizational development of women's groups in order to increase their effectiveness in working towards equality for women; and to promote action by institutions to incorporate women's equality issues in their decision-making structures, policies and programs.

Status of Disabled Persons Secretariat:
(Formerly located in Department of the Secretary of State of Canada) Promotes collaboration and partnership among federal and provincial governments, business, labour, academics, service providers, and persons with disabilities in order to achieve equal access, economic integration and full participation for person with disabilities. It plans and co-ordinates initiatives of the federal government, such as the National Strategy for the Integration of Persons with Disabilities, the review of federal legislation, and provides advice and support to federal departments and agencies regarding policy initiatives which impact on Canadians with disabilities. It also provides information to all Canadians through the Canadian Clearinghouse on Disability Issues.

Disabled Persons Participation Program (DPPP):
(Formerly located in Department of the Secretary of State of Canada) The DPPP consists of two funding components: the Disability Organizational Fund and the Partnership Fund. Project funding and technical assistance from the Disability Organization Fund have helped organizations of persons with disabilities work to change the attitudes, systems and practices that have kept them from getting jobs and gaining access to buildings, goods, services, and information.

In 1991, as part of the National Strategy for the Integration of Persons with Disabilities, the Program was expanded to include a Partnership Fund allowing other relevant organizations an opportunity to join with groups of persons with disabilities to affect change. Through these two funding components, the Program addresses four objectives: representation, improving access, promoting positive attitudes, changing community decision making.

Student Assistance Branch:
(Formerly located in Department of the Secretary of State of Canada) Manages the Canada Student Loans Program (CSLP). Established in 1964, the program is designed to make post-secondary education more accessible to needy Canadians by providing loans to full-time students, an interest relief program for unemployed and temporarily disabled ex-borrowers, and a provision to allow the forgiveness of loans to permanently disabled borrowers. The Branch also conducts research and analysis on the needs of Canadian post-secondary students for financial assistance. The Branch answers questions on student assistance from members of Parliament, interest groups and the public. It consults with interest groups (through a national advisory group) and provincial directors of student aid (through the intergovernmental Consultative Committee on Student Financial Assistance).

National Literacy Secretariat:
(Formerly located in Multiculturalism and Citizenship Canada) Was established on a permanent basis in 1988 as part of a national literacy strategy to help ensure that Canadians have the literacy skills necessary to participate fully in the social and economic life of Canada. The Secretariat acts like a catalyst and facilitator in this national effort to make Canada a more literate society. It directs its efforts to forging more cooperative relationships with a variety of partners – all the provinces and territories, voluntary organizations, business and labour – in support of five types of activities: developing learning materials; improving co-ordination and information-sharing; increasing public awareness; improving access and outreach; and supporting research. The Program has two funding streams. Through its federal/provincial/territorial stream, it sponsors projects which are directed to regional or local needs. And, through its national funding stream, it supports projects in partnership with a variety of non-governmental and voluntary organizations, both literacy and non-literacy groups and business and labour organizations. Broadly speaking, initiatives with these groups address an issue or concern of relevance to literacy in Canada from a national perspective. The National Literacy Program does not fund the provision of direct, on-going literacy services.

■ National Council of Welfare

(Formerly Health and Wealth Canada)
The National Council of Welfare was established by the Government Organization Act, 1969 as a citizens' advisory body to the Minister of National Health and Welfare. Its mandate is to advise the Minister on matters pertaining to welfare. The council consists of 21 members drawn from across Canada and appointed by the Governor in Council. All are private citizens and serve in their personal capacities rather than as representatives of organizations or agencies.

■ Income Security Programs Branch

(Formerly Health and Welfare Canada)

The objective of the branch is to develop, deliver and administer programs for seniors and their spouses, the disabled, survivors, families with children, and migrants, that promote and strengthen the income security of the people of Canada. The Assistant Deputy Minister directs five major directorates: the Canada Pension Plan, Programs Policy and Legislation, Branch Executive Services, International Benefits and Foreign Affairs, and Systems and Technology Management.

■ The Canada Pension Plan (CPP)

A compulsory, contributory social insurance program which provides a measure of protection to Canadian workers and their families against the loss of earnings due to death, disability or retirement.

■ Old Age Security Program (OAS)

This program consists of the following benefits payable under the Old Age Security Act: the Old Age Security Basic Pension, the incometested Guaranteed Income Supplement (GIS) for pensioners who have little or no income, and the income-tested Spouse's Allowance (SPA) for spouses, between the ages of 60 to 65, of pensioners in receipt of the GIS and a Widowed Spouse's Allowance for spouses between 60 and 65, who are widowed and who meet the established income test and legal residence in Canada criteria.

■ Programs Policy and Legislation Directorate

This Directorate, through two divisions, is responsible for the examination of income security-related issues, related policy planning and development; development and interpretation of ISP policy and legislation; federal/provincial negotiation on CPP amendments; provision of advice to senior management and the Minister on program policy matters; dealing with challenges to ISP legislation under the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms and the Human Rights Act; providing secretariat support to the Canada Pension Plan Advisory Board and its Committees; maintenance of program statistics and forecasting program expenditures and beneficiary estimates for policy initiatives.

■ International Benefits and Foreign Affairs Directorate

This directorate is responsible for the negotiation of international Social Security agreements; management of Canada's involvement in international social security organizations; provision of technical assistance and training in response to requests from social security institutions in developing countries; adjudication and processing of all applications covered by established international agreements; and liaison with foreign organizations and governments.

■ Systems and Technology Management Directorate

This directorate is responsible for the management of information and technology to support all aspects of benefit delivery and administration of the Branch. This entails the maintenance, enhancement, development, testing and implementation of Branch application systems including the Old Age Security System, the Canada Pension Plan System, the International Agreements System, and the Children's Special Allowances System.

■ Child Tax Benefit and Children's Special Allowances

A monthly Special Allowance is paid to child care agencies, government departments and institutions, and sometimes to foster parents who are caring for children under the age of 18. Legislation was enacted effective January 1, 1993 to replace the Family Allowances Program, the Refundable Tax Credit with the Child Tax Benefit Program, consisting of a single social benefit delivered through the income tax system. ISP will phase out the administration of the Family Allowances Program by the end of 1993. It currently retains the responsibility for determination of eligibility for the Child Tax Benefit. Revenue Canada is responsible for determination of benefit amount and authorization of payment. ISP is responsible for all aspects of the Children's Special Allowances program for children in foster and institutional care. All Child Tax Benefit information holdings are the responsibility of the Minister of National Revenue.

Regional Offices and Client Service Centres:

Regional offices exist in the Atlantic, Québec, Ontario, Manitoba/Saskatchewan, Alberta/Northwest Territories and the Pacific/Yukon. They support a network of 12 regional processing centres, full-time and part-time itinerant client services to the public in all matters relating to income security program benefits, including the distribution of applications for such benefits. Each Regional Office provides administrative and operational support for the network of client service centres under its jurisdiction.

The Canada Pension Plan Directorate:

For purposes of program integrity and efficiency, a number of CPP functions are carried out in National Headquarters. Functions are carried out by six divisions and include the determination, through the evaluation of an applicant's medical history and profile, of eligibility for CPP disability benefits; the processing and maintenance of disability accounts; the processing of dual accounts (those workers whose contributions were made to both the CPP and the Québec Pension Plan); the maintenance of the Records of Earnings file consisting of all CPP earnings and contributor information on some 20 million Canadians; the processing of all accounts requiring manual processing benefits; and the reconciliation for CPP financial accounts, Headquarters payment authorization and Dual Billing.

Branch Executive Services Directorate:

This directorate, through five divisions, provides a number of services to the branch including the coordination of responses to client CPP and OAS appeals; the assessment of the risk of monetary error and fraud and recommendation for preventive and corrective measures; operational and administrative support; planning and information analysis; training and development; resolution of problems and preparation of responses to ministerial enquiries on Income Security Program issues, coordination of Access to Information and Privacy functions for the branch, and providing appropriate training to staff to ensure conformity with legislative requirements; provision of translation and text revision services; and organizing in-house language training for Headquarters and regional staff.

■ Regional Organization

EIC maintains an extensive field organization, comprising some 900 local and district offices across Canada, which is divided into 10 regions, corresponding to the provinces (with the Yukon and Northwest Territories included in the British Columbia and Alberta regions, respectively). Canada Immigration Centres deliver the programs of the Immigration Group and Canada Employment Centres deliver the programs of Employment and Insurance. Local activities are directed by a regional office in each province. (See "Additional Information" at the end of this chapter for addresses.)

Citizenship

The Citizenship Sector comprises major activities that promote and develop citizenship in order to facilitate active and equal participation in Canadian society.

■ Policy, Planning, and Management

The Policy, Planning, and Management Branch provides advice/expertise in policy research and development and coordinates all aspects of planning and management services in order to facilitate achievement of the objective of the Citizenship activity.

■ Citizenship Registration and Promotion

The Citizenship Registration and Promotion Branch is responsible for the administration of the Citizenship Act and Regulations. It also provides a national service for the granting of Canadian citizenship and the issuing of certificates of proof of citizenship; a service for record searches, the registration of births abroad, the retention, resumption and renunciation of citizenship; provides self instructional materials to help citizenship applicants acquire a knowledge of Canada. It also promotes public awareness and understanding of Canadian citizenship and its privileges and responsibilities through the development of promotional programs and materials. The organizational structure of the Branch includes a headquarters located partly in Hull, Quebec (executive direction, advisory services and quality control) and partly in Sydney, Nova Scotia (processing and maintenance of more than 5.5 million records). There is also a total of 32 Citizenship courts and one card centre located in cities across the country which are managed by Regional Directors.

Electronic Data Processing (EDP) Systems
The Insurance Group uses integrated clerical, manual and EDP systems to deliver its programs and services. The following systems support the various insurance programs. These systems may support several of the information banks already described; the numbers of the corresponding banks are given in all instances.
(1) Benefit Pay Systems (EDP-1): These systems support the administration of the unemployment insurance benefit program and may be used to produce payments, update status of claims, maintain a history of overpayments, produce monthly and quarterly statistical reports on operations, overpayments and accounting, produce T4U/TP4Us showing benefits paid and income tax deducted for each claimant, and support associated enquiry functions in local and regional offices. Information is held on magnetic tape/disk. (EIC PPU 150;155;170;180).
(2) Employment and Benefits Systems (EDP-2): These systems use data from the above banks to make available claimant benefit and overpayment data via computer terminals located in local and regional offices. (EIC PPU 005; 150; 155; 180).
(3) Benefit Systems – Control (EDP-3): These systems support the Insurance Group control activities and may be used for detection of unreported work and earnings by unemployment insurance beneficiaries; to track debtors from EIC records; to compare Social Insurance Numbers issued/used to identify misuse; and for micrographic listings for the general control of insurance programs. Information is held on magnetic tape/disk. (EIC PPU 210; 215).

Electronic Data Processing (EDP) Systems

The Immigration Group uses an integrated clerical, manual and EDP system to deliver its programs and services. The following sub-systems support the various immigration programs and services. These sub-systems may support several of the information banks already described; the numbers of the corresponding banks are given in all instances. All sub-systems (except the Settlement Management Information System) are linked to each other, either by a full computer connection (interface), or by information enabling a physical check of the systems. Therefore, actions in one sub-system can and do effect the smooth running of others. Approximately 25 separate immigration forms, with a total volume of 1,000,000 documents, are processed through these sub-systems each year.

(1) Immigration Data System Overseas (IDSO) (EDP-1); Immigration Data System Canada (IDSC) (EDP-2); IDSO and IDSC maintain a record of all applications for permanent resident status either at an overseas office or from within Canada. The systems produce information in support of the recruitment and selection function. The data are case-oriented and can only be accessed by providing the case serial number recorded on the landing record. Files, including microfilm records, date back to 1975. Records are kept for 15 years. (EIC PPU 225)

(2) Landed Immigrant Data System (EDP-3): The Landed Immigrant Data System retains a permanent record of the granting of permanent residence to individuals. Its main purpose is to create an official name index which is used by immigration officers in Canada and abroad to verify an individual's status in Canada as well as legal proof of residence for citizenship, Old Age Security, Family Allowance, welfare, etc. In addition, information from the system is the sole source for all Commission reports on permanent residents. (EIC PPU 230)
(3) Visitor Data System (EDP-4): The Visitor Data System retains a permanent record of all persons who have been granted permission to enter or remain in Canada for a temporary period either as a visitor, student, temporary worker or permit holder. Its main purpose is to create an official name index which is used by immigration officers in Canada to verify an individual's status in Canada. In addition, information from this system is the sole source for all Commission reports on visitors and Minister's permit holders. Data to produce the annual report to Parliament on Minister's permits are retained in this system. (EIC PPU 285; 290;295;300)
(4) Enforcement Information Index (EII)(EDP-5): See EIC PPU 265 for details.)
(5) Enforcement Data System (EDS) (EDP-6): (See EIC PPU 270 for details.)
(6) Field Operational Support System (FOSS) (EDP-7): FOSS is designed to provide relevant information in order to allow status checks by field offices via computer terminal. It is the basic support of the inland and port of entry function. The feeder systems are: Enforcement Information Index (EII); Enforcement Data System (EDS), the Landed Immigrant Data System, and Visitor Data System (VIDS). FOSS output is available through an on-line terminal system in Canada.
(7) Settlement Management Information System (SMIS): It is used throughout Settlement as the basic tool for management of programs and services. Provides Settlement information on the contracted non-governmental organizations for monitoring the effectiveness of Settlement services as well as a record of adjustment assistance granted to newcomers in need. The information is used in the administration of financial assistance loans. Settlement programs are: Immigrant Settlement and Adaptation Program (ISAP)(PPU 250), Host Adjustment Assistance Program (AAP)(PPU 226), Transportation Assistance and Admissibility Loans Program (TAALP)(PPU 305) and Language Instruction for Newcomers to Canada (LINC).

A set of EDS (EIC PPU 270) and EII (EIC PPU 265) cases produced on microfiche is distributed to posts (embassies and consulates) abroad.

Enforcement Data System

Description: The bank contains information from the enforcement records of persons who have come under examination at a port of entry or at an inland Canada Immigration Centre. The bank includes a report from an immigration officer and a record of the enquiry, appeal and removal process. Records may include name, address, birth date, country of birth, enforcement action undertaken (i.e. a report, arrest, inquiry or removal under the Immigration Act), and the date and place of each event in the process. The deportation order is available on persons subject to the removal process from January 1, 1973. Some of the information may be duplicated in the Immigrant Case File (EIC PPU 225) and the Permanent Resident Data System (EIC PPU 230). ■ National Services

Electronic Data Processing (EDP) Systems

National Services uses integrated clerical, manual and electronic data processing systems to deliver EIC's services. The following systems support the administration of the Social Insurance Number program and the Government Annuities program, which are administered by the group, as well as the Record of Employment (third copy) program.

(1) Information Systems – Social Insurance Number Registration (EDP-1): These systems support the administration of the Social Insurance Number (SIN) program by maintaining a database of all SINs issued in Canada which is used to validate SIN data, produce reports and micrographics. Information is held on high-speed cartridges. (EIC PPU 390)
(2) Information Systems – Annuities (EDP-2): These systems support the administration of the Government Annuities Program, and are used to produce payments; T4 slips for annuity contracts in payment; related financial, actuarial and administrative reports; and a database for contracts not yet in payment. Information is held on magnetic tape. (EIC PPU 395)
(3) Insurance Systems – Control (EDP-3): These systems support the insurance control activities by using information from the Record of Employment, Report on Hirings, Wage Loss Insurance Program and other EIC control systems to identify fraud and abuse of insurance programs. (EIC PPU 385)

Government Annuities

Record of Employment (Third Copy)

Description: This bank consists of copies of individual Record of Employment forms received by Employment and Immigration Canada's head office from employers. Each record may contain employee's name, address, Social Insurance Number and occupation; employer's name, address and RC/T number; data pertaining to the length of employment, date and reason for separation, expected date of recall, and insurable weeks and earnings of the employee. All requests for access must identify the period of employment covered by the record of employment. Class of Individuals: Unemployment insurance claimants as well as those people who changed jobs but did not claim unemployment insurance benefits. Purpose: This bank is used in the administration and enforcement of the Unemployment Insurance Act. Consistent Uses: The information may be used by Employment and Immigration Canada for statistical, planning and internal audit purposes. It may be provided to private sector research firms for the purposes of planning, statistics, research and evaluation. Subject to formal agreement, selected information may be shared with other federal or provincial departments for research, planning and evaluation purposes. Information may also be shared with the Department of Justice for the purpose of administering the Family Orders and Agreements Enforcement Assistance Act. It may also be released to the issuing employer in exceptional circumstances. Releases of information are subject to the provisions of section 96 of the Unemployment Insurance Act. Retention and Disposal Standards: Files are retained for ten years. TBS Registration: 001971 Contact: Manager, Central Index, P.O. Box 7000, Bathurst, New Brunswick E2A 4T1 or Manager, Canada Employment Centre (consult telephone directory for address) Bank Number: EIC PPU 385

Social Insurance Number Registration

Description: Information in the individual records includes the applicant's first name, middle name, surname, date of birth, surname at birth, other surnames formerly used, sex, whether the applicant is a twin, place of birth, father's full name, mother's full name at birth; it also shows the Social Insurance Number (SIN) issued or re-issued, status in Canada, telephone number, mailing address, and may include the martial status and the name and address of the employer. The microfilm image also shows the date of application, the applicant's signature and witnesses when required. This bank contains a microfilm image of each approved application for issuance of a Social Insurance Number, for issuance of a replacement Social Insurance Number card, or for amendment of social insurance register records. All requests for access by individuals must include the Social Insurance Number, name and place and date of birth of the individual. Also required is the family name at birth of the individual's mother, as well as the documentary proof of identity required in submitting an original application for a Social Insurance Number. Particulars of the documentary evidence required can be obtained by contacting any Canada Employment Centre. Class of Individuals: Canadian citizens, registered Indians, permanent residents and individuals who are neither Canadian citizens nor permanent residents. Purpose: The purpose for which the information is obtained is to register persons pursuant to section 107 of the Unemployment Insurance Act and subsection 100(1) of the Canada Pension Plan Act to record persons in respect of whom an application has been made to the Commission, and to identify accurately all persons so registered. It is also for use in the administration of certain Acts of Canada, such as the Unemployment Insurance Act, the Canada Pension Plan Act and the Old Age Security Act. Exchange of information with Revenue Canada (Taxation) and other federal departments is also provided for under the Canada Pension Plan Act, the Family Allowance Act and the Unemployment Insurance Act. Information may also be shared with the Department of Justice for the purpose of administering the Family Orders and Agreements Enforcement Assistance Act. Similarly, special Social Insurance Numbers are issued for immigration and other purposes to persons who are neither Canadian citizens nor permanent residents pursuant to the Unemployment Insurance Regulations in conjunction with the Immigration Act. Therefore, information on the Social Insurance Number Register is exchangeable with EIC officials administering the immigration program. Consistent Uses: Subsection 108(4) of the Unemployment Insurance Act provides for the use of Social Insurance Register data for the accurate identification of individuals and for the effective use by such individuals of their social insurance cards and numbers. On this basis, the Central Index will, if an authorized enquirer presents data about a Social Insurance Number holder sufficient to identify that holder on the Social Insurance Registers, divulge the holder's Social Insurance Number to the enquirer. This is known as "give the SIN" and is extended to employers or former employers to meet the requirements of the Unemployment Insurance Act and the Income Tax Act. This service is also extended to other government departments, and to organizations in other levels of governments, where the Commission has approved such an exchange with the enquiring organization. Examples are: Department of National Defence (the Social Insurance Number is used as a service number by armed services personnel), Veterans Affairs Canada, Prince Edward Island Medical Care Plan (administration of Health Insurance Plan), the Department of the Secretary of State – Student Loans (administration of Canada Student Loans Program), Impôt Québec (administration of Québec Income Tax), Commission de la santé et la sécurité au travail (administration of the Quebec workmen's compensation plan), Régie des rentes du Québec (administration of the Quebec Pension Plan), and Régie de l'assurance-maladie du Québec (administration of the Quebec Health Insurance Plan). Moreover, an employer or former employer who has lost contact with an employee and who needs his/her Social Insurance Number to meet legal requirements, can obtain it through the Central Index. The RCMP may request data from the bank when they are required for the purposes of investigations under the Unemployment Insurance Act, the Canada Pension Plan Act, Family Allowance Act and the Income Tax Act. Data may also be released to the RCMP to assist the Force to identify deceased persons and to inform their next of kin, where the circumstances of death would otherwise make such identification and notification difficult. Finally, the RCMP may request the identity of the person whose Social Insurance Number appears inscribed upon an item of property believed stolen, where it appears that the owner intended his/her Social Insurance Number to be used this way. The RCMP may also request information from the Social Insurance Registers for the purposes of accurate identification of individuals. Other police forces may request similar information, but only through the RCMP. Retention and Disposal Standards: Files are retained for one hundred years after the Social Insurance Number has been issued. Related to PR#: EIC NSB 585 TBS Registration: 002396 Contact: Manager, Central Index, P.O. Box 7000, Bathurst, New Brunswick E2A 4T1 Bank Number: EIC PPU 390

Copyright Board Canada
Chapter 35

General Information

Background

The Copyright Board was created by a series of amendments to the Copyright Act which were proclaimed on February 1, 1989. It also has attributions under the Free Trade Agreement Implementation Act. It replaced the Copyright Appeal Board which had been responsible since 1935 for approving annual tariffs respecting the public performance of music. The Copyright Board is designated as a department in accordance with and for the purposes of the Financial Administration Act.

Responsibilities

The Copyright Board is an independent administrative tribunal which has four principal attributions:

- approving tariffs for the retransmission of distant radio and television signals;
- approving tariffs for the public performance of music;
- arbitrating disputes on copyright fees between licensing bodies representing copyright owners and users; and
- in cases where the copyright owner is unlocatable, approving non-exclusive licences for use of published works protected by copyright.

The Board reports annually to Parliament through the Minister of Industry and Science.

Legislation

- Copyright Act, R.S.C. 1985, c. C-42
- Act to amend the Copyright Act, S.C. 1988, c. 15
- Act to implement the Free Trade Agreement between Canada and the United States of America, S.C. 1988, c. 65

Organization

The Board consists of a chairman, a vice-chairman and a maximum of three other members, all appointed by the Governor in Council. The Chairman, who must be a judge of a superior, county or district court, directs the work of the Board and apportions its work among the members of the Board. The Vice-Chairman, who is the Chief Executive Officer of the Board, supervises and directs the work of the Board's staff. The senior staff of the Board consists of the General Counsel and the Secretary to the Board.

Correctional Investigator Canada
Chapter 36

General Information

Background
The Office of the Correctional Investigator was established by Part II of the Inquiries Act. The office investigates complaints from inmates as defined in the Penitentiary Act and reports upon problems of inmates that fall within the responsibility of the Solicitor General of Canada and meet the following conditions:

(1) The subject matter of the complaint concerns an incident occurring within twelve months of the lodging of the complaint;

(2) The complainant has taken, in the opinion of the Commissioner, all reasonable steps to exhaust legal or administrative remedies;

(3) The subject matter of the complaint does not involve the preparation of material for consideration by the National Parole Board.

The Commissioner need not investigate if the subject matter of a complaint has previously been investigated, or in the opinion of the Commissioner, a person complaining has no valid interest in the matter.

Responsibilities
The Correctional Investigator investigates and reports on the problems of inmates that come within the responsibility of the Solicitor General of Canada (other than those problems raised on complaint in certain defined circumstances). Investigations are undertaken at the request of the Solicitor General, on the Investigator's own initiative, or upon complaint from or on behalf of inmates as defined in the Penitentiary Act.

Legislation
- Parole Act and Regulations
- Penitentiary Act
- Penitentiary Service Regulations
- Prison and Reformatories Act

Organization
The Office of the Correctional Investigator comprises three secretarial/administrative positions, a director of investigations and five investigators.

Correctional Service of Canada
Chapter 37

General Information

Background

In 1977, the Correctional Service of Canada (CSC) was formed through the amalgamation of the Canadian Penitentiary Service and the National Parole Service.

Responsibilities

Mission: The Correctional Service of Canada, as part of the criminal justice system, contributes to the protection of society by actively encouraging offenders to become law-abiding citizens, while exercising reasonable, safe, secure and humane control. The CSC provides programs for offenders from pre-admission until the expiration of their sentence. In order to carry out its responsibilities, the Correctional Service creates files to hold information on prisons, organizations and occurrences that affect or may affect it in the carrying out of its mandate. Information must be collected from and shared with numerous sources, such as the community at large, with special consideration for victims of crime, as is explained in the section "General Information on Data Matching", at the end of this chapter.

Legislation

- Criminal Code RSC, 1985, c. C-46
- Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1976
- Criminal Records Act RSC, 1985, c. C-47
- Corrections and Conditional Release Act, SC 1992, c. C-20
- Prison and Reformatories Act RSC, 1985, c. P-20
- Young Offenders Act RSC, 1985, c. R-1

Organization

■ Commissioner Office

This Commissioner, under the direction of the Solicitor General, manages and guides the policies and programs of the Correctional Service of Canada. Included in this office is a Senior Deputy Commissioner who supports the Commissioner in the management and direction of the Service.

■ Legal Services Sector

This sector provides a variety of in-house legal services to the Commissioner and staff of the Correctional Service of Canada in connection with matters relating to the operation of the Service.

■ Executive Services Sector

This sector is responsible for daily liaison with the office of the Solicitor General; the preparation of executive correspondence for the Commissioner and Solicitor General; the development of policies and the final level of the inmate grievance system; responses to the Correctional Investigator and the Canadian Human Rights Commission; and administers the Privacy Act and the Access to Information Act.

Correspondence and Ministerial Liaison Division:

Responsible for coordinating, preparing and vetting all matters relating to the preparation of executive correspondence to the Commissioner, Minister's Office, other Members of Parliament, Senators, and assemblies.

Inmate Affairs Branch:

Responsible for providing advice to senior management on matters pertaining to the treatment of inmates and overall Inmate affairs. This branch also represents the Correctional Service of Canada in its dealings with the Correctional Investigator and with the inmate Human Rights Commissioner complaints. The division is also involved in the coordination of the Independent Chairperson.

Access to Information and Privacy Division:

Responsible for administering the Access to Information Act and Privacy Act for the CSC. It processes requests submitted under the legislation, handles complaints lodged with the Information and Privacy Commissioners and responds to informal enquiries. The Division also provides advice and guidance to CSC officials on matters which concern the legislation.

■ Correctional Programs and Operations Sector

Correctional Programs Division:

Responsible for the policy development and planning of Education, Personal Development, Substance Abuse, Family Violence and Federal-Provincial Relations.

Institutional Operations Division:

Responsible for policy development, planning, operational monitoring and evaluation of the Unit Management, Correctional Operations and Internal Security.

Case Management and Community Corrections Division:

Responsible for policy development, planning, operational monitoring and evaluation of the Case Management, Sentence Management, Community Facilities and International Transfers.

Health Care Services Division:

Responsible for developing policies, program objectives and standards for the provision of medical, psychiatric, psychological, dental, surgical and nursing care to offenders.

Planning and Information Division:
Responsible for the coordination of planning and resource allocation, including financial administration and systems development, as they relate to the sector, as well as management information.

Chaplaincy Division:
Responsible for policy development, monitoring and evaluation of chaplaincy services.

Native and Female Offenders Division:
Responsible for the policy development, monitoring and evaluation of programs for native and female offenders.

CORCAN Special Operating Agency:
Responsible for the policy development, monitoring and evaluation of operations, corporate development, engineering, marketing and sales of products manufactured by offenders.

■ Corporate Management Sector

The Sector provides finance and administrative services that are common to all government departments.

Operational Planning and Resource Analysis Division:
Responsible for developing, implementing and coordinating the Correctional Service of Canada's corporate planning and accountability systems. This division is also responsible for coordinating the development of the Corporate Operational Plan, the Multi-Year Operational Plan, the Long Range Accommodation Plan and the Expenditure Plan. As a component of the accountability framework, Operational Planning is also responsible for developing, implementing and maintaining an executive information system.

Information Technology Branch:
Responsible for the functional direction and control of Information Management Planning, policy systems and administration, data and computer operations, applications development and maintenance, EDP Security and Information Holdings and Technology Planning.

Technical Services Branch:
This branch is accountable for proposing and establishing program priorities, performance standards, budgetary levels, funding strategies and operational policies for the technical services function, which directly affects all staff and inmates of the Correctional Service of Canada and which covers the functions of facilities planning, construction and maintenance, property leasing fire safety, non-EDP electronics systems and devises development, installation, maintenance, material management, administration and food services.

Finance Branch:
Responsible for the financial administration of the Correctional Service of Canada and its systems of financial planning, control, reporting and evaluating. The Senior Full-Time Financial Officer provides functional direction to Responsibility Centre Managers and their financial staff at Headquarters and in the five Regional offices and through them, to each institution and parole office.

■ Communications and Corporate Development Sector

This sector is responsible for the development and formulation of a comprehensive corporate policy framework, strategic planning and international development, and for research, program evaluation, and communications.

Policy Planning and International Development Branch:
Responsible for developing a corporate policy framework, reviewing all policy proposals and for liaison on correctional policy issues with the agencies of the Ministry of the Solicitor General and with other external groups involved in the criminal justice system. Also responsible for strategic planning to assist the Service to identify and respond to emerging issues, opportunities and trends in its internal and external environment and to assess the Service's performance in key areas to determine opportunities for improvement. In addition, develops a framework for international development and cooperation between CSC and other correctional jurisdictions.

Program Evaluation and Information Analysis Branch:
Responsible for the provision of program evaluation and information review and analysis within guidelines established by the Central agencies and as directed by the Commissioner. The branch provides the Commissioner and the Executive Committee (EXCOM) with advice and information to improve program effectiveness and enhance the Service's ability to meet its Mission. Evaluation studies are conducted which are diverse in scope and duration ranging from the mandate and processes of a major activity or program to a specific program support activity. The branch is also responsible for analyzing information to ensure the Solicitor General, the Commissioner, and EXCOM are aware of issues and trends relative to the management and operation of the correctional program and its mandate.

Research and Statistics Branch:
Responsible for coordinating and executing policy and program-related research activities for the Correctional Service of Canada. Case Management – Community Bank
Description: Before proceeding to prepare a Personal Information Request Form to request a CSC PPU 035 Case Management – Institution "A", CSC PPU 040 Case Management – Institution "B", CSC PPU 030 Case Management – Community, or CSC PPU 042 Case Management bank, requestors will need to read the following: Since 1991, as a result of the shift of case preparation from the community to the institutions, the CSC gradually introduced a major change to its case management records system with an anticipated Service-wide completion date of March 1993. The existing three-bank case management records system, CSC PPU 035 Case Management – Institution "A", CSC PPU 040 Case Management – Institution "B", CSC PPU 030 Case Management – Community was phased out; since the time of the conversion the CSC has one, single ACTIVE case management bank called "CSC PPU 042 Case Management Bank". Explanatory Note – Status of CSC PPU 030 Case Management -Community Bank and CSC PPU 042 Case Management Bank: At the time of the conversion of the case management records system that was gradually introduced since 1991, (a) ALL the records filed until then on the CSC PPU 030 Case Management Community Bank remain active and are transferred to the new "CSC PPU 042 Case Management Bank", (b) the name CSC PPU 030 Case Management – Community Bank disappears; (c) ALL case management records, be they generated from then on in the institution or in the community, are filed on the one, single case management bank CSC PPU 042 Case Management Bank. Therefore, all the CSC PPU 030 Case Management – Community records that were held on the former CSC PPU 030 Case Management – Community Bank are now all on the CSC PPU 042 Case Management Bank. In order to access a CSC PPU 030 Case Management Community Bank the requestor merely has to request the CSC PPU 042 Case Management Bank and he will thus get all his former CSC PPU 030 Case Management – Community records. Status of CSC PPU 030 Case Management Community Bank for offenders who were under CSC jurisdiction BEFORE the conversion of the case management records system and who DID NOT return under CSC jurisdiction: The CSC PPU 030 Case Management Community Bank remains inactive. This bank remains accessible under the Privacy Act. Status of CSC PPU 030 Case Management Community Bank for offenders who were under CSC jurisdiction BEFORE the conversion but who came back under CSC jurisdiction AFTER the conversion of the case management records system: The CSC PPU 030 Case Management Community Bank is: (a) retrieved from Archives, (b) the name CSC PPU 030 Case Management Community is deleted, (c) the content of this former CSC PPU 030 Case Management – Community Bank is reactivated and the file is renamed CSC PPU 042 Case Management Bank. From then on, the CSC continues filing ALL case management records on the offender on this one, single, CSC PPU 042 Case Management Bank, be they generated in the community or in the institution." This bank contains records and data on an offender's release programs as well as background information on his/her incarceration. It may contain information provided under expressed or implied confidentiality related to the offender's conduct, such as routine police reports, community investigations and information of a general investigative nature. This bank also encompasses any operational information in this area that may be required by the CSC to carry out its mandate under the relevant statutes. Class of Individuals: Individuals who are or have been incarcerated in a federal institution; or individuals who belong(ed) to a provincial jurisdiction but whose case preparation and supervision are (were) effected by the Correctional Service of Canada (Example: provincial offenders serving time in Nova Scotia). Purpose: To provide documentation to assist in the decision-making process for parole. Consistent Uses: This bank is used in the preparation of penitentiary placement and release. Information may be shared with victims or potential victims of offenders, private after-care agencies, government institutions at all levels including foreign governments for the administration of matters such as transfers, employment, education, corrections, health care and social services; for the purposes of applying the Immigration Act; and for monitoring and/or investigating recipients of social benefits such as educational, social welfare and unemployment insurance benefits allocated by municipal, provincial or federal departments; the information may also be shared with accredited domestic and foreign law-enforcement and investigative agencies in the administration or enforcement of the law and in the detection, prevention or suppression of crime generally. Data matching occurs with law enforcement agencies and provincial authorities. Details on data matching are found under the heading of "Additional Information". Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained until the offender reaches 70 years of age or until five years after the last warrant expiry date, whichever is longest. Historical records are transferred to the National Archives of Canada. PAC Number: 71-023 Related to PR#: CSC COB 230 TBS Registration: 001076 Bank Number: CSC PPU 030

Historical records are transferred to the National Archives of Canada. Data matching occurs with the correctional investigator.

Disciplinary Court Hearings

This group is a class of records on disciplinary court hearings. For each session of disciplinary court, audio recordings are made which contain the transcripts of the hearings on offenders who have been charged while incarcerated in an institution. This class of records is used to make decisions on the discipline of offenders resulting from the disciplinary court and during the grievances process. Individuals seeking access to these records must provide the name of the institution in which they were charged and the date of the disciplinary hearing. It should be noted, however, that records may be obtained by the offender by sending a written request directly to the warden of the institution where the disciplinary hearing occurred. These records are retained for two years following the suspension of all actions relating to the disciplinary hearing. No data matching occurs.

Information Services – Inquiries

This group is a class of records on miscellaneous inquiries received from the public, outside organizations and other government departments on services performed by the Department. This class of records is used to respond to requests to interview employees and offenders from external sources such as the media and provincial organizations. Individuals seeking access to these records must provide the approximate date that the inquiry was initiated. These records are retained for two years. Historical records are transferred to the National Archives of Canada.

Institutional Security Threats

This group is a class of records on national and international groups, organizations and criminals. This class of records is used to provide background information on threats to institutional security and to provide reports on all security investigations to aid in preventing recurrences. Individuals seeking access to these records must provide the location and approximate date of the threat or investigation. These records are retained for ten years. Historical records are transferred to the National Archives of Canada. Data matching occurs with NPB, law enforcement agencies and provincial authorities.

Ministerial Inquiries

This group is a class of records on inquiries received from the public, outside organizations and other government departments on parliamentary matters, and material agendas and decisions of Cabinet. This class of records is used to prepare ministerial correspondence resulting from these inquiries. Individuals seeking access to these records must provide the subject matter, and approximate date the inquiry was initiated. Records are retained for five years. Historical records are transferred to the National Archives of Canada.

Research/Public Opinion Research

This is a class of records generated by research subjects, offenders or staff who participate in research, including public opinion research, on a vast spectrum of topics, conducted in the Correctional Service of Canada. Retrievable records consist of data gathering instruments such as, but not exclusively, questionnaires containing personal information that reveals the identification of the research subject. Data contained in this class of records are not used for administrative purposes. Individuals seeking access to these records must provide the title of the research project in which they participated, the location and date of the research, and any other data that may help to identify and locate the personal information they are seeking. No data matching occurs.

Security Inquiries

This group is a class of records on serious security incidents. For each incident, the report includes the inquiry terms of reference, facts gathered and recommendations. This class of records also encompasses police reports and intelligence assessments and is used to provide documentation to prevent recurrences of security incidents. Individuals seeking access to these records must provide the type of incident, the location and approximate date of the incident. These records are retained for ten years. Historical records are transferred to the National Archives of Canada. Data matching occurs with NPB, law enforcement agencies and provincial authorities.

Special Investigations

This group is a class of records on special investigations performed by the Audit and Investigations Sector on a wide variety of operational matters. The reports of the investigations include the terms of reference, facts gathered and recommendations. This class of records is used to resolve incidents involving offenders or employees and to correct, where required, methods of operation and internal procedures. Individuals seeking access to these records must provide the investigation, the location and approximate date it was initiated. Records are retained for five years. Historical records are transferred to the National Archives of Canada.

General Information on Data Matching

Data Matching – Data Sharing

Within the mandate of the Correctional Service of Canada (CSC) is the requirement to share data with other areas of the Criminal Justice Community, to ensure that offenders are appropriately managed in a safe, secure and humane environment, and to ensure the safety of the offender, other inmates, staff and the community at large. Also, in order to accomplish its mandate the Service needs the information provided by other agencies and therefore a match is conducted.

Data Matching with Law Enforcement Agencies

(Municipal, provincial, international, federal police forces or another law enforcement body).

Following an offender's sentence to a federal institution, the CSC requests a Criminal record (history information from the Royal Canadian Mounted Police (RCMP)). This information is used to assess the impact of the offender's criminal behaviour and to alert staff who will deal with the offender. CSC also requests a police report from the arresting and/or investigating law enforcement body in order to have a full understanding of the events surrounding the offence.

Following a sentence to a federal institution in the case of foreign nationals, the CSC must also request from the Inland Service (Immigration) that they provide it with information that is relevant to the administration of the offender's sentence and to the case management process.

When an offender is released to the community, there is a requirement to notify the RCMP and/or the local police force, and, when necessary, the Inland Service (Immigration), of the offender's address and the terms and conditions of the release. If an offender violates conditions of release, or is considered to be a risk, CSC will issue a warrant for the apprehension of the offender. The warrant is transmitted to the local police and entered into the Canadian Police Information Centre (CPIC) system, and also the police are requested to locate and apprehend the offender.

Data Matching with the National Parole Board

CSC data is matched with the National Parole Board (NPB). With the implementation of the OMS (Offender Management System) there will be one integrated system to meet the demand of both agencies.

While it is CSC's responsibility to manage the offenders for the duration of their sentence, it is the NPB's responsibility to assess the offender's progress during incarceration, their risk to society, and their potential for successful reintegration into the community as law-abiding citizens. CSC information is shared with NPB pertaining to all aspects related to the offender prior to and during incarceration. Once NPB has assessed the information, and through a hearing process, makes their decision, CSC is notified. If the Board makes a decision to conditionally release an offender, it is CSC staff who are responsible for the supervision and control of the offender in the community and keeping NPB informed of the offenders' progresses.

Data Matching with Provincial Authorities

An offender who is sentenced to a period of incarceration of two years or more, will serve this sentence under the jurisdiction of CSC. Offenders sentenced to less than two years will serve their sentence under a provincial jurisdiction. However, the Service is doing the case preparation and supervision for some provinces who do not have a Parole Board.

Often an offender will have a history of provincial incarceration, further, prior to sentencing the offender could be held in a provincial institution or a remand centre. Information collected during any period of incarceration is deemed significant and sometimes crucial to the successful management of that offender. It is for these reasons that information is routinely shared and matched between CSC and provincial authorities which include also the Boards of Education and Hospitals.

Information is also requested from the sentencing judge and could also be requested from the Crown Attorney, from Provincial Parole and Probation Services. This information is used by CSC in the management of the offender and decision-making process.

Method of Data Matching/Sharing

In the preceding descriptions of CSC data matching/sharing, every effort is taken to ensure that the data matched/shared concerns the same individual. In order to validate that the different agencies are dealing with the same individuals, a number of personal identifiers are matched. These included Name, Sex, Date of Birth, Finger Print Series Number (FPS) and in some cases physical features.

CSC may conduct or assist others in conducting ad hoc data matching for the purpose of the enforcement of any law (i.e. Criminal Code).

Department of Justice Canada
Chapter 40

General Information

Background

The Department of Justice was created by the Department of Justice Act, passed at the first session of Parliament of the Dominion of Canada, and assented to on May 22, 1868. This Act outlined the responsibilities of the Minister of Justice and the Attorney General of Canada and, with a few exceptions, these responsibilities have remained substantially unchanged.

Responsibilities

The work of the Department consists of litigation, provision of legal advice and opinions to the federal government of Canada on a very wide range of matters, and the drafting of legislation, contracts and other legal documents. The Department is also concerned with the legal aspects of developing government policy, and prepares recommendations or reviews recommendations, for reform of the law. To carry out these responsibilities, the Department uses federal Statutes and Regulations. In addition, contributions are made to provide financial assistance to organizations conducting studies and legal research and to other law-related programs. A limited number of grants is made in connection with legal education, and cost-sharing agreements are entered into with provincial and territorial governments in connection with young offenders, compensation of victims of violent crimes, legal aid in criminal cases for adults and young offenders, native court worker programs, and access to legal information. The Department also undertakes research in support of policy initiatives and other departmental responsibilities.

The role of the Federal Department of Justice does not include the provision of legal services or advice to members of the public.

Organization

■ Deputy Minister's Office

The Office provides essential support services to the Deputy Minister. It ensures appropriate communication and liaison on policy and operational issues between the Deputy Minister and the Minister's Office, the Department and other government departments and agencies.

■ Communications and Consultation Branch

The Branch is responsible for managing and conducting all aspects of the Department's communications, both internal and external and for coordinating the Department's consultation process.

■ Corporate Management, Policy and Programs Sector

The Sector provides administrative support services related to finance, human resources, accommodation, security, telecommunications, computer systems, information management and all other logistical elements common to government departments. The sector is also responsible for legal and other contracts, program evaluation and management reviews, internal audits, family law assistance systems, the Central Registry of Divorce Proceedings as well as corporate services, including the Access to Information and Privacy Office and the Departmental Library. In addition, the Sector provides policy, planning and coordination capability within the Department. This includes coordinating our forward legal planning; coordinating the Department's substantive policy agenda in support of the Minister's priorities; providing central support services to the Minister and the Deputy Minister; providing federal-provincial-territorial relations service and liaison service; coordinating the management of the law component of the Justice in the 1990s program; and undertaking a fundamental review of the cost-shared programs with the provinces and territories. The Sector is also responsible for research and development, as well as programs administered by the Department.

Corporate Management Policy, Systems and Services Directorate:

The Directorate provides effective support services to departmental officials, managers and employees in support of program delivery and the achievement of program objectives in the areas of strategic resourcing, finance, administration, public programs and security. The Directorate is involved in the following main activities: providing resource management services (e.g., financial planning and strategic resourcing analysis and advice, development of strategies, identification of required level of resources); developing, implementing and maintaining financial policies and systems and providing accounting services; providing administrative services (e.g., providing assistance and directives related to material, records and facilities management, contracting and forms design); managing public programs (e.g., providing services related to legal contracting, administering FOAEA, DRDP systems and the Contravention Project and providing assistance in these areas); and providing physical, personnel, awareness and informatics security advice and services and implementing corporate security programmes in these areas.

Corporate Policy and Planning Directorate:

The Directorate consists of four divisions: the Law and Policy Division, the Federal-Provincial Relations and External Liaison Division, the Law Reform Division and the Corporate Planning Division. It was created to bring together a variety of activities requiring central coordination. The Directorate serves the Department by fostering a shared corporate direction, a forward-looking and adaptive culture, and effective partnerships within and outside the Department. It is responsible for corporate policies, policy planning and coordination, management of the law, federal-provincial relations, liaison with key national organizations, managing the Department's law reform program, and corporate planning. It also provides both substantive and secretariat support to senior intradepartmental and interdepartmental committees.

Research and Statistics Directorate:

The Directorate is responsible for assisting departmental policy-makers and decision-makers by bringing a multi-disciplinary approach to the identification, tracking and analysis of current and emerging corporate and sectoral issues; the production and dissemination of quality research findings and statistical information and the development of innovative justice projects and programs.

Programs Directorate:

The Directorate develops and administers programs to support federal social justice policy objectives. Programs are developed in response to major concerns. The programs allow for the provision of financial assistance to organizations and provincial and territorial governments to support the development, promotion and maintenance of basic standards in the justice system and to improve the delivery of justice services to the public. The financial assistance is provided through cost-sharing agreements with other governments, grants, contributions and scholarships.

■ Civil Law and Legislative Services Sector

The Sector is responsible for litigation involving the federal government in the province of Quebec and for real property and commercial law matters in Quebec. The Sector is also responsible for advising on the overall direction and management of all departmental interactions with the province of Quebec, for coordinating the participation of the Department in the Comité d'experts sur la coopération juridique et judiciaire pour la Francophonie and for evaluating the impact of the new Civil Code of Quebec on federal practices. Moreover, the Sector is responsible for the National Program for the Integration of Both Official Languages in the Administration of Justice and it includes the Legislation Branch.

Civil Litigation and Real Property Law (Quebec) Section:

The Section is responsible for litigation involving the federal government in the province of Quebec (except in districts within the jurisdiction of the Montreal Court of Appeal) and for real property law matters in Quebec.

Civil Code Section:

The Section is responsible for the implementation of the program for applying the Civil Code of Quebec to federal government activities. The Section conducts research and gives consultations in Quebec civil law to support the departmental legal services, the litigation services and the departmental legislation and regulations drafting sections.

Montreal Regional Office:

The Montreal Regional Office provides legal services to federal departments and agencies located in Quebec, involved in civil litigation within the jurisdiction of the Montreal Court of Appeal. It represents the Department of National Revenue in taxation cases and acts in criminal cases, involving federal statutes, prosecuted by the Attorney General of Canada in most regions of Quebec.

National Program for the Integration of Both Official Languages in the Administration of Justice (POLAJ):

The POLAJ, a joint program with the Department of the Secretary of State, facilitates access to legal services and to the courts in either official language. POLAJ promotes the publication of material that reflects the bilegal and bilingual nature of Canada, both in the country and abroad.

Legislation Section:

The Section prepares all government bills and motions to amend bills. It also examines all bills introduced by ministers in Parliament to ascertain their consistency with the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms and the Canadian Bill of Rights.

Privy Council Office Legal Section:

The Section carries out the Department's responsibilities under the Statutory Instruments Act, which includes the examination of all proposed regulations to ensure that they are authorized by the enabling legislation, are consistent with the Charter of Rights and the Bill of Rights and are drafted in accordance with established standards.

Statute Revision Commission:

The Commission engages in the revision, consolidation of federal laws and regulations, maintains up-to-date databases of these texts and prepares the looseleaf edition of the Statutes of Canada and office consolidations.

Legislative Editing Office:

The Legislative Editing Office provides editing services to the Legislation Section and the Privy Council Office Section (Justice), publishes the official versions of the Acts of Parliament and various essential reference Tables and maintains the only complete updated set of federal Acts and regulations.

■ Public Law Sector

The Sector advises the government on legal and policy issues in the public law field. Specifically, it advises on constitutional, international, administrative, native, human rights law and official languages law, as well as on matters relating to the machinery and operation of government and to statutory instruments.

Constitutional and International Law Section:

The Section provides policy and legal advice to the government on constitutional (non Charter) issues and international law. It participates in federal-provincial negotiations, the legislative process, the development and implementation of international instruments and litigation involving constitutional (non Charter) and international law questions. It supports the Associate Deputy Minister, Public Law Sector in her role as coordinator of international issues in the Department and coordinates Canadian participation in international law organizations dealing with international trade law and private international law.

Administrative Law Section:

The Section provides specialized advice to government departmental legal services on administrative law, Crown law and related matters. The Section also provides legal policy advice on the development of new government institutions and agencies, administrative processes and regulatory schemes and is frequently called upon to comment on government initiatives involving changes in the structure of government, federal administrative tribunals and the Federal Court. In terms of law reform, the Section is involved in the development and coordination of administrative and Crown law reform initiatives, with a view to streamlining of processes and procedures and modernization of legal immunities and privileges enjoyed by the Crown. The Section organizes the annual Administrative Law Seminar for Justice and other federal government lawyers and publishes an Administrative Law and Crown Law Digest of Canadian and Commonwealth cases three times a year. This Section also includes a Regulatory Affairs Unit concerned with modernizing implementation policies and practices associated with approximately 200 federal statutes. It studies and advises on departmental and agency programs designed to influence public behaviour and to obtain compliance with the law.

Human Rights Law Section:

The Section gives legal opinions to the Crown on the interpretation and application of constitutional provisions, federal legislation and international instruments having human rights implications. Gives opinions on language law, develops and coordinates the government's position in language litigation and advises on the implementation of the government's official languages policy. Provides policy advice on human rights issues.

Information Law and Privacy Section:

This Section deals with a wide range of legal issues relating to information held by the government and is a centre of legal expertise in respect of access to information, privacy legislation and related areas. The Section is also involved in legal education by organizing an annual Access to Information and Privacy Seminar, as well as publishing bulletins for the legal services and the access community.

Judicial Affairs Unit:
The Unit provides legal and policy support to the Minister and the Department on issues relating to the federal judiciary.

Native Law Section:
The Section provides legal and policy advice on native affairs, especially on the development of aboriginal self-government, on comprehensive claims policy, and in support of native litigation issues. As a specialist resource, it advises on constitutional and international issues affecting natives, and carries out legal and policy research on many native issues. It also provides support with respect to the federal role of Métis interlocutor and participates both in tripartite discussions on off-reserve self-government and constitutional discussions.

■ Litigation Sector

The Sector is responsible for all litigation for and against the Crown, except for civil law litigation in Quebec. The Sector is divided into three main branches, dealing with civil, criminal and tax litigation. Regional offices across the country are part of this Sector, except the Montreal Regional Office.

■ Civil Litigation (Common Law) Branch

The Branch represents the Attorney General of Canada in civil litigation which arises anywhere in Canada (except in Quebec), for or against the Crown in such matters as contracts, negligence, the Constitution and Human Rights.

Admiralty and Maritime Law Section:
The Section is responsible for admiralty litigation, maritime legislation, maritime commercial law, marine casualty investigations and marine international law, and provides specialized legal advice and expertise in these fields.

■ Criminal Law Branch

The Branch discharges, on behalf of the Attorney General of Canada and the Minister of Justice, the obligations, duties and responsibilities imposed on the Minister by legislation, Treaty and under the common law.

Criminal Law Section:
The Section is responsible for the prosecution of infractions under federal statutes including some specific offenses under the Criminal Code across the country and all Code offenses in the Yukon and the Northwest Territories. As well, the Section is responsible for extradition and fugitive offenders cases, mutual legal assistance, national security issues, and applications for the mercy of the Crown.

Office of National Strategy for Drug Prosecutions:
This office has the primary Headquarters responsibility for providing assistance and direction on all drug and proceeds of crime investigations and prosecutions. Its main task is to support Regional Office counsel in the development of a strategic approach to the drug prosecution work of the Department.

Crimes Against Humanity and War Crimes Section:
This section is responsible for prosecuting Criminal Code offences involving war crimes and crimes against humanity committed outside Canada; litigating citizenship cases where wartime activities or crimes against humanity committed abroad have fraudulently been hidden; advising immigration officials in cases involving allegations of war crimes or crimes against humanity; and advising and providing direction to the RCMP in war crimes and crimes against humanity investigations.

■ Tax Law Branch

The Branch is responsible for providing functional direction to all lawyers in tax law matters. It also acts on behalf of the Attorney General of Canada in all civil appeals from assessments of income tax, appeals under Part IX of the Excise Tax Act (GST), and some litigation pursuant to the Unemployment Insurance Act and the Canada Pension Plan. The litigation work is divided between the tax litigation sections at headquarters and the Halifax, Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, Edmonton and Vancouver regional offices.

■ General Counsel Group

The Group conducts, on behalf of the Attorney General of Canada, litigation which requires counsel of particular seniority and expertise. Members of the group often participate in legal education, such as panel discussions and seminars arranged by the Department or by provincial and local bar associations.

■ Criminal and Social Policy Sector

The Sector plans, develops and implements government justice policies dealing with criminal and family law, aboriginal justice, crime prevention, gender equality and multiculturalism. Two special projects within the Sector are the Firearms Control Task Group and the Sentencing Project Team.

Criminal Law Policy Section:
The Section identifies and analyzes emerging criminal justice issues, and develops and implements government policies dealing with criminal justice. The Section monitors the development of the criminal law, advises the Minister and senior officials and proposes amendments to the Criminal Code and related statutes, where necessary. The Section consults on an ongoing basis with provincial and territorial officials responsible for criminal justice and, as needed, with international and non-governmental organizations for the purpose of identifying emerging issues, sharing information and coordinating activities in areas of mutual interest.

Family and Youth Law Policy Section:
The Section identifies and analyzes emerging legal and related issues relating to the family, children and youth, and develops policies and legislation to address them with respect to the criminal law, family law and related Charter issues. The Section monitors the development of the law, provides advice to the Minister and senior officials and proposes changes, where necessary, to the statutes for which the Minister is responsible in these areas.

Social Policy Section:

The Section seeks to ensure that the administration of justice is consistent with national priorities and that the justice system is inclusive, fair, rational and efficient. It initiates, formulates and monitors policies, especially in the areas of gender equality, multiculturalism and the prevention of crime in Canadian society.

Aboriginal Justice Directorate:

The Directorate is responsible for activities to address the criminal justice aspects of the federal Native Agenda, which includes policy consultation, enhancement of existing programs, cross cultural training, and funding for innovative community-based pilot projects that address alternative approaches to the administration of justice, research, and public legal education.

■ Legal Services Sector

The Sector provides a variety of in-house legal services to federal departments and agencies, as well as specialized legal advice on property, commercial, environmental and trade law matters and the development and coordination of departmental policy and activities in relation to alternative dispute resolution.

Commercial Law and Advisory Services Section:

The Section has general responsibility for providing functional direction to all lawyers in commercial law matters, and for providing policy and legal advice to federal departments and agencies in matters of commercial law.

Property Law Section:

The Section has general responsibility for providing functional direction to all lawyers in property law matters, and for providing policy and legal advice to federal departments and agencies in matters of property law.

Dispute Resolution Project:

The Project is concerned with the use of Dispute Resolution mechanisms within the sphere of jurisdiction of the federal government. It studies and advises on the use of Dispute Resolution mechanisms by federal government departments.

Environmental Issues Secretariat:

The Secretariat, comprised of a group of experts in the environmental area, ensures that the Department of Justice manages environmental law and policy issues in a coordinated and consistent fashion. The Secretariat identifies environment trends and issues and brings them to the attention of the Minister, Deputy Minister and Senior Assistant Deputy Minister responsible for this area. On an ongoing basis the Secretariat disseminates environment related information to Justice officers engaged in the practice of environmental law, liaises with other federal departments, law organizations and others in this area and maintains an infrastructure to ensure a timely departmental response to environmental issues and concerns.

Classes of Personal Information

Subject Files and Routine Correspondence
Some departmental programs and activities result in the accumulation of personal information which is not contained in the personal information banks described above. This personal information is stored within subject files described as part of department's Information Holdings where records are not normally retrieved by the name of the individual or other personal identifier. This form of personal information consists of enquiries concerning particular justice matters, as well as requests for publications and reports. The information is normally retrievable only if specifics are provided concerning the subject matter. Retention of this form of personal information is controlled by the records schedules of the subject files in which the information is stored.

Mailing List
This class of personal information contains the names and addresses of individuals who are on mailing lists to receive publications and other publicly available materials relating to departmental activities. The lists are used by all sectors of the Department and are updated on a continuing basis. The correspondence and request cards from individuals used for amending addresses and to add or delete individual names on mailing lists are retained until the mailing lists have been amended.

Management Effectiveness Survey (Upward Feedback)
This class of information contains employees' attitudes regarding Legal Services Sector management effectiveness with regards to work supervision, communications, training and development. The results of questionnaires serve as a catalyst to improve management practices within work units. Information from the questionnaires without respondent identifier is retrievable by location (client department) except for units having five employees or less, in which case the information is available by groups of three units without respondent identifier.

Environment Canada
Chapter 41

General Information

Background

The Department of the Environment was established by the Government Reorganization Act, 1970-71-72, ch. 42 on June 10, 1971. The Department, also known as Environment Canada, has as its primary duties renewable resources management and the protection of Canada's air, water and land resources. The departmental organization has three principal services: Environmental Protection which concentrates on response strategies and behavioral changes to prevent pollution of air, land and water ecosystems; Environmental Conservation which focuses on sustainable development of environmental resources; and Atmospheric Environment which focuses on integrated monitoring, atmospheric sciences, and services to Canadians.

Responsibilities

The primary objective of the Department of the Environment is to preserve and enhance the quality of the environment for the benefit of present and future generations of Canadians. Departmental programs are designed to promote the establishment or adoption of objectives and standards relating either to environmental quality or pollution control, ensure the wise management and use of renewable resources and to provide Canadians with environmental information in the public interest. As well, the department ensures that new federal projects, programs and activities are assessed early in the planning process for potentially adverse effects on the environment.

Organization

■ Federal Environmental Assessment Review Office

The Federal Environmental Assessment Review Office (FEARO) administers the federal environmental assessment and review process (EARP) for the Minister of the Environment. The process is used to predict and mitigate, early in the planning stages, the potential environmental and directly-related social impacts of government or other proposals requiring a federal decision. The process has two possible phases: an initial assessment of proposals by departments and/or an independent panel review. FEARO advises departments and provides secretariats to panels and to the Canadian Environmental Assessment Research Council.

■ National Round Table on the Environment and the Economy

The National Round Table was created in 1989 in response to the Report of the World Commission on Environment and Development (Bruntland Commission) and the recommendations of the National Task Force on the Environment and the Economy. In addition to its advisory role to the Prime Minister on issues relating to environment and the economy, the National Round Table plays a special catalytic role in Canada and abroad by attempting to reach a consensus among competing economic and environmental interests concerning sustainable development.

Description: Information on chemical industry pollution; producers, emissions, products, development of industrial studies questionnaires, guidelines and codes and regulations. Topics: Chemical products; pulp, paper and wood products; forest products operations; pulp and paper processes; textiles and related manufacturers; woods and allied products manufacturing; petroleum, petrochemical, polymers and plastics; surface coating industry. Access: Files are arranged by name of company and product. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 220

Combustion Sources

Description: Studies and surveys; assessments; questionnaires; analytical reports; information on emissions and emission controls; investigations; codes and regulations. Topics: Interdepartmental programs; thermal power-fuel; thermal power-fuel processing and storage; combustion systems; internal combustion engine; emission calculation and analysis; emission data; air quality surveillance; air quality criteria; incinerators; investigations, studies and surveys. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 235

Contaminants Control

Description: Information on predicting and evaluating environmental effects of new chemical substances; determining amounts and end uses of chemicals in Canadian commerce; regulating substances which pose a significant threat to human health and environment; reviewing pesticide registrations; and coordinating tests of chemicals for environmental effects. Topics: Studies and surveys; chemical elements compounds; Environmental Contaminants Act; toxicology assessment and ecological protocols; regulation development; enforcement and compliance; transportation of dangerous goods; response to notices; mandatory reporting; automated information system; pesticides-control programs – registration, re-evaluation, research and trade information; research permits; compendium; non-chemical pesticides; mercury program. Access: Files are arranged by subject, company and product. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 275

Data Analysis

Description: Information on air pollutants; emissions source categories; industrial questionnaires; studies and surveys and air pollution costs. Topics: Emission inventory; air pollutants, source categories; effects of regulations; socio-economic impact studies and surveys; industrial, geographical; economy impact studies and surveys – pollutants; analytical concepts and methodology – statistical and economic. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 240

Ecological Applications Research

Description: Information on production of nationally consistent spatial data on the ecological characteristics and resource potentials of land; dissemination of scientific knowledge, methods and techniques used for surveying and classifying land, including wetlands, by ecological characteristics, for assessing resource potentials, impacts and hazards and for increasing knowledge of land and land/water process linkages of concern in environmental management; the assessment of potential climate change of the vegetative and land base of Canada and consequent implications for resource management. Topics: General correspondence; public awareness; inter-regional projects; wetlands and acid rain sensitivity; climate change; land use information mapping series; Canada Committee on Ecological Land Classification; Canada Committee on Ecological Areas. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 160

Enforcement

Description: Information on the enforcement of Migratory Bird Convention Act, Migratory Bird Regulation, Migratory Bird Treaty. Topics: General correspondence; authority to purchase migratory birds; authority to issue permits; payments of fines; Migratory Birds Conviction List, report convention; legal fee; appointment of game officer; appointment of agents; protocol with U.S.A.; enquiries and questions; Indians and Inuit; treaties and letters of understanding with foreign governments. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 110

Environmental Emergency
Description: Information on environmental accidents; emergency teams; reporting and alerting operating procedures; special studies; research and development; contingency plans; pollution clean-up agents for collection and dispersal. Topics: Environmental emergency teams; operations and procedures; resource inventory; accident prevention; transportation; accident detection; pollution abatement; pollution containment; disposal; restoration; analysis – prediction, research and development projects; information. Access: Files are arranged by individual environmental accidents. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 285

Environmental Information Systems and Services
Description: Information on the development, maintenance and operation of a computerized Canada Geographic Information System (CGIS) capable of storing, processing and retrieving geographic-specific bio-physical, socio-economic and ecological data on land capability, land use, resource management and environmental issues of national or regional significance; the development, assessment, improvement and recommendation of computerized technologies designed to enhance the performance and efficiency, while promoting greater use, of spatial information systems in State of the Environment planning and management; the provision of data on processing and advisory services in support of the establishment of a national Environmental Informatics System and the solution of environmental planning and management problems; and the provision of a training program on the use of the CGIS for existing and potential clients. Topics: Canada Land Inventory, Canada Geographic Information System projects. Storage Medium: EDP systems and maps. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 170

Federal Activities
Description: Information on the regulation of emissions/effluents from federal departments and agencies as well as on waste management at these institutions; information on the evaluation of federally funded pollution control projects; demonstration of technology at federal facilities; environmental impact assessment of nuclear facilities, and radioactive waste facilities. Topics: Federal projects; clean-up program; methods, techniques and refinements; nuclear programs. Access: Files are arranged by company, subject and project. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 295

Flood Damage Reduction
Description: Information on all activities under federal-provincial flood damage reduction agreements, including flood risk mapping, construction of physical flood control works, and flood forecasting. It also includes policy development, data collection (hydrometric and other data collection programs and research for many water management purposes) carried out as an integral part of these agreements, or in support of anticipated new agreements, and guidelines or methodology development and information programs directly in support of the program. Topics: Conservation and floods, flood damage reduction. Access: Files are arranged by subject, geographic location and project title; many reports are referred to in AQUAREF. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 180

Fuels
Description: Information on fuel types, composition and use. Topics: Fuel producers; types; composition; resources marketing and processing; pollution investigations; pollution control equipment, and regulations on fuels and components of fuels; guidelines development; synthetic fuels, gasoline; natural gas; coal; petroleum producers; petroleum marketing; energy conservation; sulphur and by-products; fuels and fuel additives composition; fossil fuel resources. Access: Files are arranged by subject, company and product. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 230

Habitat and Land Use Research
Description: Information on habitat strategies, plans and data banks; research on habitat impacts from toxic substances, climate changes and land use changes; remote sensing techniques and methodologies to monitor habitat changes/impacts; provision of land management services and advice to federal departments and agencies responsible for administering federal lands located in the provinces or specially dedicated lands located in the territories. Topics: General correspondence; habitat planning and management; resource management data; federal land data; public awareness; policy research and coordination. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 165

Land Use Policy
Description: Information on the development and assessment of federal land use objectives, policies and guidelines; the coordination of interdepartmental and intergovernmental activities on land use policy and program matters; the analysis of land use policy instruments with recommendations on their effectiveness in addressing sustainable development and land use issues of national significance; the identification and assessment of the impact of federal programs on the sustainable use and management of Canada's land resources, and the recommendation of mitigating measures to offset any adverse effects; the provision of advice and policy positions on sustainable development concerning land quality, land use and other related environmental issues; the provision of advice and assistance in developing or assessing policies in which land resources and environmental matters are important considerations; the representation of Environment Canada on the Treasury Board Advisory Committee/Federal Land Management and the coordination of the discharge of the Department's responsibilities under the Federal Policy on Land Use; assistance in representing Canada's land resource interest in bilateral relations with other countries and international organizations; and assistance in foreign aid technical exchange and advisory programs. Topics: General correspondence; environment/economy integration; public awareness; Canada land use policy research and coordination; policy advice to federal departments and agencies; and sustainable development. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 155

Mining, Mineral and Metallurgical Industries
Description: Information on mining and metallurgical production, refining, and smelting operations and the significance of such processes in terms of pollution; mineral, and metallurgical industry studies; and emission control requirements such as codes and regulations. Topics: Mining operations and processes; mineral products processing; primary metallurgical industries; secondary metallurgical industries. Access: Files are arranged by subject, product and plant type. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 225

Mobile Sources
Description: Information on vehicle emission data; test methods and procedures; test results; studies and surveys; standards and regulations. Topics: Abatement programs; engineering and evaluation; fugitive emissions; fleet programs; mobile source compliance; special studies. Access: Files are arranged by subject, company, and project. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 215

National Wildlife Areas
Description: General correspondence on policies and regulations as they affect land use in designated areas. Topics: Agreements; policy; regulations; rentals; leases. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 135

Native People
Description: Information on correspondence on native harvest surveys and native land claims. Topics: Hunting and fishing rights, treaties, acts and regulations, Council of Yukon Indian, Inuit Tapirisat of Canada, Northern Quebec Cree, Inuit, Naskaps, Western Arctic Inuit-COPE. Access: Files are arranged by name of individual. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 115

North American Waterfowl Management Plan (NAWMP)
Description: Information on the development, coordination and planning of the North American Waterfowl Management Plan (NAWMP). Topics: Joint ventures; implementation agreements (multilateral, internal); NAWMP committees; long-term and annual work plans; funding arrangements; communications and general correspondence. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 173

Ornithology
Description: Information on all aspects of waterfowl. Topics: North American Waterfowl Management Plan; bird banding programs; reports, studies and surveys; sanctuaries; migratory bird sanctuaries regulations; permits for bird sanctuaries; delegation; agreements; leases; damage to crops by birds; agreements with provincial governments on compensation for crop damage; diseases and parasites; effects of sprays; predation; use of drugs; lead poisoning repellents; ornithology permits; taxidermist licences; propagation and agriculture; research on species; use of birds; commercial shooting of birds; plumage of birds; public shooting grounds; waterfowl kill statistics; waterfowl populations; breeding ground survey; breeding bird survey; brood production survey; waterfowl status reports. Access: Files are arranged by name and geographic locations. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 120

Planning, Assessment and Policy
Description: Information on the development of an environmental protection strategy; program, planning and systems development; socio-economic analysis of proposed major regulations. Topics: Program planning system development; activity program development; operational plans; activity management reports; policy development and analysis; program evaluation; program development; organization and systems project; economics; socio-economic program; socio-economic impact analysis – Clean Air Act, Environmental Contaminants Acts, Fisheries Act. Access: By subject. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 290

Program Activity Structures and Objectives
Description: Information on systems for strategic and operational planning and program evaluation, management practices and controls, performance measurement, priority settings, resource-based economic strategy and perspective, socio-economic and scientific development studies, implementation of integrated programs. Topics: Program activity structures and objectives, surveys and studies, Improvements in Management Practices and Controls (IMPAC), toxic substances, Co-operative Projects with Industry (COPI), Pilot Industry Laboratory Program, Shore Zone Program, Biomass. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 100

Program Coordinator
Description: Information on regulations development; monitoring of agreed implementation schedules, program evaluation and acid rain control strategies. Topics: Acts and legislation; regulations enforcement; federal/provincial programs; international activities; international organizations; intradepartmental activities; long range transport of air pollutants. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 245

State of the Environment Reporting
Description: Information and interpretive reports on significant conditions and trends related to environmental components (air, water, land and wildlife) and human activities (agriculture, forestry, fisheries, etc.) to meet the requirements of the Federal Environmental Quality Policy Framework and Canadian Environmental Protection Act; development, assessment and recommendations for selecting and utilizing key environmental indicators; development and dissemination of scientific methods and techniques for State of the Environment (SOE) Reporting, identifying emerging issues; development of methods and guidelines for storage, manipulation and transfer of environmental data vis-à-vis the SOE centralized database and referral system. Topics: General correspondence; SOE publications; state of the environment data; scientific methods; indicator research;

inter-regional projects; publication guidelines; Canada Land Inventory and a wide range of land, water and other resource data. Storage Medium: Files, maps, EDP systems. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 167

Surveillance
Description: Information on national air pollution surveillance monitoring equipment; monthly and annual summary reports; source testing methods. Topics: National air pollution surveillance; operations and maintenance; equipment testing and evaluation; source testing procedures; studies, surveys and investigations; specific pollutants. Access: Files are arranged by subject, location and specific pollutants. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 250

Sustainable Development
Description: Program for implementation of sustainable development within the government; development of federal conservation strategy; coordination of federal-provincial links on conservation strategy development; coordination of intergovernmental activity on land policy and program matters; development of sectoral resource management policies (e.g. wetlands); assessment of impact of federal programs on environment and economy; analysis of links between environment, resources, and economic development; development of means to build environmental criteria into economic development policies and programs; assessment of the value of environmental resources; analysis of success stories of sustainable development as models for further implementation; application of sustainable development criteria to federal land transactions; development of means of measuring success towards sustainable development. Responsibilities include provision of scientific and technical advice to other departments, other countries and international organizations with respect to sustainable development implementation. Topics: Sustainable development; wetlands policy; federal policy on land use; environment/economy integration; federal program impact; Sustainable Development newsletter; success stories of sustainable development. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 156

Technology Development – Pollution Abatement
Description: Information on development and demonstration of pollution abatement technology (DPAT); instruction in air pollution control; pollution analysis and instrument testing. Topics: Development and demonstration of pollution abatement technology; educational activities; chemistry files. Access: Files are arranged by subject and company. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 255

Technology Development – Waste Water
Description: Information on development and demonstration of waste water pollution control technology; technology development assistance programs; technical training; technology transfer; program planning and evaluation. Topics: Program planning and evaluation; technology assistance program; waste water technology. Access: Files are arranged by company. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 265

Toxic Chemicals
Description: Information on toxic chemical management. Topics: Inventory; assessment of DSL substances for toxicity; control throughout the life cycle of toxic chemicals; regulations; guidelines; codes of practice. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 300

Waste Management
Description: Inventory of commercial and industrial hazardous wastes; technology development; studies and surveys; handling, storage and environmentally safe transportation; disposal of industrial and hazardous wastes; inventory sources and amounts of hazardous wastes; regulations development. Topics: Wastes and types; waste management and disposal; waste management systems – disposal; resource recovery and reclamation, materials; information and training; solid waste information retrieval system, inventory; regulations; guidelines and codes of practice; consultation services; technical evaluation. Access: Files are arranged by subject, company and project. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 280

Water Management Research
Description: Information on water resource research, including the study of the impact of pollutants and nutrients on the environment, sediment composition, water quality and quantity modelling, groundwater quality and sub-surface disposal of wastes, pathways, fate and effects of pollutants, dispersion and energy transfer processes in lakes and rivers, urban runoff processes, ice dynamics, hydrological forecasting, groundwater movement, biological and chemical techniques for water quality analysis, snow and ice hydrology, glacier dynamics, sociological, geographical, legal, institutional and economic aspects of water management. Also included is research management and coordination and research contracts. Topics: Ground water; ground water quality; ice river breakup; new analytical techniques; improved methodologies for aquatic studies; predictive technique on models for toxic substances; pathways and fate of pollutants; hydraulic variables; drought; floods; climatic changes; restoration of lakes and polluted waters. Access: Files are arranged by subject and location. Most information is readily available. Storage Medium: Microfiche, magnetic tapes, computer printouts, punchcards. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 205

Water Pollution Programs
Description: Information on federal/provincial programs; pollution control in coastal areas; International Joint Commission programs; data management; Arctic water programs coordination; program evaluation; interservice and interagency program coordination; program planning and development. Topics: Program coordination and evaluation; coastal zone; data management and analysis. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 270

Water Quality Management Data
Description: Information and interpretive reports on the quality of surface and ground waters based on analysis of samples; information on field surveys and analytical methods, and on quality control; water quality guidelines for protection of uses, and water quality objectives for specific surface waters. It does not include water quality objective work done under specific international or federal-provincial basin studies, nor research related to water quality management. Topics: Water pollution, water quality surveys, analytical methods, quality of surface waters, rain water and snow water quality, water quality guidelines, water quality monitoring programs. Access: Files are arranged by subject, geographic location and title; water quality parameters are accessed on-line through NAQUADAT. Storage Medium: Magnetic tapes. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 185

Water Quantity Management Data
Description: Information on data collection, hydrometric and water levels, and sediment, as well as the management and operation of data systems and interpretive reports. These data include data collection under specific international or federal-provincial water management or planning studies and data collection carried out as an integral part of other studies. Topics: Gauging stations, international gauging stations, gauging stations inventory, hydrometric investigations, hydrologic interpretive and analytical reports, sediment links to water quality, sediment surveys, remote sensing, watershed research, tidal gauge records, tidal surveys. Access: Files are arranged by subject, geographic location, river and site location. Storage Medium: Computer printouts, magnetic tapes, microfiche, interactive on-line access to the national database known as HYDAT. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 200

Wildlife Management
Description: Information on the federal participation and responsibilities in the management of wildlife. Topics: Hunting performance program; transboundary wildlife; bird hazard to aircraft; problems at airports; restricted material on birds and aircraft; correspondence from Air Canada; bird strike bulletins; bird strike field notes; bird strike reports; reports on visits to airports; RCMP reports; application for species; Eastern Arctic-Scientific Research; scientific collection of specimens; transplant. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 150

Wildlife Toxicology
Description: Information on toxic substances and their effects on birds and mammals; also related research and studies. Topics: Advice to outside agencies on chemicals and pesticides; National Registry of Pesticide Residues; registration of agricultural chemicals; toxic substances program; analytical data quality program; chemical analytical services; forest spray operations; heavy metals; Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD); wildlife sampling program; study of fish-eating birds. Note: LRTAP -Toxic Substances. Access: By subject. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 145

■ Atmospheric Environment

AES Headquarters – Projects Research
Description: Information on computerized and man-machine mix system; module component development and design; research data set development; also implementation and joint projects with forecast operations. Topics: Systems design for automated weather forecasting procedures; creation of research data sets for weather forecasting research. Program Record Number: ENV AES 400

AES HQ – Forecast Project
Description: Information on the development of forecast methods and techniques for AES forecast systems (including models – numerical, statistical). Topics: Weather prediction methodology; snow squall modelling; ice and sea state models; oil spill trajectory models; freezing spray; investigations. Program Record Number: ENV AES 420

AES HQ – Projects
Description: Information on satellite activity reports; data collection platforms; SDL Staffing; SDL GOES; Meso-met Network; Wind Energy Field Studies investigations. Program Record Number: ENV AES 370

AES, Research Management and Policy
Description: Meteorological, atmospheric, air quality, ice in navigable waters, remote sensing and other related environmental and technological research and development; research and related support activities of a general management nature – decisions and large-scale agreements; training for research and grants for research outside the federal government which support the goals, objectives and policies for atmospheric research in Canada; mechanisms for better transfer of technology to and from government research laboratories, contracting-out of federal research and development. Topics: Agreements; treaties; studies; projects; federal activities; committees; plans and programs; fellowships; training and development; grants; unsolicited proposals; contracting; technology transfer. Note: Files are located at 4905 Dufferin St., Downsview, Ontario. Program Record Number: ENV AES 310

AES – Wind Tunnel
Description: Information on wind tunnel experiments, operations and maintenance. Program Record Number: ENV AES 395

Air Quality Research Projects
Description: Information on research dealing with the quality of air. Topics: Field studies; wind energy; LRTAP Programs (Acid Rain); federal-provincial co-operative projects; IFYGL; Alberta Oil Sands; hazardous and toxic chemicals; air quality assessment processes; regional and international studies of meteorological potential for air pollution; boundary layer processes; experiments; analyses; scientific papers; program planning and international co-operation; air quality sampling; siting;

analytical methodology for ambient atmospheres; workspace atmospheres and instream emissions. Program Record Number: ENV AES 315

Atmosphere – High Atmospheric Vehicles
Description: Information on weather ice and other related environmental satellite research and development, ground receiving stations, data processing and distribution, and related hardware, instrumentation technology; aeronautical meteorology, aviation studies, marine meteorology and meso-meteorology, wind energy, weather radar and radar satellite combined system; wind tunnel experiments, related field experiments and wind engineering. Topics: Canadian space policy; repairs of satellite receivers; high atmosphere vehicles; satellite data lab operations; satellite meteorology research and development projects (TOVS, RAINSAT, ICE STATUS); Aeromet Facility; Rockcliffe STOL project; Meso-met Network; data collection platforms; GOES Wind Energy Field Studies; radar satellite system; ICS Submission; AES Satellite Program; NOSS; SURSAT; wind tunnel experiments, operation and maintenance. Program Record Number: ENV AES 325

Atmospheric Research
Description: Information on weather modification, cloud physics, weather radar, ozone monitoring, stratospheric pollution, solar radiation and energy. Activities aimed at increasing precipitation (rain, snow) or suppressing hailfall; research in the physics of clouds and precipitation and in the detection of precipitation by weather radar; research conducted into the processes of the stratospheric ozone layer and its depletion by trace constituents (typically chlorofluorocarbons); calibration of solar radiation instruments and development of new solar radiation instrumentation and development of specialized solar radiation database. Topics: Weather Modification Policy; Agreement (with U.S.) and co-operative projects; WMO PEP program; weather radar and cloud physics; ozone instruments; World Ozone Data Centre; stratospheric pollution; solar radiation. Program Record Number: ENV AES 320

Climatology
Description: Information on applied climatology; climatological data and studies; information and requests; monitoring and prediction; numerical modelling. Topics: General climatology; climatology normals; recreation and tourism; station history system; National Parks; agrometeorology; ice accretion studies; biometeorology; energy; Canadian Climate Program; climatic change. Storage Medium: Microfilm, magnetic tape. Program Record Number: ENV AES 455

Communications – Computing Services
Description: Information on communications and communications-programming. Program Record Number: ENV AES 470

Communications – Facsimile
Description: Information on Satellite Data Laboratory Operations. Program Record Number: ENV AES 330

Contracts – Satellites
Description: Information on contracts for satellite systems; also contracts for satellite research and development – TOVS, RAINSAT, ICE STATUS. Access: Files are arranged by subject and company. Program Record Number: ENV AES 335

Contracts – Sea State
Description: Information on contracts for ice, oil spills on water and sea state models. Access: Files are arranged by subject and company. Program Record Number: ENV AES 405

Data Acquisition
Description: Information on land surface networks; upper air and aerological networks; Voluntary Observing Ship Program; remote sensing; environmental network. Topics: Station classification; site information; meteorological and aerological instruments; codes; data standards; data reduction; quality assurance; equipment supply; development and testing; lists of ships participating; satellite ground stations; APT, weather radar; signal processing; data transmissions; maintenance; plans and policies. Program Record Number: ENV AES 440

Data Acquisition Networks
Description: Information on atmospheric environment operations, overall policy, operational performance, procedures and standards. Program Record Number: ENV AES 480

Forecast Procedures
Description: Information on meteorological models, procedures and techniques in support of forecast production. Topics: Maps, charts and forms; professional training and development; satellite operations; plans and programs. Program Record Number: ENV AES 430

Hemispheric Observations
Description: Observed data, hemispheric surface synoptic reports. Storage Medium: Coded forms. Program Record Number: ENV AES 450

Hydrometeorology
Description: Information on development of hydrometeorological techniques for measurements and analysis; application of meteorological techniques and data to hydrology and marine problems (hydrology, water resources, oceans, lakes and reservoirs); hydrological time series data; climatology of water temperature. Topics: International Hydrological Decade; hydrometeorological projects; investigations, research, studies and surveys; wind wave studies, evaporation. Storage Medium: Magnetic tape. Program Record Number: ENV AES 460

Ice
Description: Information on regional ice models. Program Record Number: ENV AES 410

Ice Information, Consultation and Advice
Description: Information on ice forecasting and services, ice research, climatology and Observing Program (reconnaissance). Program Record Number: ENV AES 465

Ice Observing Programs – Reconnaissance
Description: Information on verification of satellite data. Program Record Number: ENV AES 340

Instruments
Description: Information on Aeromet Facility Instrumentation. Program Record Number: ENV AES 345

Instruments and Instrument Systems
Description: Information on instruments; general, humidity, evaporation, precipitation, marine, physical phenomena, pressure, radiation, atmospheric sounding wind. Program Record Number: ENV AES 485

Marine Meteorology
Description: Information on TOVS. Program Record Number: ENV AES 355

Meso-meteorology
Description: Information on the Meso-met Network. Topics: Operation; data. Program Record Number: ENV AES 360

Meteorology Aviation
Description: Information on the Rockcliffe STOL Project. Program Record Number: ENV AES 350

Meteorology Training
Description: Information on professional training, development, technical training in meteorology. Program Record Number: ENV AES 475

Meteorology Training
Description: Information on satellite meteorology. Program Record Number: ENV AES 365

Oil and Gas Exploration and Development
Description: Information on oil spill trajectories, freezing spray, ice and sea state models. Program Record Number: ENV AES 415

Policy – Private Sector Meteorology
Description: Information on initiatives and policies related to the development of private sector meteorology. Topics: Atmospheric Environment Service activities related to private sector meteorology. Note: Files available at 4905 Dufferin Street, Downsview, Ontario. Program Record Number: ENV AES 313

Radar
Description: Information on the MOT Radar and Satellite System. Program Record Number: ENV AES 375

Satellites
Description: Information on satellite programs. Topics: Cost recovery; staffing the SKL; ICS Submission; AES Satellite Programs; SDL Operations; NOSS; SURSAT. Program Record Number: ENV AES 380

Telecommunications
Description: Operational, alpha-numeric and facsimile information distributed by dedicated or dial-up communication lines. Topics: Facsimile contracts; installations; procedures; traffic; teletype contracts – installations, procedures, traffic; computer aspects. Program Record Number: ENV AES 425

Weather Forecast
Description: Information on analyses and forecasts; hemispheric analyses, heights (pressure) temperature, moisture, winds from surface to 100 mbs; analyses of surface, 850, 700 and 500 mb levels from 1957 to date; historical data; verification statistics. Storage Medium: Computer files – grid point data, microfilm, printed WX charts, charts and teletype message forms, written and graphic forms. Program Record Number: ENV AES 445

Weather Service
Description: Information on RAINSAT. Program Record Number: ENV AES 385

Weather Service – Air Transportation
Description: Information on MOT Radar and Satellite System. Program Record Number: ENV AES 390

Weather Services
Description: Information on policies, standards, procedures and guidance concerning the provision of weather services. Topics: General weather services; public weather services; air, marine and road transportation; agriculture; forestry; climatology; preflight weather information service; radio and television broadcasting; scientific support units; weather service outlets. Program Record Number: ENV AES 435

■ Federal Environmental Assessment Review Office

Environmental Assessment Projects
Description: Information on projects undergoing review by environmental assessment panels. Access: Files are arranged by project. Program Record Number: ENV FRO 490

FEARO – Policy
Description: Information on the development and implementation of the EARP process. Access: Files are arranged by subject. Program Record Number: ENV FRO 495

FEARO – Research
Description: Information on the Canadian Environmental Assessment Research Council. Program Record Number: ENV FRO 500

■ Environment – General

Acid Rain
Description: Information on Canada's domestic, bilateral and international acid rain initiatives, including committees, negotiations, controls and effects. Topics: Canada's joint federal-provincial abatement program, federal-provincial LRTAP Steering Committee meetings and reports; Canada-U.S. bilateral negotiations, and general information on U.S. initiatives; international European Economic Community LRTAP conventions and protocols; files dealing with acid rain effects, communications, and the Special Parliamentary Committee on Acid Rain. Access: Files are arranged by subject in a central registry. Program Record Number: ENV POL 525

Communications
Description: Information on communications in general and on communications-programming. Program Record Number: ENV COM 530

Environment Economy
Description: Information on departmental policies, programs, economic instruments and activities related to the integration of environmental considerations into economic decision-making; associated information on events, reports, studies, announcements, expertise and other agency involvement; preliminary information on the characteristics and capabilities of environmental industries, related associations and the nature of market availability within and outside Canada; and related information from the Groups of Economic Experts (GEE) of the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD). Topics: The departmental environment/economy strategic direction, action plans and activities carried out by the Department; sustainable development; events, agreements, mechanisms, announcements, reports and expertise; statistics on the environmental industry (employment, economic impact, number of firms, market potential, promotion); various subject areas such as risk assessment, technologies to control and prevent pollution, etc.; OECD reports which are available for public distribution. Access: Information is available by subject area in soft-cover copies. Program Record Number: ENV POL 515

Federal-Provincial Relations
Description: Information on the broad policy aspects of the relationship between the federal and provincial governments on environmental issues. Topics: Federal-Provincial Agreements and Accords; Canadian Council of Resource and Environment Ministers; Sustainable Development. Access: Files arranged by subject. Program Record Number: ENV POL 505

Northern Affairs
Description: Information on the policy aspects of the management of the northern environment and federal-provincial-territorial co-operation on environmental issues. Topics: Circumpolar co-operation; wildlife; endangered species; migratory birds. Access: Files arranged by subject. Program Record Number: ENV POL 510

Program Evaluation
Description: Evaluation frameworks, assessments and studies of departmental components, and related data. Topics: Departmental components that have been subject to one or more of these evaluation activities. Access: Reports are classified by evaluation component. Storage Medium: Hardcopy. (In many cases, only single copies exist.) Program Record Number: ENV POL 520

Personal Information Banks

■ Atmospheric Environment Service

Applications for Research Grants Science Subventions
Description: Each entry in the bank contains information of the following type: educational, financial support for research, new scientific concepts, personal statement of productivity, third party evaluation of the entry. All assessments and grants are processed at Atmospheric Environment Service headquarters from Canadian university faculty members. Class of Individuals: Faculty members of Canadian universities in the environmental sciences or faculties related thereto. Purpose: To provide information used in the annual selection of research proposals to be funded by this institute. Consistent Uses: To assess research proposals in order to award research funds. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records kept less than five years, usually two years. PAC Number: 78-001 Related to PR#: ENV AES 310 TBS Registration: 001394 Bank Number: ENV PPU 010

Applications for Studentship in Meteorology or Atmospheric Science

Description: To provide personal and academic information used in the annual selection for the provision of studentships at Canadian universities. Class of Individuals: Canadian citizens and permanent residents who have graduated with 3.5 courses in physics and 4.5 courses in mathematics with a 66% average. Purpose: To assess potential recipients of studentships. Consistent Uses: To assess applications for AES Studentships. Retention and Disposal Standards: Two years. If the applicant becomes an employee, the application is placed on his/her personnel file. PAC Number: 78-001 Related to PR#: ENV AES 310 TBS Registration: 001397 Bank Number: ENV PPU 025

Applications for Visiting Fellowship Awards

Description: Contains information of the following types: demographics, employment, educational, personal references, third party evaluations. All assessments are processed at Atmospheric Environment Service headquarters. Awards are granted to visiting fellows for their work at headquarters. Class of Individuals: Generally restricted to environmental scientists who have recently completed their doctoral degrees. Purpose: To provide personal and academic information used in the annual selection of visiting fellows to this institute. Consistent Uses: To assess potential candidates for visiting fellowship awards. The file is shared with NSERC. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are kept for less than five years, usually for three years. PAC Number: 78-001 Related to PR#: ENV AES 310 TBS Registration: 001395 Bank Number: ENV PPU 015

Post-graduate Fellowships

Export Development Corporation
Chapter 42

General Information

PLEASE NOTE: THE EXPORT DEVELOPMENT CORPORATION IS NOT SUBJECT TO THE ACCESS TO INFORMATION ACT.

Background

The Export Development Corporation (EDC) was established on October 1, 1969, by the Export Development Act. The Export Development Corporation is an agent of Her Majesty in right of Canada and is a Crown corporation whose shares may be owned only by Canada. It is accountable for its affairs to Parliament through the Minister for International Trade. Both the Export Development Corporation and its predecessor, the Export Credits Insurance Corporation which commenced operations in 1944, were created to facilitate and develop trade between Canada and other countries.

The Corporation achieves this through a wide range of insurance, guarantee and financing services not normally provided by the public sector.

The Export Development Corporation's services are provided to help Canadian exporters who offer products competitive in price, quality, delivery and service, to compete internationally.

Classes of Personal Information

In the course of conducting the programs and activities of the Export Development Corporation, categories of personal information not used for administrative purposes may be accumulated. Such personal information includes, among other things, general biographies of individuals in relation to EDC's program services. This form of personal information is retrievable if specifics are provided concerning transactions filed e.g. names of exporters, countries and projects, rather than by name of individual or other personal identifier.

Other information provided by or about individuals may also be found in corporate record holdings such as information services, telecommunications, accounts payable and library files. This class of personal information is retrievable only if the requester identifies, in sufficient detail, the subject of the information that they wish to access. The retention periods are controlled by the record schedules of the general subject files in which they are stored.

Farm Credit Corporation Canada

Chapter 43

General Information

Background

The Farm Credit Corporation was established in 1959, under the Farm Credit Act, as a Crown agency reporting to Parliament through the Minister of Agriculture. Its objective was to provide long-term mortgage credit to farmers and to syndicates of farmers. The Farm Credit Corporation Act became law in April, 1993, repealing the Farm Credit Act and the Farm Syndicates Credit Act. The Farm Syndicates Credit Act remains open until such time as all advances are repaid by the Corporation or otherwise forgiven or written off.

Responsibilities

The Corporation makes and administers farm loans under the authority of the Farm Credit Corporation Act to enhance rural Canada by providing specialized and personalized financial services to farming operations, including family farms, and to those businesses in rural Canada, including small and medium-sized businesses, that are related to farming. As well, it administers programs as directed by the federal government.

Legislation

- Farm Credit Corporation Act
- Farm Syndicates Credit Act (Section 8.1)

Organization

In order to fulfil its mandate, the Corporation has established a network of offices to serve the farming community. Corporate headquarters is located in Regina. Regional offices correspond geographically with provincial boundaries except for Atlantic Canada, where the four provinces are served by a Regional Centre located in Moncton, N.B., and the Yukon, which is served by the Alberta/British Columbia regional office located in Edmonton, Alberta. The regional offices are functionally organized into a lending services group, including all field operations, and a loan administration group. In addition to the six regional offices, the Corporation has 100 district and field offices.

Corporate headquarters is organized into five component groups.

■ Executive Office

This Office consists of the Chairman and the President. The Chairman is Chief Executive Officer of the Corporation, is a member of the Board of the Corporation and is responsible for the supervision and direction of all work and staff of the Corporation. The President is a member of the Board of the Corporation and exercises all of the powers and duties of the Chairman in his absence. As Chief Operating Officer, he directs the business of the Corporation and exercises all other powers and duties as may be assigned to him by the Chairman or the Board of the Corporation.

■ Planning and Credit

Planning and Credit consists of:

Lending – responsible for the Corporation's overall lending activities, which include lending and administration of loans, client services and regional operations,

Policy Approval and Training – responsible for approval of lending and for loans in excess of regional limits and administration exceptions,

Loan Administration and Systems Design – responsible for administration of accounts and maintenance of monitoring systems,

Approval and Environmental Management – responsible for quality of appraisals and environmental policy and control,

Portfolio Management – responsible for loan monitoring, economic information and corporate planning, research and development.

■ Financial Services

Financial Services is responsible for the overall financial management of the Corporation including financial risk management, funding, cash management, corporate accounting, financial reporting and internal controls. It also ensures that the financial provisions of the Farm Credit Corporation Act and the financial management provisions of the Financial Administration Act are effectively employed by the Corporation.

■ Corporate Audit

Corporate Audit has a comprehensive audit plan. It performs regular regional loan portfolio audits and conducts periodic reviews of systems and practices related to head office and regional operations. It is also responsible for the coordination of all audit activities: internal audits, external financial attest audits and special examinations.

■ Corporate Management Services

Corporate Management Services directs, controls, and advises on management information, communications, administrative and human resources services.

Federal Business Development Bank

Chapter 44

General Information

Background

The Federal Business Development Bank (FBDB), a Crown corporation, was established by the Federal Business Development Bank Act (proclaimed in force on October 2, 1975) to succeed the Industrial Development Bank (IDB), which was formed in 1944.

While the IDB was primarily concerned with the provision of financial assistance, the Federal Business Development Bank was created to promote and assist in the establishment and development of business enterprises in Canada by providing financial assistance, management counselling, management training, information and advice, with particular consideration to the needs of small businesses. The Bank provides small business enterprises with a single source from which both financing and information suited to their unique requirements may be obtained. A network of branches across Canada provide the full range of the Bank's services to small businesses located in each branch territory.

Responsibilities

The Bank is responsible for acting as a supplemental lender, providing funds by means of loans and equity financing to small and medium-sized businesses that cannot obtain the funds elsewhere on reasonable terms and conditions. It often caters to the needs of firms that may be either too small, too far from commercial centres, or too specialized to be able to attract the attention of conventional lenders. Through its Venture Capital Division, the Bank is also responsible for providing equity capital in addition to, or in place of, loans and guarantees.

Legislation

- Federal Business Development Bank Act

Organization

The Bank has a network of branches across Canada organized into five regions: British Columbia and the Yukon, Prairies and Northern region, Ontario, Quebec, and Atlantic. The Bank's head office is located in Montreal and there are regional offices in Vancouver, Winnipeg, Toronto, Montreal, and Halifax.

The regional offices provide guidance to branches with respect to the application of established Bank policy and procedures. They also process financing applications for amounts exceeding branch limits. They are responsible for all management services activities in the region, and for ensuring that the general public within the region has access to the Bank's management training services, management counselling and financial and strategic planning services.

The branches provide financing, counselling and management training services to small businesses located within their particular territory. Enquiries and applications for financing are received by branch personnel and processed in accordance with established policy and procedure. The branches are also responsible for the efficient operation of management services activities in their geographical area, and for ensuring that the general public has access to the Bank's services.

The various services and departments of the Bank include the following:

■ Financial Services

Loans Division:

Establishes and oversees policies and procedures with respect to the provision of financial assistance to small and medium-sized businesses. In addition, the Division oversees the management of the Bank's loan portfolio for the entire life of all accounts. Most financing is provided in the form of loans for such purposes as purchasing fixed assets, replenishing working capital, refinancing, and financing a change of ownership. Guarantees may be provided to other financial institutions to enable a business to obtain an adequate line of credit.

Venture Capital Division:

Responsible for all equity and venture capital financing. Its role is to act as a catalyst in stimulating the formation of risk capital for companies with high growth potential. It ensures that all proposals satisfy Bank policy and are financially viable. This Division assesses, on a continuing basis, the adequacy and suitability of investment policy and procedures and, when necessary, recommends changes. The services of this Division include direct purchase of a minority ownership interest, underwriting of private placements, joint ventures, syndication of proposals to other venture capitalists and financial institutions, as well as assistance in mergers and acquisitions.

■ Management Services Division

The Management Services Division is responsible for promoting and assisting the establishment and development of small business in Canada by providing management counselling, management training and financial and strategic planning services.

Management Counselling Service:

Counsels business persons on how to engage in small business in Canada through the facilities of the Counselling Assistance to Small Enterprises (CASE) program. Strategic Planning is a service designed to help businesses methodically plan each stage of their development. The Financial Planning service involves the Bank undertaking an analysis of business proposals and completing a report to be used by financial institutions and government agencies to properly assess the entrepreneur's application for funding.

Management Training Service:

Presents a continuing program of small business and management seminars to the general public across Canada. In conjunction with business associations and small businesses, the Service presents management seminars oriented toward specific industries to groups of business people. It also writes, publishes and distributes a series of adult education courses on small business management (owner/manager courses) for provincial and territorial ministries of education. Finally, it organizes and supports workshops, conferences, and clinics for the promotion of good management practices with small businesses. It also writes, publishes and distributes to the public a continuing series of booklets on small business topics.

■ Head Office Departments

Corporate Secretariat:

Responsible for the Board of Directors, its Committees, and responses to Parliament.

Legal Services:

Provides legal advice to the Bank in connection with its specific program activities and support departments.

Corporate Development:

Responsible for short and long-term strategies, analysis of existing activities and corporate development. This department also provides information on economic conditions and the impact of the Bank's activities upon the economy.

Public Affairs:

Responsible for advertising and public relations to promote the role and activities of the Bank.

Finance:

Responsible for funding of corporate cash requirements, monitoring of cash flow, deposit and investment of corporate funds and interest rate forecasts.

Insurance:

Responsible for insurance related to loan security and corporate insurance.

Controller:

Responsible for all accounting in the Bank.

Internal Audit and Inspection:

Conducts periodic reviews of systems of internal control over Bank operations.

Government Relations:

Responsible for the coordination of communication between the Bank and the Minister, the government and members of Parliament, and has responsibility for international relations.

Human Resources and Administration:

Provides the Bank with corporate-wide human resources management as well as with the overall administration support services. It is also responsible for official languages.

Information Systems:

Develops and maintains business systems (manual and computerized) to support the operational functions and management information needs of the Bank.

Federal Office of Regional Development (Quebec)

Chapter 45

General Information

Background

The Federal Office of Regional Development (Quebec) (FORD(Q) was established by Order in Council on June 13, 1991. It had already been operating as a separate entity within Industry, Science and Technology Canada in the area of regional development in Quebec.

Responsibilities

FORD(Q)'s mandate is to develop federal policies on regional development in Quebec, negotiate and sign economic development agreements with the government of Quebec, and to administer several financial assistance programs through its nine regional offices. FORD(Q) plays an active role in regional economic development in Quebec and job creation.

Legislation

- Industry, Science and Technology Department Act in relation to regional economic development in the province of Quebec (P.C. 1991-1117, P.C. 1993-1671)
- Industrial and Regional Development Act in relation to matters in the province of Quebec (P.C. 1991-1118, P.C. 1993-1671)
- Atlantic Enterprise Loan Insurance Regulations in relation to projects in the province of Quebec (P.C. 1986-1107, P.C. 1991-1114, P.C. 1993-1671)
- Enterprise Development Regulations in relation to contributions and projects in the province of Quebec (C.R.C. 1969-P.C. 1991-1113, P.C. 1993-1671)
- Special Areas Act for matters in the province of Quebec (P.C. 1991-1118, P.C. 1993-1671)

Organization

The Federal Office of Regional Development (Quebec) is headed by the Deputy Minister, who is assisted by three Assistant Deputy Ministers responsible for Operations, Corporate Services, and Policy and Liaison, respectively. A regional office in the National Capital Region reports to the ADM, Policy and Liaison.

■ Policy and Liaison

The Policy and Liaison Branch is responsible for providing up-to-date information on the economic situation in Quebec as a whole and each of its regions. It examines federal and provincial policies, especially in terms of their impact on regional development in Quebec. The Branch formulates regional development policies for FORD(Q), evaluates programs and directs operational planning. It defends Quebec's regional development interests within the federal public service and ensures that Quebec's regional concerns are taken into account when national policies and programs are established. The Branch also promotes the interests of Quebec small and medium-sized business with regard to service contracts with federal departments and agencies. Policy and Liaison coordinates all FORD(Q) representations on matters affecting interprovincial and international trade (GATT, NAFTA, FTA).

■ Operations

The Operations Sector is responsible for FORD(Q) program development and delivery in the regions and the coordination and management of federal-provincial agreements. Three branches, a network of regional offices and an operations coordination directorate carry out the various activities in this sector.

- Resource Development Branch
- Technological and Industrial Development Branch
- Motor Tertiary Development Branch

In its particular sphere of activity, each of these branches attempts to ensure that the policies and measures put forward by various federal departments adequately address the needs of Quebec. They propose any necessary adjustments or correctives to such policies and measures. If required, the branches may initiate additional measures to be carried out by FORD(Q), other federal departments or jointly with the government of Quebec.

■ Regional Offices

Regional Offices located in the different regions of Quebec are the nerve centres for the delivery of FORD(Q) programs and services. They play an active role in setting departmental priorities and policies and in adapting programs to the regional context. The FORD(Q) teams working in the regions represent the Department in dealings with local bodies and hold consultations in the community on specific issues. The regional offices are, among other things, a vehicle for the federal government to publicize its policies and actions in the area of regional economic development.

■ Operations Coordination Directorate

The Directorate provides operational support and serves as a clearing house for FORD(Q) programs. It helps to formulate policies on the provision of programs and the interpretation of terms and conditions. In addition, the Operations Coordination Directorate provides quality control and ensures the integrity and consistency of program delivery.

■ Communications

One of the main roles of the Communications Branch is to advise the Minister, senior management and program managers on communication matters. The Branch develops and implements strategic communication plans and public relations and promotional programs with a view to ensuring appropriate visibility for the Department's achievements.

The Communications Branch organizes and invites the media to public events in connection with projects to which the Department contributes. In addition, it produces advertisements, represents the Department at fairs and symposiums and publishes material on the programs and services offered by the Department, coordinates regional communication activities, and provides strategic advice on promotional matters. The Branch also maintains liaison with other federal departments and agencies, other levels of government and the private sector.

■ Corporate Secretariat

The Corporate Secretariat is responsible for the administrative mechanisms set up to respond efficiently to the needs of Parliament, the Minister, the Deputy Minister and management. The Secretariat coordinates the preparation of an integrated set of briefings for the various activities in which the Minister and Deputy Minister are called to participate, as well as the preparation and forwarding of submissions to Treasury Board and Memorandum to Cabinet for the Minister's approval. It also serves as a focal point for the business community and the general public, for the distribution of its other functions including the management of the policy related to the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act, and the management of ministerial correspondence. Other functions, which are concentrated in the Hull office, include parliamentary relations.

■ Finance, Administration and Corporate Services

This branch is responsible for departmental budgetary planning and provides advice in this area. Among other things, it prepares the Multi-year Operational Plan, Part III of the Main Estimates and FORD(Q)'s Public Accounts. The Branch ensures the proper control of departmental resources and the reliability of accounting operations through the application of and compliance with financial policies and directives. It does an independent audit of contribution payments and maintains liaison with the Office of the Auditor General of Canada.

This unit develops and manages departmental technologies, management information systems and databases, and oversees day-to-day operations.

The Branch is also responsible for document management; telecommunications and technical services; procurement; awarding contracts with consultants, professionals and temporary help; departmental realty; a documentation centre; and security of persons and property. The reception area, where telephone calls are taken and visitors greeted, is run by staff from Finance, Administration and Corporate Services.

■ Human Resources Branch

This directorate offers a whole range of services to managers and employees. It provides professional services with regard to classification and staffing, manpower and job equity planning, initial and on-going training, work relations, official languages, remuneration and fringe benefits. The directorate also offers access to a career assistance and orientation program.

The Human Resources Directorate is also responsible for providing the Deputy Minister and higher Management with advice and recommendations on the implementation of major programs, policies, and initiatives which affect the personnel of the FORD(Q). These programs and policies reflect the policies and guidelines of the central agencies.

Its role is also to facilitate strategic and operational changes, to formulate recommendations in several sectors of responsibility, and to ensure that all personnel are treated equitably.

Fisheries and Oceans
Chapter 46

General Information

Background

The Department of Fisheries and Oceans (DFO) is responsible for a wide range of activities that support Canada's economic, ecological and scientific endeavours in the oceans and inland waters. Providing for the conservation, development and sustained economic utilization of our nation's fisheries resources in Canadian waters and beyond, rests with DFO. Also a part of DFO's mission is the coordination of the Government of Canada's policies and programs respecting oceans.

Responsibilities

In carrying out Fisheries and Oceans' mandate, DFO personnel are engaged in diverse and challenging tasks and activities, working from coast to coast, including the Arctic, in various capacities.

The activities of the Department are varied and multi-dimensional. Employees work from offices, field camps, ships and helicopters. Their talents range from native and community liaison officers, to enforcement officers, fish inspectors, patrol and research vessel officers and crew, scientists with a wide range of disciplines, and policy analysts and advisors.

To ensure that Canadians obtain the maximum economic and social benefit from their fisheries resources, DFO must maintain effective control of domestic and foreign fishing within Canada's 200 -nautical-mile fishing limit. Preventing over-exploitation and depletion of fish stocks requires constant surveillance from land, sea and air and readiness to enforce rules when necessary. Surveillance and enforcement are important, not only to the offshore and coastal fishery, but to the inland fishery as well, where fishery officers must watch for threats to habitat, violations of net or area regulations and survey salmon streams and spawning grounds.

Quality and safety of domestic and imported fish and seafood products are the concerns of DFO fish inspectors, who work in laboratories and in the field to ensure that stringent national standards are met. Their work covers all links in the production chain including vessels, landings, facilities for unloading, handling and transportation, processing plants and finished products.

In essence, the work of DFO employees involved in scientific programs is to develop and communicate a better understanding of Canada's marine and freshwater environments. The scope of fisheries and aquatic research ranges from studies of primary production to physical oceanography and limnology (studies in freshwater) to hydrographic surveying and charting. DFO science programs also address pressing environmental issues of consequence to Canada's aquatic resources including acid rain and the behaviour and effects of marine contaminations.

These examples are the tip of the iceberg. Departmental responsibilities span many other areas, including the administration of commercial fishing and recreational small craft harbours, fisheries development and fish marketing and initiatives in support of international fisheries negotiations. Information on these activities is summarized elsewhere in this publication.

Organization

The DFO organization is headed by a Deputy Minister, an Assistant Deputy Minister of Corporate Services, an Assistant Deputy Minister of Policy, Strategical Planning and Consultation, an Assistant Deputy Minister of Fisheries Operations (formerly the Atlantic Fisheries and the Pacific and Freshwater Fisheries), an Assistant Deputy Minister of Science, and an Assistant Deputy Minister of Regulatory and International Affairs.

■ Fisheries Operations

The Fisheries Operations Sector's responsibilities encompass all federal fisheries management and fisheries development functions in all provinces and territories in Canada, both within and adjacent to Canada's 200-mile fishing zones. This includes: marine waters and river systems and lakes in all areas, except where authority for the management of inland fisheries has been delegated to a provincial or territorial government; shared management of the Canadian portion of trans-boundary rivers; and interception fisheries in international waters. Full-cycle consultations with fishermen, processors, recreational anglers, Aboriginal representatives, as well as provincial fisheries officials, form an integral part of fisheries management and the effective delivery of service in all areas.

Delivery of Fisheries Operations programs spans six regions and is carried out through three major activities: Fisheries Management, Resource and Industry Development, and Structural Adjustment Programs. Also included in the mandate of Fisheries Operations are responsibilities related to two Crown Corporations, the Canadian Saltfish Corporation and the Freshwater Fish Marketing Corporation.

Fisheries Management includes:

Resource conservation and allocation involving the development of fishery management plans, policies, programs and regulations that protect the biomass to ensure self-generation of stocks and the fair distribution of harvestable surpluses among user groups to ensure an orderly and equitable harvest. Also included are marine mammal stock assessment and surveys, cooperative management of marine mammal resources in the Arctic, coordination of the annual seal hunt, and management of a $2.8M Assistance to the Sealing Industry Program.

Licensing as the means for regulating participation in and access to the fishery to ensure that the harvest remains within conservation limits and promotes economic viability for individual participants.

Atlantic Fisheries and Pacific Region Licence Appeal Boards (AFLAB and PRLAB) were established to hear appeals from fishermen dissatisfied with departmental licensing decisions. The Boards also consider general problems on licensing policy and make recommendations to the Minister.

Resource and Industry Development:

Programs contribute to the stability and viability of fishing and fishing related industries. Activities are aimed at more cost-efficient exploitation of the fisheries resource; productivity and quality related improvements to fish harvesting and processing practices; new product development; introduction of more selective harvesting technology and value-added processing technology; and resource development such as that achieved under the Pacific Salmonoid Enhancement Program.

Structural Adjustment Programs:

Activities include the development and implementation of jointly funded federal/provincial income replacement programs that contribute to structural adjustment in the industry by assisting older plant workers and fishers to leave the industry. This involves negotiations, liaison and coordination with provincial governments and other federal departments, and program development, design and delivery. Programs include the Plant Workers Adjustment Program (PWAP) and the Northern Cod Early Retirement Program (NCERP).

Crown Corporations:

The Minister of Fisheries and Oceans is designated as the Minister responsible for two Crown Corporations listed under Schedule III, Part I of the Financial Administration Act: the Canadian Saltfish Corporation (CSC) and the Freshwater Fish Marketing Corporation (FFMC). Advice and analysis of issues relating to the operations and mandate of these Crown Corporations is provided to the Minister on an ongoing basis. The Department coordinates on an annual basis the development and approval by Treasury Board and the Department of Finance of the Corporate Plan and Operating and Capital Budgets of these corporations.

■ Fisheries Prices Support Board

The Fisheries Prices Support Board, subject to approval of the Governor-in-Council, is authorized to purchase fishery products at prescribed prices, to sell or otherwise dispose of such products, or to make deficiency payments to fishers or fish producers on specific species. Currently there are no deficiency payment programs in place. The Board also procures fish products on behalf of the Canadian International Development Agency to meet the needs of bilateral and world food-aid programs. Currently, the FPSB is finalizing the procurement of canned mackerel for CIDA.

■ Fishing Vessel Insurance Plan

The Fishing Vessel Insurance Plan was established in 1953 by an Appropriation Act, to assist fishers to meet abnormal capital losses. The current objective of the Plan is to provide insurance coverage and benefits at reasonable rates for all eligible fishing vessels in Canada regardless of risk or location. The Plan operates from a National Headquarters located in St. John's, Newfoundland, and four regional offices (St. John's, Nfld., Halifax, N.S., Moncton, N.B., and Vancouver, B.C.)

REGULATORY AND INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS

■ Inspection Services

Mandate:

To ensure that fish and shellfish products for the domestic and export trade meet Canadian and/or foreign country standards covering grade, handling, identity, processing, quality and safety.

These services include the development, formulation and implementation of national policies, regulations and programs to ensure that Canada produces fish and fish products that measure up to national safety standards, and that imported fish and shellfish products meet minimum standards of identity, quality and safety.

These functions are fulfilled through the operation of DFO's National Fish Inspection Program. The program is conducted under the authority of the following statutes and regulations: the Fish Inspection Act and Regulations and the Sanitary Control of Shellfish Fisheries Regulations. DFO also enforces parts of the Food and Drug Regulations and the Consumer Packaging and Labelling Regulations that apply to fish and shellfish products.

■ Regulations and Enforcement

Mandate:

To ensure compliance with the legislation and policies and programs that relate to the conservation of Canada's fisheries resources and to ensure their best use by present and future generations.

These services include the development and implementation of national and regional compliance policies and programs in support of legislation and management initiatives, to encourage compliance by user groups and the public. Compliance is promoted by information and education activities and enforcement programs are delivered through air, sea and land surveillance programs. There is interaction and coordination with other federal and provincial agencies, eg. as the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, intensive training programs, the most visible interaction is demonstrated by the activities of 750 Fishery Officers. Fishery Officers enforce compliance in all of Canada's tidal waters and in the inland waters of Canada with the exception of Ontario, Quebec and the Prairie Provinces. In those areas, responsibility for ensuring compliance with federal legislation has been delegated to provincial conservation officers.

■ International Fisheries

Mandate:

To advance Canada's international fisheries interests in conservation and trade.

This DFO activity, conducted in cooperation with External Affairs and other federal government departments, includes negotiation and administration of international fisheries treaties and agreements. International Fisheries also participates in the formulation and representation of Canada's position regarding fisheries trade policy, settlement of boundary disputes and market-access questions. Staff of the directorate also participate in nine international scientific and conservation fisheries commissions.

■ Science

Mandate:

To ensure that the highest standard of scientific information is available to the Government of Canada for use in developing policies, regulations and legislation regarding the oceans and aquatic life, and to other government departments, private industry and the public for use in planning and carrying out aquatic activities.

■ Science, at DFO, involves these sub-activities:

Biological Sciences:

This sub-activity is responsible for conducting stock assessments and related research on all major fisheries resource species to provide the scientific basis for managing the fisheries resource for its sustained utilization. Research is also conducted on the dynamics of marine and freshwater ecosystems. In addition, this sub-activity is responsible for research and experimental development to provide the necessary scientific advice and services for aquaculture in Canada; for augmenting the production of wild stocks of fish, aquatic invertebrates and marine plants; and for curbing the introduction and spread of communicable fish diseases. In the area of fish habitat, this sub-activity is responsible for the development of scientific knowledge and the provision of scientific advice and services needed for managing the habitat of fish, aquatic invertebrates, marine mammals and marine plants.

■ Physical and Chemical Sciences

Activities under this heading encompass the study of the ocean's physical and chemical properties, processes and phenomena as they relate to:

- living marine resources;
- safety and efficiency of marine operations;
- climate and the effect of the oceans on climate;
- behaviour of organic and inorganic materials and their impact on fish and ecosystems; and
- monitoring and study of contaminants and their occurrence in fish and fish habitat.

DFO scientists provide data to clients in government and industry, including regulatory agencies. They also develop and transfer marine technology to the ocean industry.

■ Hydrography

The mission of the Canadian Hydrographic Service is to promote and facilitate safe use of Canada's navigable waters. Its work includes bathometric, tide and current surveys and the preparation and distribution of navigational charts, tide and current tables, sailing directions and related publications. These activities are essential to commercial mariners, fishermen, recreational boaters and the Canadian Navy.

Technological development is an important aspect of all DFO Science activities. This is particularly true of aquaculture and resource development, ocean sciences and hydrography. DFO routinely transfers proven technology it develops to the Canadian oceans industry.

■ Corporate Services

Mandate:

To provide executive direction and coordination and corporate administrative services and human resource planning in support of DFO's program objectives. This includes directing acquisitions and providing the framework for management of the department's capital resources and assets.

Corporate Management's function is to ensure that the Department is served by a well organized and coherent management process and is provided with the information needed for planning, control and decision-making. The organization also provides administrative, personnel, information and technical services, internal audit, evaluation, and financial support to all DFO sectors.

■ Finance and Planning Directorate

Provides financial and planning advice and services to the department executive, program managers and regional finance officers for the areas of financial management, planning, reporting, accounting, policy and systems; materiel management contracting and procurement; and, vehicles, equipment and real property.

Small Craft Harbours

■ Ship Branch

■ Information Management and Technical Services

Provides corporate leadership in the development and implementation of national information and administrative systems. The Directorate's major objective is to ensure that the Department is provided with well-designed, efficient and cost-effective systems to meet operational, research, administrative and management information needs.

■ Internal Audit and Program Evaluation Branch

Advises on the efficiency, economy and effectiveness of internal management policies, practices and controls, and identifies areas where improvements are needed. Responsible for undertaking specific evaluation studies and making recommendations for the discontinuation, modification or confirmation of policies and programs.

■ Capital assets management

This sub-activity involves the management of DFO's capital assets, which comprise Small Craft Harbours and all other departmental assets, such as special-purpose buildings and other facilities, vessels and a wide range of equipment. These assets are indispensable to the delivery of Fisheries and Oceans' management, inspection and science programs.

■ Policy, Strategic Planning and Consultation

Mandate:

The Sector is responsible for strategic policy, planning and cabinet affairs, economic policy and analysis, DFO reform, federal/provincial relations, recreational fisheries and aquaculture, native affairs, habitat management and sustainable development and departmental communications.

■ Strategic Policy and Planning

Includes corporate policy development and coordination, strategic planning, economic analysis in support of policy development, market analysis and intelligence, federal\provincial relations, and DFO reform and regulation initiatives.

■ Native Affairs

Includes the development of Native fisheries policy and administration of the Aboriginal Fisheries Strategy, a program for the negotiation of agreements with First Nation in British Columbia, the Atlantic provinces and Arctic Canada on Aboriginal involvement in all aspects of Fisheries and fish habitat management. This Directorate is also responsible for negotiations under the Aboriginal Fisheries Strategy of the participation of First Nations in commercial fishing and related economic opportunities.

■ Habitat Management and Sustainable Development

Includes defining the department's environment and habitat management and sustainable development strategic priorities to be consistent with overall government objectives and priorities. Also includes carrying out operational responsibilities in the areas of Habitat Management and Environmental Protection.

■ Recreational Fisheries and Aquaculture

Includes presenting economic opportunities in parts of the country where few employment alternatives exist. Also satisfying the significant demand for leisure time activity for people of all ages.

Aquaculture is working in conjunction with other federal agencies to develop a Federal Aquaculture Development Strategy. The Strategy is being developed in close consultation with industry and the provinces. The Department has the critical role of encouraging private-sector development in the aquaculture sector by creating a climate for entrepreneurship and innovation.

■ Communication

Responsible for the Department's corporate communications activities. It develops communications strategies and supports the initiatives of all sectors as well as scientific publications.

OUR REGIONS

Most of DFO's employees work in a network of regional offices, research establishments and laboratories throughout Canada. About eleven per cent work in the National Capital Region.

DFO's effectiveness in fulfilling its mission depends first and foremost on the strength of our regional operations units and the ability of these front-line units to meet specific resource and geographic needs across Canada.

Following are thumbnail sketches of each of DFO's six regions.

■ Newfoundland

The Newfoundland Region comprises the province of Newfoundland and Labrador and adjoining marine waters.

For more than four centuries, the socio-economic history of the province – as a colony, as an independent region and as a member of the Canadian Confederation – has been dominated by the fishery. Perhaps in no other part of Canada is there such a deep sense, in virtually the entire population, of the vital importance of this historic industry.

The commercial fishery is overwhelmingly a groundfish fishery with cod the dominant species.

Newfoundland also has a small but growing high-tech oceans science and technology industry.

■ Scotia-Fundy

The Scotia-Fundy Region covers a land area of 72,124 square kilometres, with 3, 452 kilometres of coastline. The Region manages fish resources for the commercial, native and recreational fisheries, and provides fisheries science, fish inspection and harbour support for the Scotia Shelf, Bay of Fundy and Georges Bank. It also maintains habitat management in inland rivers, streams and lakes within the regions boundaries in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. The Region is also responsible for hydrographic surveying and charting, and physical, chemical, and biological process studies throughout the Atlantic and Eastern Arctic zones.

The Region has a year-round, highly diversified fishery. In 1990, the Scotia-Fundy commercial fishery included 14,620 fishermen, 5829 fishing vessels, 300 active fishing harbours, and 388 federally registered fish processing plants employing 11,829 workers. The rural distribution of much of the fishery makes an important contribution to the economies of small communities.

In 1990 the Scotia-Fundy commercial fishery landed 522,400 tonnes of fish, valued at $436.5 million. Processing this catch approximately doubles this value. Provincial export income for fisheries products in 1990 was $743.2 million for Nova Scotia and $215.1 million for New Brunswick. Added to this is the growing value from the recreational fishery.

The oceans science and technology industry is strongly represented in Scotia-Fundy and relays on DFO scientific support and science programs.

■ Gulf

DFO established the Gulf Region in 1981. This was done in recognition of fact that the Gulf of St.Lawrence constitutes a single ecological and social-economic complex that requires its own management regime.

The region, geographically one of DFO's largest, comprises the Gulf coasts of New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, and Prince Edward Island.

The region's fishery is the traditional source of livehood for 1,000 or more small towns, villages and other settlements on the shores of the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

■ Quebec

The Quebec Region covers more than 6,000 kilometres of coastline. In 1990, the Region served a fisheries sector which included 5,426 fishermen, 2,457 vessels and 109 fish processing plants. The Region manages more than 380 small crafts harbours. It furnishes hydrographic services for navigation and respond to the research needs of industry in matters related to exploitation of ocean resources. A total of 74,330 tonnes of fish valued at $74.1 million were landed in 1990.

DFO's newest marine science research centre, the Maurice-Lamontagne Institute is located in the Region at Mont-Joli, and is active in the areas of fisheries, oceanographic and hydrographic research. An ultra-modern and highly sophisticated fish inspection centre, the René-Poirier Laboratory, is located near Montreal, the second largest point of entry and export of fish in Canada.

Since 1984, DFO has assumed the entire responsibility for managing the marine fishery in Quebec, except for anadromous and catadromous species which are manages by the province. This federal/provincial arrangement is new for Quebec and has brought about an unprecedented restructuring of the Quebec Region's marine fisheries.

■ Central and Arctic

DFO's Central and Arctic Region represents 64 per cent of the area of Canada, encompassing four provinces and the Northwest Territories. The region contains about 67 percent of our country's freshwater and seven of the 14 largest lakes in the world.

DFO's science activities in this region are internationally recognized. They support activity in four areas of the federal fisheries mandate:

- conservation, management and protection of the Arctic fishery resources;
- development and rehabilitation of the fishery resources throughout the region;

- protection of freshwater fish habitat; and
- support of cleanup and preservation initiatives in the Great Lakes.

Recreational fishing is particularly important in this region, which accounts for 60 percent of Canada's recreational anglers. Indeed this is a region in which recreational fishery landings exceed the commercial catch.

About 50 per cent of the commercial catch is marketed through a crown corporation the Freshwater Fish Marketing Corporation.

■ Pacific

The Pacific Region oversees west coast marine resources and the inland fisheries of the Yukon Territory. Because the region is entrusted with managing and protecting Pacific salmon, it is involved with 105 river systems in B.C. as well as two transboundary northern rivers: the Stikine and Taku.

Salmon is the best known and most valuable west coast fishery, the management of which presents Pacific Region with an immense challenge. Among the key priorities for this Region are the conservation of the salmon resource, and management of the native fishery.

The DFO region is home to a large segment of Canada's oceans science and technology industry.

Information Holdings

Arctic and Inland Fisheries
Description: Information on policy and program coordination and delivery in the Arctic and Inland Fisheries sector of the Department. Topics: Marine mammal stock assessment and surveys; inland fisheries management; fish habitat disruption; conservation of fishery and marine mammal resources in the Northwest Territories. Program Record Number: DFO PFF 033

Capital Assets
Description: Information on the design, construction, purchase and operation of the departmental fleet, and on the development, construction and operations of small craft harbours, and other capital assets. Topics: Ship acquisition; berthing and wharfage; certificates; licences and acceptance papers; navigation; repairs; refit; harbour management and property administration; commercial fishing harbours; recreational harbours. Storage Medium: Paper, micrographics, and EDP format. Program Record Number: DFO CRP 120

Economic Policy and Analysis
Description: Information on policies, programs and activities in the areas of socio-economic research and analysis. Topics: Socio-economic research and policy; statistics; bank of information relating to Survey of Atlantic Fisheries, 1984. Program Record Number: DFO EPP 045

Enforcement
Description: Description: Conservation and protection of fisheries, surveillance and enforcement records. Topics: Offshore, inshore and inland surveillance and enforcement activities. Program Record Number: DFO CRP 115

Federal-Provincial Relations
Description: Information on federal-provincial-territorial consultations and deliberations and on strategies and negotiations adopted by the Department relating to the conduct of federal-provincial-territorial affairs. Topics: Economic and regional development agreements; frameworks for federal-provincial consultation and liaison; federal-provincial-territorial economic and constitutional issues. Program Record Number: DFO PPP 055

Finance and Planning
Description: Financial and planning advise and services for all aspects of finance; materiel management contracting and procurement; and, vehicles, equipment and real property. Topics: Financial advice and services; planning services. Program Record Number: DFO CRP 125

Fish Habitat Management
Description: Information of Environmental Assessments referred to DFO and on the enforcement of regulations under the Fisheries Act and activities related to habitat management, protection enforcement, restoration and development. Topics: Habitat protection and operations, habitat planning, habitat restoration and development; resource rehabilitation and enhancement. Program Record Number: DFO PFF 025

Fish Inspection
Description: Inspection of fish products in export, import and interprovincial trade for safety, quality, inspection of industry Quality Management Program, and fairness of marketing. Topics: Product inspection and certification for export; monitoring of industry processing and grading practices; inspection of fish harvesting, handling, transportation, storage and processing facilities; introduction of quality improvement initiatives; development and testing of grade standards; development and enforcement of regulations. Access: Records are arranged numerically by subject. Storage Medium: Records in paper, micrographics and EDP format. Program Record Number: DFO CRP 070

Fisheries and Biological Sciences
Description: Acquisition of the knowledge base and provision of scientific advice relative to the management and development of fisheries and biological sciences. Topics: Resource assessment; aquaculture and resource development; habitat assessment and development; and the many scientific disciplines included in research related to the above topics. Program Record Number: DFO SCI 010

Fisheries Licence Appeal Board
Description: Information on fisheries licences. Topics: Appeals from fishermen dissatisfied with departmental licensing decisions; licensing policy; recommendations to the Minister. Program Record Number: DFO AFS 018

Fisheries Operations
Description: Management of the fisheries, including habitat resource rehabilitation. Topics: Resource management; allocation and regulations development; licensing; native affairs – food fisheries; land claims and agreements; employment; band by-laws. Program Record Number: DFO PFF 030

Hydrographic Service
Description: Bathometric data, navigational charts and other information on Canada's navigable waters and geophysical-hydrographic surveys. Navigation charts – surveys, production; tides, currents and water levels; sailing directions; ocean mapping; navigation. Storage Medium: Micrographics and EDP format. Program Record Number: DFO SCI 080

INDUSTRY SERVICES – Atlantic Fisheries Adjustment Program and Quebec Federal Fisheries Development Project
Description: General information on the programs and specific information on each project by Project Number. Topics: Terms of reference, dollar value of the project, approval form and memo, ADS on the project. Access: EDP data base and records arranged numerically by Project Number. Program Record Number: DFO CRP 137

Informatics and Administration
Description: Informatics and Administration Directorate records. Topics: Development and implementation of national information and administrative systems to meet operational, research, administrative and management information needs. Program Record Number: DFO CRP 130

Internal Audit
Description: Internal Audit Directorate records. Topics: Advice on the efficiency, economy and effectiveness of internal management policies, practices and controls; improvements required. Program Record Number: DFO CRP 135

International Relations
Description: Development and implementation of policy and provision of expertise on matters involving international fisheries and fisheries trade relations. Topics: International relations; international trade and development. Access: Files arranged numerically by subject. Storage Medium: Micrographics and EDP format. Program Record Number: DFO INT 065

Native Affairs
Description: Information on native policies, programs and issues. Topics: Native issues and programs; land claims. Program Record Number: DFO PSP 051

Physical and Chemical Sciences
Description: Studies which support the management of renewable and non-renewable marine resources. Topics: Physical oceanography; chemical oceanography; marine ecology; freshwater ecology; ocean dumping; university subventions; ocean engineering and technology transfer. Storage Medium: EDP format and data files. Program Record Number: DFO SCI 075

Program Evaluation
Description: Information relating to program evaluation policies, mandate, objectives, and guidelines. It also covers individual program evaluations conducted by the Branch. Topics: Subjects covered include departmental programs which have been reviewed. A five-year program evaluation plan is prepared and updated regularly. Some surveys of clients of federal fisheries and ocean science programs have been conducted and are included as banks of information. Storage Medium: Computer and paper files. Program Record Number: DFO CRP 050

Resource Allocation (Atlantic)
Description: Management and conservation of the fisheries for over twenty six groundfish, pelagic, shellfish and anadromous and marine mammals species and the harvesting of marine plants in coastal waters; categorization of fishers. Topics: Fisheries resource management; allocation among user groups; policy for and issuance of licenses to Canadians and foreigners; and registration of fishers and vessels. Records are arranged numerically by subject. Access: Records in paper, microfiche, and EDP format. Program Record Number: DFO RAD 015

Resource Allocation (Pacific, Arctic and Inland)
Description: Conservation, protection and enhancement of the commercial, Native and recreational fisheries resource; and marine habitat rehabilitation. Topics: Management of finfish, shellfish, marine mammals and marine plants in fresh and tidal waters; consultation and negotiation, both domestic and foreign; commercial, Native and harvesting arrangements; individual quota monitoring programs; regulations development; licensing; foreign and domestic observer programs; test fisheries. (Implementation of Aboriginal Fisheries Strategy Agreements. Salmonoid Enhancement Program. Stock enhancement, habitat rehabilitation [SEP]. MOU's and Agreements with Provincial and Territorial governments. International Commissions, advice on international agreements, Advisory Boards and Committees.) Access: Arranged Alphabetically, numerically by subject. Storage Medium: Paper and EDP. Program Record Number: DFO PFF 031

Sector Management (Seals and Marine Mammals)
Description: Information on the Atlantic coast seal hunt and marine mammal conservation issues and activities. Topics: Seal catch statistics and seal licensing policy, development projects under the Assistance to the Sealing Industry Program; bycatch of marine mammals, recreational observation of marine mammals, strandings, live capture and export of marine mammals; and laws and regulations pertaining to marine mammals. Program Record Number: DFO EPP 041

Strategic Policy and Planning
Description: Information on departmental and government-wide priorities, directions and initiatives. Topics: Departmental priorities and strategies. Program Record Number: DFO PPP 040

Structural Adjustment Programs
Description: 1) Information on the development and implementation of jointly funded federal/provincial income replacement programs for older fish plant workers and fishers. Programs include the Plant Workers Adjustment Program (PWAP) and the Northern Cod Early Retirement Program (NCERP). 2) The Minister of Fisheries and Oceans is designated as the Minister responsible for the Canadian Saltfish Corporation (CSC) and the Freshwater Fish Marketing Corporation (FFMC). Topics: Information on advice and analysis of issues relating to the operations and mandate of these Crown Corporations and the Corporate Plans, and Operating and Capital Budgets of these Corporations. PWAP, NCERP programs. CSC, FFMS Corporations. Program Record Number: DFO CRP 136

■ INDUSTRY SERVICES – Gear Technology Programs
Description: General information on programs relating to, 1) the development of new technology and the improvement of existing fishing gear technology; and, 2) the transfer of this technology to industry. Programs include, Northern Shrimps Selectivity, Deep Water Fishing Program, Review of Fishing Gear Technology Program. Topics: Specific information on each Program project by project Contract Number, geographical area, year, and funding source. Access: Records arranged numerically by Contract Number, area, year. Some financial information on EDP data base. Program Record Number: DFO CRP 138

INDUSTRY SERVICES – 1) Underutilized Species, 2) Atlantic Fisheries Development Programs, 3) Atlantic Groundfish Adjustment Vessel Support Program
Description: 1) Information on under-utilized species including reports, studies, marketing and technological development; 2) Information on Atlantic Fisheries Development Programs; 3) Information on program design and implementation. Topics: Criteria, guidelines, audits, etc. Access: 1) by species and/or category; 2) binders by year; 3) chronological holdings. Program Record Number: DFO CRP 139

INDUSTRY SERVICES – Cooperation Agreement on Recreational Fisheries Development for the Atlantic Provinces
Description: Information on administration of Cooperation Agreements such as expenditures and projects supported by the various programs. Topics: Habitat enhancement, economic and commercial development of the industry, Commercial Salmon Licence Retirement Program. Access: Regional holdings. Program Record Number: DFO CRP 140

INDUSTRY SERVICES – Marketing and Market Development
Description: Statistical information describing national and international markets, catches, landings and production as provided by national and world organizations. Various national and international trade publications. Topics: Statistical fishery publications from throughout the global fishing community (both private and public), Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations publications and online databases, studies exploring world market conditions for various species, Canadian Embassy seafood market reports (Japan), fishery trade/market publications. Access: Publications and records arranged by subject. Program Record Number: DFO CRP 141

Atlantic Commercial Fishing Licence Database
The bank contains an alphabetical listing of Atlantic commercial fishermen with complete licensing and fishing vessel profiles for each. The data are supplied to the Department by fishers on their licence application forms. The Key data elements are name, address, homeport, fishing category (full-time or part-time), fees paid, vessel name, vessel specifications, species licence entitlements, individual quotas, and DFO identification number. The data are used in developing fishing plans and some information is provided to the Canadian Coast Guard for vessel safety inspections and in cases of emergency. This bank may be used as a source of information for other banks such as Surveys (DFO PPU 075), Catch and Effort Data (DFO PPU 055), Fishing Vessel Insurance Plan (DFO PPU 015). For the purposes of enforcement and conducting investigations in accordance with Canadian fisheries legislation, data from Catch and Effort (DFO PPU 055) and DFO Violations (DFO PPU 060) are linked with this bank. Data from this bank is also shared with various provincial departments under s. 8(2)(f) of the Privacy Act, for the purposes of administering a law or conducting a legal investigation. The purpose of this bank is to contribute to the process of establishing annual fishing plans. Retention standards are to be established. Bank Number: DFO PPU 010

Catch and Effort Data
The Department collects "Catch and Effort Data" through fish sales slips and fishing logbooks from commercial fish buyers and vessel skippers. The information identifies individual vessel and commercial buyer, species sold/purchased, amount paid, area of catch and fishing effort where applicable, on a trip by trip basis. For various purposes, including enforcement and conduct of investigations in accordance with Canadian fisheries legislation, data is linked with the Commercial Fishing Licence Database (DFO PPU 010) and DFO violations (DFO PPU 060). The Department's catch and effort data system is a decentralized one operated in coastal regional offices. Freshwater Fish Marketing Corporation and Ontario Ministry of Natural Resources are responsible for catch statistics on inland fisheries in Prairie Provinces (including N.W.T.) and Ontario, respectively. Information in this bank relates to commercial fish buyers and vessel owners/skippers. The catch and effort data are used by the Department primarily for fish stock assessment purposes. These data are also needed for economic analyses and program evaluations of various segments of the fisheries and for fisheries management purposes as authorized by the Fisheries Act and other acts of Parliament under the responsibility of the Minister of Fisheries and Oceans. Some personal information maintained in the bank is shared with the Nova Scotia Department of Fisheries with the written consent for disclosure from the individual to whom the information relates. In all the above areas, data are produced in reports containing no personal information. However, personal information is maintained in the bank. Information in this bank will be held indefinitely due to the historical value of the information. Bank Number: DFO PPU 055

Consumer Complaint Database
Description: The Inspection Sector collects information on complaints received from consumers and buyers of fish products. Included in the database used to store this information is the name, address, phone number of the complainant, as well as the details of the complaint. In cases of suspected food poisoning, other data, including illness symptoms, is obtained in order to properly investigate the complaint. Bank Number: DFO PPU 095

DFO Violations
The bank contains statistical data on individuals/companies plus detailed information of offenses committed under Canadian fisheries legislation. The information in this bank relates to individuals with or without a fisherman's licence, and companies. The bank is used for enforcement action with respect to violations of Canadian fisheries legislation. For various purposes, including enforcement and conduct of investigations in accordance with Canadian fisheries legislation, data is linked with Catch and Effort (DFO PPU 055) and Commercial Fishery Licence Database (DFO PPU 010). The information is also used to compile various statistics to determine compliance and surveillance levels, to have an historical database to help identify problem areas for planning purposes and for use in court proceedings. The length of retention is to be established with Departmental Records Manager and National Archives of Canada. Bank Number: DFO PPU 060

Fish Health Officials
The bank contains personal files with information submitted in support of applications for recognition as Fish Health Officials under the Fish Health Protection Regulations. Applicants include federal and provincial government employees as well as persons in the private sector in Canada, and from other countries. The bank also contains lists with names, addresses, and specimen signatures of Fish Health Officials. Based on the information provided by individuals, and personal references obtained from third parties, decisions are made whether to accept or reject applicants requesting recognition as Fish Health Officials. Lists of recognized Fish Health Officials are prepared, with specimen signatures. Lists with individual specimen signatures of Fish Health Officials are sent to Local Fish Health Officers (LFHO's) who administer the Fish Health Protection Regulations in each province/region of Canada. LFHO's use the lists to verify signatures on Fish Health Certificates that are required before import permits can be issued for importation or transfer between provinces of cultured salmonoid fish. The bank relates to professionals with specific education and experience in fish disease diagnostics. Personal files of Fish Health Officials (FHO's) and master copies of lists of FHO's will be held in a central registry in the Fisheries Research Directorate. FHO files will be destroyed five years after cancellation as an FHO. Bank Number: DFO PPU 040

Fisheries and Oceans Science Subvention Program
The primary use of the bank is to record receipts and decisions concerning applications for grants. It contains personal and professional histories supplied by applicants, evaluations of proposals and ongoing assessments of project success, relevance and the desirability of continued support prepared by departmental liaison officers. Basic project data is supplied to Statistics Canada and the National Research Council for statistical analyses. The files are required to properly administer the granting of funds for individuals. Information is disclosed to reviewers and members of the Review Committee. Retention standards are to be established. Bank Number: DFO PPU 025

Fisheries Improvement Loan Information
The bank contains individual loan files on borrowers with defaulted outstanding loans that have been guaranteed under the program. Information relates to fishermen with loans guaranteed by the federal government. The purpose of the bank is to administer the Fisheries Improvement Loans Program and to safeguard the interest of the Crown by collecting debts still outstanding. Bank Number: DFO PPU 035

Fisheries Prices Support Board Programs
The bank contains information on the purchase, sale or disposal of fishery products; the provision of deficiency payments to fishers or fish producers on specific species; the procurement of fish products on behalf on CIDA to meet the needs of bilateral and world food-aid programs. Fish producers are invited to participate in such programs and the following information is available in our files; company name, head of company, address, processing licence number, historical levels of production, amounts paid to companies, warehousing and handling information, costs, origins, and destination of the subject products. Bank Number: DFO PPU 005

Fishing Licence Appeal Boards
Description: This bank contains information on past fishing history and on fishers appealing the Department's decisions not to issue, reissue or transfer fishing licences, not to change a fishers categorization, and not to approve the registration of a vessel. The information relates to Canadian fishers wishing to renew, transfer or obtain specific fishing licences or use a vessel. The information is obtained to process an appeal sought by fishers through the appropriate licence appeal board. Bank Number: DFO PPU 090

Fishing Vessel Assistance Program Applicants
The bank contains the name and address of applicants; a description of vessels assisted; the amounts of subsidies approved; and a description of vessels replaced. Information relates to fishermen who apply for assistance under the program. The purpose of this bank is to determine whether applicants are eligible to receive assistance. The records are retained for ten years and then destroyed. Bank Number: DFO PPU 030

Fishing Vessel Insurance Plan – Insured Vessels
The purpose of this bank is to determine whether applicants are eligible to have their vessels insured under the plan; to record details of insured vessels and all other necessary data on premiums, indemnities and claims made against the plan. This bank acquires information from the Commercial Fishing Licence Database to verify vessel and vessel ownership. The bank contains names and addresses of owners of insured vessels; descriptions of insured vessels; and details of premiums paid and indemnities paid. The records are retained for 15 years and then destroyed. Bank Number: DFO PPU 015

Harbour Managers
This bank contains information on Harbour Managers appointed by the Minister. File on each Harbour Manager contains information as to name, address, education, social insurance number, experience and references. It also contains information as to the date of appointment (and cancellation) and remuneration for services performed. Note: With the exception of 30 PY's in the Pacific Region, Harbour Managers receive remuneration based on a percentage of the revenue collected at the harbour. This information relates to Harbour Managers, appointed by the Minister, in accordance with the Fishing and Recreational Harbours Act. Active and historic information from this bank is required for administration purposes. Harbour Managers are also designated as Enforcement Officers, in accordance with the Act. They provide on-site management, collect revenue and enforce the Act and Regulations. The information is used for audit purposes and occasionally for Court action, resulting from clients disobeying directions or not paying for berthing or other services. The retention and disposal information in this bank is to be determined with departmental records management and the National Archives of Canada. Bank Number: DFO PPU 070

Manuscript Reviews
The data bank contains a list of qualified referees (specialists in a variety of disciplines), and records the receipt, review and appraisal of manuscripts selected for publication or rejection. The purpose of this bank is to record receipt, review and appraisal of manuscripts selected for publication or rejection, and to maintain a list of qualified referees. Retention standards are to be established. Bank Number: DFO PPU 020

Personal Information Disclosed to Federal Investigative Bodies
Description: In accordance with subsection 8(4) of the Privacy Act, this bank has been established to retain copies of requests received from authorized federal investigative bodies for personal information pursuant to paragraph 8(2)(e) of the Privacy Act for the purpose of enforcing a law of Canada or a province, or carrying out a lawful investigation. The bank also contains the replies to such requests, the records of information disclosed, any correspondence with the Privacy Commissioner and all records relating to the processing of the requests. Class of Individuals: Individuals about whom requests for personal information have been received pursuant to paragraph 8(2)(e) of the Privacy Act from federal investigative bodies for the purpose of enforcing a law of Canada or a province or carrying out a lawful investigation. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to permit the Privacy Commissioner to review disclosures made under paragraph 8(2)(e) of the Privacy Act. Consistent Uses: Compiling statistics relating to requests from federal investigative bodies. Retention and Disposal Standards: Two years after last administrative action. PAC Number: 85-001 TBS Registration: 001741 Bank Number: DFO PPU 085

Real Property Records
This bank contains leases, licences and agreements issued in accordance with the Fishing and Recreational Harbours Act and Regulations, for the occupancy and use of harbour property. Names, addresses, description of property, length of term, rental and other considerations are included. The information contained in this bank relates to provincial governments, municipalities, commercial entities and private individuals. The information in the bank is used for administrative purposes, to ensure controlled use of harbour property, accounting records and audit purposes. Records are retained in accordance with departmental records management and the National Archives of Canada. Bank Number: DFO PPU 065

Requests for Oceanographic Data
This bank contains data concerning requests for services and information. Information relates to government departments, universities, consultants, general public, construction firms, publishing houses and regional offices. The bank is used as a measure of services to the public, to evaluate the type of service required by users, and to trace requests when necessary. Bank Number: DFO PPU 045

Requests Made Under the Access to Information and Privacy Acts
Description: This bank contains request forms sent by individuals to the Department under the Access to Information Act and Privacy Act. The bank also contains replies made to such requests, and all records related to the processing of these requests, including, if applicable, exemptions claimed, intervention of third parties, complaints received and reports and recommendations of the Information on Privacy Commissioners. Class of Individuals: All applicants, under the Access to Information or Privacy Act, for information controlled by the Department of Fisheries and Oceans. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to store information about requests made under the Access to Information Act or Privacy Act. Consistent Uses: Compiling statistics relating to the administration of the Acts. Retention and Disposal Standards: Two years after last administrative action. (Note: This retention period has not yet been definitively established by National Archives of Canada.) PAC Number: 85-001 TBS Registration: 001740 Bank Number: DFO PPU 080

Surveys

From time to time, surveys are carried out by the Department to obtain information. These surveys are Commercial Fishing Registration and Licensing Data; Domestic Quota System; Permis-pêcheur-bateau; Commercial Fishing Licence Data; Tidal Water Sport Fishing Licence Data; Licensing; Foreign Licensing and Surveillance System Flash; Aquaculture Licence; Complaint Control System; Import Rejection; Plant Capacity Survey; Vessel Performance Studies; Angler Diary; Coûts et revenus des entreprises de Pêche; Costs and Earning Survey of Commercial Fishermen; Survey of Pacific Costs and Earnings; Atlantic Canada Sport Catch Data. Other similar surveys may occur as the need arises. Information in this bank relates to clients of departmental programs and sports fishermen. The information is compiled to provide the department with the statistical or economic information it requires to manage its programs effectively. Information may be gathered through the Catch and Effort Data (DFO PPU 055) and Commercial Fishing Licence Database (DFO PPU 010) banks. Much of this data is published in a statistical format, with all personal identifiers removed. For example, Newfoundland region publishes annually its "Costs and Earnings" Survey; and the Pacific region publishes the "Recreational Mail Surveys". The length of retention varies for each survey. Bank Number: DFO PPU 075

Department of Foreign Affairs and International Trade

Chapter 47

General Information

Background

The Department of Foreign Affairs and International Trade had its origin in an Act of Parliament in 1909 to deal with Canada's relations with other governments within the British Empire and with foreign states. In 1981, the foreign operations of the immigration service were brought into the Department. In January 1982, there was a fundamental reorganization to include the foreign trade policy and international trade component of the Industry, Trade and Commerce Department. In 1992 the Immigration component of the foreign service was transferred to Employment and Immigration Canada and certain other non-core functions, such as the World Exhibition program and international sport program, were transferred to other departments. In 1993 the Investment Development Division of Investment Canada was merged with the Department.

The Department of External Affairs Act, which came into force on December 7, 1983, sets forth the mandate of the Department and provides for three ministers, the Secretary of State for External Affairs (SSEA), a Minister for International Trade, and a Minister for External Relations. Since June 25, 1993 there has been no appointment to the latter position. The name of the Department was subsequently changed to External Affairs and International Trade Canada. In the fall of 1993 the Department assumed its present title, the Department of Foreign Affairs and International Trade (DFAIT), and the SSEA's title became Minister of Foreign Affairs. Two new Secretaries of State were appointed, for Latin America and Africa, and for Asia-Pacific.

Responsibilities

The Department of Foreign Affairs and International Trade has the primary responsibility for the promotion and protection of Canada's interests abroad and the conduct of Canada's relations with other countries. Its main functions are: to ensure the effective representation of Canada in other countries and in international organizations including close contact, communications and negotiation with other governments and organizations through Canada's extensive network of representatives abroad; to evaluate information about political, economic and other developments likely to affect Canada's interests; to give advice to the government, often in consultation with other departments, on the formulation and implementation of policies and programs with international dimensions; to ensure the coordination of the external aspects and application of national policies for export trade promotion, defence and security, development assistance, immigration, and cultural and scientific exchanges; to reflect to peoples abroad the bilingual and multi-cultural character of Canadian society; and to provide protection and assistance to Canadian citizens abroad.

Organization

Department headquarters in Ottawa supervises missions abroad, and provides service to the public and support to Ministers and the Prime Minister in the area of foreign policy and trade policy. Within Canada, the international trade centres co-managed by the Department and the Department of Industry support the Government's export promotion program.

Missions abroad:

There are at present 110 Canadian Diplomatic Missions abroad (including Embassies, High Commissions, Consulates-General and Consulates), a figure which may vary slightly from time to time. Many ambassadors and high commissioners are accredited to several countries in the same region. There are, in addition, 47 Honorary Consuls in cities with no other resident Canadian representative. Full details may be found in the publication Canadian Representatives Abroad, issued annually. 112 countries have diplomatic missions in Ottawa and another 41 have non-resident accreditation. In addition, a number of countries have consulates in principal cities throughout Canada.

International Organizations:

Canada has permanent missions to a number of international organizations. There are missions to the United Nations (UN) in New York and in Geneva, the latter also accredited to the Secretariat of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) and to the five UN specialized agencies located there. There are permanent representatives to the International Atomic Energy Agency (IAEA) in Vienna; to the UN Centre for Human Settlements (HABITAT) and to the UN Environment Program (UNEP), both in Nairobi; and to the Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO) in Rome. There is also a permanent delegation to the UN Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) in Paris. There are permanent missions to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) in Brussels; to the European Communities (EC), also in Brussels; to the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD) in Paris; and to the Organization of American States (OAS) in Washington. There is a representative to the International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO), with headquarters in Montreal.

Autonomous agencies:

Reporting to Parliament through the Minister of Foreign Affairs include the Foreign Claims Commission, the International Boundary Commission, the International Joint Commission, the Roosevelt Campobello International Park Commission, the Canadian International Development Agency, the International Development Research Centre, and the Asia-Pacific Foundation. With government-wide restructuring, the Export Development Corporation has been added to the responsibilities of the Minister of Foreign Affairs and Ministerial responsibility has been delegated to the Minister for International Trade.

Passport Office:

The Passport Office is a semi-autonomous Special Operating Agency which manages its own financial and personnel matters. Its administrative headquarters is located in Hull. The agency operates issuing offices (mail and personal service) in Hull and personal service counters at nearly 30 regional offices across Canada. It also develops, promulgates, and monitors entitlement and issuance policies and procedures for application within Canada as well as at missions abroad.

Headquarters organization:

The Department's headquarters in Ottawa is organized into the Office of the Under-Secretary and 11 branches, each under an assistant deputy minister, which supervise the work of the Department on a geographic, functional or administrative basis. Each branch is divided into bureaux under directors general; the bureaux in turn are separated into divisions, each under a director. Most branches also have divisions and work units that do not form part of bureaux.

■ Office of the Under-Secretary

The Under-Secretary, as deputy head, bears general responsibility for departmental policy and objectives. There is also a Deputy Minister for International Trade who has general responsibility for the trade and investment development functions of the department. There are special ambassadors, based in Ottawa, for Fisheries Conservation, the Environment and Sustainable Development, for Disarmament, and for Air Negotiations.

■ Office for Multilateral Trade Negotiations

The Office for Multilateral Trade Negotiations, headed by an Assistant Deputy Minister, is responsible for the conduct of the Uruguay Round of multilateral trade negotiations under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT).

■ Office of Protocol

The Chief of Protocol is the principal point of contact between the Government of Canada and foreign representatives accredited to Canada. The Office of Protocol is responsible for the accreditation and appointment of foreign diplomatic and consular representatives to Canada, and that of Canadian heads of diplomatic and consular missions to other countries. The Office manages all questions of privileges and immunities in respect to both foreign representatives in Canada and Canadian representatives abroad, as set out in the Foreign Missions and International Organizations Act, the State Immunity Act and the Vienna Conventions on Diplomatic Relations. The Office plans, organizes and manages state and official visits to Canada and participates in the logistical planning and conduct of travel abroad by the Governor General, the Prime Minister, the Minister of Foreign Affairs and the Minister for International Trade. The Office also organizes, arranges, and manages official hospitality functions for ministers and senior officials of this and other departments at Foreign Affairs Headquarters and at 7 Rideau Gate, the official Government guest house.

Policy Staff

The Staff performs a variety of policy related functions. It has a responsibility for analysis, evaluation, and formulation of policy options, and provides advice to senior management in both the political/security and the trade/economic policy areas. The Staff provides support for the department's management of relations with Parliament and the Cabinet system. It is also responsible for coordination of Canadian participation in the G-7 Summit process.

Legal and Consular Affairs Branch

In addition to the Bureaux listed below, the Legal and Consular Affairs Branch includes a unit of the Department of Justice which provides general legal services to the Department and is the central authority for the administration of the Hague Convention on the Civil Aspects of International Child Abduction.

■ Legal Affairs Bureau

The Bureau is divided into four divisions:

Legal Operations Division:

Handles legal issues related to the UN and other multilateral institutions, peace and security, human rights and humanitarian law, maritime boundaries, the environment, fisheries and the law of the sea.

Economic Law Division:

Provides advice on subjects such as investment, transport and communication, energy, intellectual property, extraterritoriality, science and technology, and services. It is also concerned with the protection of Canadian citizens' property interests abroad and with claims arising from the nationalization of property by foreign governments.

Legal Advisory Division:

Provides services related to private international law, such as the authentication of Canadian certificates and documents, and advice on sovereign immunity, recognition of states, protection of Canadian citizens, and diplomatic and consular privileges and immunities. The Treaty Section of this division provides advice on the drafting of treaties and treaty-making procedures and it maintains a registry of all Canadian treaties and international arrangements. The Bureau houses an extensive international law library.

Office of the Senior Advisor on Federal-Provincial Relations:

Works closely with the provinces and territories, providing an information service which keeps them abreast of international developments affecting their interests and ensuring that those interests are taken into account in decisions reached by the Department. The Office assists provinces wishing to open or close international offices and coordinates the co-location of provincial trade and/or immigration offices in Canadian missions abroad. In addition, it acts, when necessary or appropriate, as point of contact for provincial requests for departmental services.

Trade Law Division:

The Trade Law Division, a combined unit of the Department of External Affairs and the Department of Justice, has responsibility for domestic and international aspects of trade law. Specifically, the division is responsible for legal interpretation of existing bilateral and multilateral trade agreements, legal advice on the negotiation and conclusion of new trade agreements, coordination of drafting legislation and regulations to implement trade treaty obligations into domestic law, legal aspects of Free Trade Agreement (FTA) Chapter 18 panels and their equivalent in NAFTA, dispute settlement panels under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT), and panels under Chapter 19 of the FTA (antidumping and countervailing duty cases) and their NAFTA equivalent.

■ Consular Affairs Bureau

The Consular Affairs Bureau has the sole responsibility for the assistance and protection of Canadian citizens abroad, the provision of training to Consular staff, the operation of an information program aimed at travelling Canadians and all other related Consular services including passport services provided under the umbrella of the Consular Policy Division and the Consular Operations Division. Both Divisions are under the direction of the Director General, Consular Affairs Bureau and coordination is effected by the Strategic Planning Section. The Consular Affairs Bureau sets overall policy and ensures the application of the Vienna Convention on Consular Relations and related multilateral and bilateral agreements to its consular activities.

■ Office of the Coordinator, Access to Information and Privacy Protection

This unit, headed by a Coordinator, is responsible for the Department's compliance with the Access to Information and Privacy Acts.

■ Office of the Coordinator for Environmental Assessment and Stewardship

This unit is responsible for ensuring that the Department is in compliance with the requirements of the Canadian Environmental Assessment Act, the Canadian Environmental Protection Act, and the government Guidelines on policies, programs, and stewardship.

Geographic Branches

For the conduct of external relations, the world has been divided into five geographic branches, each under an assistant deputy minister. These are: Africa and the Middle East; Asia and the Pacific; Europe; Latin America and the Caribbean; and the United States. Each branch is divided into sub-regional bureaux, with further separation into divisions. The responsibilities and activities of the geographic bureaux have much in common and are best described together.

Each bureau is responsible for the management and coordination of the full range of relations with its region. Included are the operations of the Canadian posts abroad in its area, their guidance and instruction, and the provision and allocation of resources to them. Under the Department of External Affairs Act, a head of mission is defined as responsible for the management and direction of the mission and the supervision of the official activities of the various Canadian departments and agencies in the country in question.

The work of the geographic bureau is distributed into two types of divisions: relations and trade development. The relations divisions handle bilateral political and economic relations; country, sub-regional and regional analysis and policy; and, where appropriate for developing countries, aid relations. Trade development divisions, which are the main point of contact for the Canadian business community, handle export promotion and country-specific market access and trade policy issues. Most of them undertake tourist promotion in conjunction with Tourism Canada, fairs and trade missions, and some are concerned with investment development and science and technology. Some branches also have divisions or units dealing with regional or specialized issues. Within the Europe branch there is a Bureau dealing with bilateral technical assistance, and humanitarian and multilateral assistance, to Central and Eastern Europe and the former Soviet Union.

International Business Development Branch

■ Trade Commissioner Service Strategic Planning Division

The division engages in medium to long term strategic planning for international business development. It works with other divisions to evaluate existing programs, to generate new programs and services and to develop alternate methods to deliver TCS services. It provides analysis and advice on the allocation of international business development resources within the department and across government to develop more focus and complementarity.

■ Trade Planning and Operations Bureau

The Bureau, through its two divisions and two secretariats, builds partnerships to bring international business opportunities to Canada and to help Canadians compete in world markets. It establishes and manages the dialogue within the federal government to coordinate and rationalize resources dedicated to international business development. It represents sectoral interests in international business development program issues. It manages the consultative process which develops the strategic direction of the International Trade Business Plan (ITBP), including the coordination of the sector strategies. The ITBP is the strategic partnership between the private sector and all federal government departments active in support of Canada's international business development objectives abroad. The bureau liaises with and provides functional direction to the TCS both at home and abroad. It develops guidelines on the TCS roles, responsibilities, standards and levels of service. It manages the Canada Export Awards Program, and export awareness and preparedness programs as well as the Centre for International Business Studies Program. It manages, coordinates and is the secretariat for the International Trade Advisory Committees (ITAC) and the Sectoral Advisory Groups on International Trade (SAGIT), including interdepartmental liaison. It prepares and disseminates globally aggregated market information reports and capability guides and publishes Global Market Opportunity Reviews.

■ International Business Programs Bureau

The bureau is responsible for development and implementation of policies on market intelligence. Through its four divisions, it advises on the creation and management of international business programs and services, international technology services and fairs and missions. The bureau creates and maintains productivity and performance tools for efficient delivery and measurement of these programs and services. It is responsible for all aspects of the Program for Market Development (PEMD), World Market Trade Fund (WMTF), the Investment Development Program (IDP) and the Technology Inflow Program and the Going Global Investment Program (GGIP). It manages the gathering and dissemination of information and intelligence on R&D collaboration and foreign technology acquisition. It also coordinates and manages the Investment Counsellor/Science and Technology officer networks abroad. It works with the Export Development Corporation (EDC) and the Canadian banking community to enhance export financing and provides input on EDC's corporate plan and priorities. It formulates policies on international arrangements for officially supported export credits (OECD consensus) and advises the Minister for International Trade on the management of the Canada Account. It assists Canada's business community to improve Canada's share of procurement at International Financial Institutions and advises on related policy issues. It develops and manages the department's trade informatics applications including the World Information Network (WIN) Exports, the Trade Planning and Tracking Systems and tools to manage the Fairs and Missions Program. It develops the department's Market Intelligence and Information policy as well as supports its computerised systems. It develops and manages an international business program for Canada's tradeable services. It formulates policies for and participates in bilateral air services negotiations and maritime and surface access negotiations. It manages a matchmaker/trading house program, sovereignty access program (air, maritime) and economic sanctions (transportation services only).

■ Investment Bureau

The Bureau is the focal point for the Federal Government's efforts to attract international business investment to Canada and to assist Canadian companies in expanding through international investments and investment partnerships. Through its three divisions, it monitors and analyzes investment trends and perceptions of Canada as an investment site. It assists Canadian companies in finding international investment partners and in accessing international sources of capital. It supports the efforts of CEOs of Canadian subsidiaries of multi-nationals seeking to attract manufacturing and R&D mandates to Canada. It supports the posts' corporate liaison program and responds to enquiries regarding opportunities in Canada. It prepares company-specific briefs which make the case for investing in Canada and, with provincial and municipal governments, assists potential investors in defining their requirements, in visiting potential sites and meeting with potential partners. It introduces sources of international venture capital to Canadian opportunities and works with the CEOs of Canadian subsidiaries to attract manufacturing and R&D mandates to Canada. It assists Canadian companies in finding investment partners. Such opportunities are brought to the attention of international investors through a full suite of communication approaches including multi-media technology. It monitors and analyzes investment trends, competitor programs, and perceptions of Canada. It creates and disseminates a variety of promotional materials. It provides investment briefings to media specialists and publicizes Canadian investment success stories.

Economic and Trade Policy Branch

■ Trade Policy Bureau

This bureau consists of the Agriculture and Resource Trade Division, the Tariffs and Market Access Division, the Multilateral Trade Institutions Division, the Trade Remedies Division and the Technical Barriers and Regulations Division. The Bureau is responsible for the development and implementation of trade policy, including the coordination and management of Canada's participation in the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade and the North American Free Trade Agreement, and inter alia providing government support to Canadian exporters with respect to foreign antidumping, countervail and safeguard actions affecting Canadian trade interests.

■ Export and Import Controls Bureau

This Bureau is responsible for policy development, and implementation and administration of import and export control measures under the authority of the Export and Import Permits Act and Regulations. The Bureau consists of the Import Controls I Division (textiles and clothing), the Import Controls II Division (agricultural goods, steel and other commodities) the Export Controls Division (military, nuclear and strategic goods), and the Administration and Data Processing Division.

■ Economic Policy Bureau

The Bureau is responsible for the development and coordination of policy on international economic, environment and energy issues. It consists of the International Economic Relations Division, the Environment Division, the Services, Investment and Intellectual Property Division, the Energy and Nuclear Affairs Division, and the Economic Relations with Developing Countries Division.

Political and International Security Affairs Branch

■ International Organizations Bureau

This Bureau coordinates Canada's participation in the United Nations and most of the specialized agencies and institutions that form part of the UN system. It is also responsible for coordinating Canada's multilateral relations with Commonwealth countries and Canada's role and activities in la Francophonie. It ensures effective monitoring of human rights, women's equality and social development issues world-wide and the integration of these considerations into all relevant aspects of bilateral and multilateral relations.

■ International Security, Arms Control and CSCE Affairs Bureau

This Bureau is responsible for the coordination and preparation of policy proposals on cooperative security and defence aspects of Canada's foreign policy, including peacekeeping, NATO, NACC, the CSCE and other regional and global organizations. It coordinates bilateral defence relations with the USA through NORAD, as well as other bilateral defence relations with the countries of Central and Eastern Europe, the former Soviet Union, Latin America and Asia. It is also responsible for the preparation of policy on arms control and non-proliferation issues and the development of verification methodologies and confidence-building measures.

■ Cultural Affairs and Higher Education

This Bureau promotes Canada abroad and helps achieve foreign policy and trade objectives, by assisting Canadian scholars and artists in pursuing international interests and by facilitating the export of cultural products and education services. It is responsible for the Canadian Commonwealth Scholarship and Fellowship Programme, the Government of Canada Awards Programme and educational exchange programmes with the USA and China. It coordinates international tours by Canadian performing artists, writers and film directors, as well as the Cultural services provided by Canadian missions abroad.

■ Security and Intelligence Bureau

This Bureau is responsible for providing timely and critical intelligence on world events. The Operations and Intelligence Centre provides information to the public and the Department on a 24 hour basis. The Bureau also conducts a programme of interviews to obtain first-hand knowledge from Canadian residents about foreign countries. The Security Division is responsible for providing protection for Canadian personnel and their families and government premises and information.

Communications Bureau

The Communications Bureau consists of the Media Relations Office, the Foreign Policy Communications Division, the Trade Communications Division, and the Corporate Communications Division. The Bureau is responsible for increasing awareness and understanding of Canada's foreign policy and trade agenda, and of the department's role in shaping and carrying out that agenda; ensuring quality communications advice to ministers and officials on issues, events and initiatives; ensuring Canadian and foreign media, as well as other groups and individuals, receive timely and accurate information; providing the department with environmental research data to assist in understanding public opinion; liaising with the Privy Council Office communications secretariat; promoting public understanding of the historical background of Canadian foreign relations; and managing an internal communications program.

Corporate Management Branch

This Branch provides central administrative support services for the Ministry's 141 offices abroad and its headquarters establishment. It must balance the decreasing budgets of the Ministry against the increasing costs of operating a global foreign policy.

■ Finance and Administrative Services Bureau

The Bureau provides financial systems to support operations in all missions abroad and at headquarters. These systems must provide detailed and timely financial reports while accommodating multiple currencies, fluctuating exchange rates, exchange controls, devaluations and variations in inflation rates.

■ Information Systems Bureau

The Bureau provides secure and unclassified communication services for voice, electronic mail, fax, data and telex for all Government of Canada communications abroad. Its new SIGNET system provides secure global communications to all departmental employees at missions, headquarters and wherever they travel abroad. The implementation of this system continues and by 1995 will provide interconnection to some 8,000 Canadian and locally-engaged staff through personal computers.

■ Information Resources Bureau

The Bureau is responsible for the Ministry's data banks and electronic and conventional registries. It supports the production, retrieval and delivery of timely information to staff and outside clientele. It is also responsible for mail management, diplomatic courier and messenger services for the Ministry and all the departments with officers abroad.

■ Physical Resources Bureau

The Bureau is a Special Operating Agency which is responsible for the Department's Long Range Capital Program directed at increasing Crown ownership of properties abroad, and for the provision of chanceries and official residences through lease, purchase or design and construction. In addition, the bureau is responsible for interior design services for accommodation abroad; the acquisition of all materiel assets; and supervision of maintenance of overseas government properties. It performs a number of administrative functions relating to staff quarters at missions, and administers the Department's collection of Canadian works of art.

■ Office of the Inspector General and Internal Audit and Evaluation

This division ensures the full accountability of ministerial employees and efficient operation of management systems and policies.

Personnel Branch

The Branch, which is concerned with the whole range of the Department's human resources, handles recruitment, training and development, staffing and service abroad, appraisal, promotion and remuneration of officers and administrative staff, as well as, to some extent, locally engaged employees abroad. Some headquarters personnel are classified as non-rotational but many of the Branch's functions relate specifically to the operations of the Foreign Service, such as assignment to missions and conditions and compensation of service outside Canada. One division is responsible for all aspects of the Department's official languages program. The Branch is also responsible for personnel policy and planning.

The Canadian Foreign Service Institute

The Institute plans and delivers training and development programs to departmental employees. The programs are designed to facilitate career development and improve the effectiveness of employees in the delivery of the department's programs in Canada and internationally. They include training in official and foreign languages and a broad range of work-related skills. Organizational Development services are also provided to assist the Department in managing change. A research function also exists.

Classes of Personal Information

In the course of conducting the programs and activities of the Department of Foreign Affairs and International Trade, categories of personal information may be accumulated which are not contained in the specific information banks described in this entry. This information exists in a fragmented form throughout the subject files of the Department, which are described in the program records. This information is stored as part of the general subject files, where records are not normally retrieved by name of individual or other personal identifier. This form of information is retrievable only if specifics are provided concerning the subject matter, related departmental activity, the date on which the information was received by the Department and to whom it was addressed. The personal information contained in these subject files is retained for the same period of time as the related subject information and is disposed of according to the appropriate subject record schedules. The classes of personal information listed below describe particular program records which, because of their nature, are more likely to contain personal information.

Legal Affairs Bureau
The Legal Affairs Bureau handles a number of important functions including multi-lateral legal issues, peace and security law, humanitarian law, economic law, trade agreements, treaties, international law and individual legal and legal-protocol cases. Personal information held by the bureau may include enquiries from Canadian residents seeking advice about international and foreign legal systems, and claims by Canadian citizens for possible support by the Canadian government. Other personal information would relate to specific issues handled by the bureau. Persons seeking access must specify the subject of the enquiry, as well as country and/or city, legal firm, contacts, incidents, dates and circumstances which may have led to the development of a record.

Office of Protocol
The Office of Protocol is responsible for the administration of protocol-related programs of the Department and for the development of policies and procedures which direct the administration of protocol programs. Personal information in this class would pertain to individuals who have participated in, or have been the subject of protocol-related activities within programs such as accreditation and ceremonies, privileges and immunities, government hospitality, protection of foreign representatives and foreign decorations, and awards and honours to Canadians. Persons seeking access should specify the subject of the enquiry, country and/or city, contacts, incident, visits, conference, delegation, dates and circumstances which may have led to the establishment of a record.

International Security, Arms Control and CSCE Affairs Bureau
Personal information may be held by the bureau concerning individuals who have been involved in defence activities with NATO, NORAD, or other international defence or arms control organizations, or in conferences or visits. Personal information might include personal biographies, tours of defence colleges, military travel and training, and nominations of Canadians for positions in international defence organizations concerned with defence or arms control. Persons seeking access should specify the subject of the enquiry, country and/or city, contacts, incident,conference/organization, visits, dates and circumstances which may have led to the establishment of a record.

Freshwater Fish Marketing Corporation
Chapter 48

General Information

Background

The Freshwater Fish Marketing Corporation (FFMC) was established in 1969 under the authority of the Freshwater Fish Marketing Act. The Act gives the FFMC the exclusive right to interprovincial and export trade in designated products of the freshwater fisheries supplied from the three Prairie Provinces, the Northwest Territories, and part of northern Ontario. The FFMC is a federal crown corporation listed under Schedule III, Part I of the Financial Administration Act.

Responsibilities

The objectives of the Corporation are: to market fish in an orderly manner; to increase returns to fishermen; and to promote markets and export trade in fish.

The Act requires the FFMC to purchase all legally caught fish offered for sale by licensed fishermen, subject to price and terms and conditions of purchase (including quality provisions). It must conduct its operations on a self-sustaining financial basis without appropriations by Parliament.

Legislation

- Freshwater Fish Marketing Act (1969)

Organization

The FFMC is managed by an eleven member board of directors composed of a Chairman, a President, one director for each participating province/Territories and four other directors. The Chairman and the President are appointed by the Governor-in-Council. The remaining directors are appointed by the Minister of Fisheries and Oceans with the approval of the Governor-in-Council. Directors from a participating province are appointed on the recommendation of the Lieutenant Governor in Council of the participating province. The board of directors is supported and advised by an Advisory Committee composed of fifteen members appointed by the Governor-in-Council.

Great Lakes Pilotage Authority Canada
Chapter 49

General Information

Background

As a result of recommendations made by a Royal Commission on Pilotage in Canada, the Pilotage Act was assented to by Her Majesty and the Governor-in-Council and proclaimed in force February 1, 1972.

The Pilotage Act created four pilotage regions with specific authorities, thereby replacing a large number of local pilotage districts. The four Pilotage Authorities – Atlantic, Laurentian, Great Lakes and Pacific – are Crown corporations, responsible to Parliament through the Minister of Transport.

The Great Lakes Pilotage Authority, Limited was established and incorporated in 1972 as a subsidiary of The St. Lawrence Seaway Authority. For the purpose of the Financial Administration Act, the Authority is a Crown corporation specified in Schedule III, Part I of that Act.

Responsibilities

The role and objectives of the Authority are to establish, operate, maintain and administer, in the interest of safety, an efficient and economical pilotage service within its geographical boundaries; all waters in the Province of Quebec south of the northern entrance to St. Lambert Lock and all Canadian waters in and around the provinces of Ontario and Manitoba. (Pilotage in the international waters within the boundaries is shared with United States of America Pilot Corporations, which are under the direction of the United States Coast Guard, as agreed under a memorandum of arrangements between Canada and the United States.) Further, the Authority prescribes tariffs of pilotage charges that are to be fair, reasonable and consistent with providing revenues sufficient to permit the Authority to operate on a self-sustaining financial basis.

Legislation

- Authority By-Laws
- Canada Shipping Act, RSC, 1985, c. S-9
- General Pilotage Regulations
- Great Lakes Pilotage Regulations
- Memorandum of Arrangements between the Minister of Transport, Canada and the Secretary of Transportation, U.S.A.
- Pilotage Act, RSC, 1985, c. P-14

Organization

The Great Lakes Pilotage Authority, Limited consists of a chairman and six members appointed by the Governor in Council. The Authority's head office is located in Cornwall, Ontario. The Eastern District operations office is located at headquarters and the Western District operations office in St. Catharines, Ontario. All management, administrative, personnel, financial contracts and purchasing services are provided by the Cornwall office. The Authority is a Crown corporation, responsible to Parliament through the Minister of Transport.

■ Administration Branch

This Branch provides administrative and financial services as required to operate within accepted corporate business procedures.

Hazardous Materials Information Review Commission

Chapter 50

General Information

Background

The Hazardous Materials Information Review Commission was established by the Hazardous Materials Information Review Act, assented to on June 30, 1987 and proclaimed on October 1, 1987. The Commission is part of the Workplace Hazardous Materials Information System (WHMIS) which requires that information about the hazards of materials produced or sold in Canada or used in Canadian workplaces be provided by suppliers to employers and, in turn, by employers to employees.

Responsibilities

The mission of the Commission is to ensure the balance between industry's right to protect confidential business information and workers' right to know about the hazardous materials they are exposed to and their corresponding preventive health and safety measures.

To achieve its mission, the Commission carries out the following mandate under the authority of the Hazardous Materials Information Review Act: it makes decisions concerning the validity of claims for exemption on the basis that the information is confidential business information; it makes decisions on the compliance of labels and material safety data sheets of products related to a claim; and it convenes independent boards to hear appeals on the Commission's decisions and orders.

Legislation

- Hazardous Materials Information Review Act, S.C. 1987, c. 30 (Part III)
- Hazardous Materials Information Review Act Appeal Board Procedures Regulations (SOR/91-86, January 7, 1991)
- Hazardous Materials Information Review Regulations (SOR/88-456, August 25, 1988; amendment: SOR/88-510, September 29, 1988; SOR/89-288, June 1, 1989; SOR/91-419, June 20, 1991; SOR/93-234, May 11, 1993)

Organization

The Commission is headed by a President, appointed by the Governor-in -Council, and is governed by a Council of Governors consisting of members nominated by representatives of the provinces, the federal government and suppliers, employers and workers. The Council is responsible for recommending, to the Minister of Health, regulatory changes to the Commission's fee structure and procedures for the screening of claims and procedures to be followed by appeal boards. The Commission is organized around two principal activities: reviewing and making decisions on claims for exemption and administering an independent appeals process. These activities are carried out through three organizational units: The Operations Branch, which includes claims registration, application assessment, management services and communications; the Compliance Branch, which is responsible for reviewing the claims for exemption and making decisions on their validity, as well as deciding whether labels and material safety data sheets comply with WHMIS requirements; and the Appeals Branch, which is responsible for convening independent, tripartite appeal boards to hear appeals on decisions or orders of screening officers filed by claimants and affected parties, in addition to providing administrative support to appeal boards.

Organization

National Advisory Council on Aging

The 18 member National Advisory Council on Aging is a citizens' advisory body charged with counselling the Minister of Health on matters relating to the quality of life of Canada's aging population. In addition to advising on programs and policies, the Council reviews the needs and problems of older people and recommends remedial action, consults with institutions and groups involved in aging or representing the aged, publishes reports, helps in information dissemination, and stimulates public discussion on aging.

National AIDS Secretariat

Works to co-ordinate and monitor activities/initiatives under the National AIDS Strategy; support to Minister's Advisory Committees on AIDS; liaison with International AIDS Organizations; as well as providing policy advice to senior management and Ministerial Staff.

Corporate Services Branch

■ Departmental Planning and Financial Administration Directorate

The focus of this Directorate is the management of financial resources. Its role is to implement, interpret and administer the regulations, policies and processes associated with resource planning and utilization and financial administration across the Department. Directorate activities include the provision of direct services such as financial planning, accounting, functional and advisory assistance to managers, and financial systems support and training to all branches.

■ Assets Management Directorate

This Directorate focuses on all activities associated with physical assets management. The Directorate is responsible for the development and maintenance of policies, systems, procedures and services governing the management of material, real property and accommodation in support of departmental programs. The Directorate is also responsible for advising and assisting the Senior Assistant Deputy Minister, CSB and other departmental managers on all matters affecting general material and real property administration, and Occupational Health and Safety and Security functions.

■ Information Management Directorate

The focus of this Directorate is information management. The Directorate provides electronic data processing (EDP) services and functional guidance in the form of informatics planning and development. It provides coordination and advisory services on informatics issues to most Branches, and is also responsible for the development of guidelines and standards on electronic data processing, telecommunications and office automation, and for the development and operation of automated systems. The Directorate also has the responsibility for document management and departmental library services.

■ Human Resources Directorate

The focus of this Directorate is on all activities associated with management of people. The Directorate provides advice and a range of services to assist departmental managers with their personnel management responsibilities. The Human Resources Directorate also administers the delegation of classification, staffing and other personnel authorities to management.

■ Internal Audit Directorate

The role of Internal Audit is to ensure that the Department has an independent review of its operations, activities, systems and functions which support the delivery of departmental programs to make sure that they are conducted in an economic, efficient and effective manner. Internal Audit coverage, objectives and scope, as well as follow-up on findings, and the monitoring of the implementation of approved appropriate action is overseen by a Departmental Audit and Evaluation Committee.

Policy and Consultation Branch

The Branch provides advice and support to the departmental executive and to program branches in the areas of policy development, information and strategic planning via research on health, well being, income and economic policy issues. Policy proposals are developed and analyzed, and recommendations are made to the Deputy Minister and the Minister.

■ Health Policy and Information Directorate

Health Policy Division:

Initiates and coordinates research and analyses of health, income policy issues in support of the policy development responsibilities of the Department.

Health Information Division:

Plans, develops, and operates health national information systems that support the planning, management and evaluation of health policies and programs. Its analytical and data products go to a wide range of government and non-government clients at the provincial, national and international levels.

■ Strategic Planning Division

Responsible for the development and coordination of a corporate strategic planning process and for providing functional advice and support for the development of strategic planning process at the branch level.

■ Information Access and Coordination Division

Coordinates corporate activities related to the collection and dissemination of information, including the administration of the Access to Information Act and Privacy Act.

■ Women's Health Bureau

Coordinates, monitors and advises on departmental policies and programs as they relate to women and their families, especially women's health.

■ Program Evaluation Division

Reviews and assesses departmental programs for the purpose of providing objective information and advice about the effectiveness of departmental activities and services.

■ International Affairs Directorate

The Directorate has responsibility for the coordination, monitoring and, where required, initiation of departmental policies and strategies on international issues in the health field.

■ Policy Coordination Secretariat

Monitors and provides strategic advice on matters related to consultations generally, and on federal-provincial relations in particular, and provides logistical support for meetings of federal-provincial Health Ministers and Deputy Ministers.

■ Canada's Drug Strategy Secretariat

The Secretariat is responsible for coordinating the implementation of the Strategy; facilitating information sharing and networking among partners, including six federal departments and leading a formal evaluation process directed at both the strategic and program levels.

■ Communications Directorate

The Directorate is responsible for public awareness of the Department's objectives and programs and for development of departmental communications objectives and plans. It also provides communications advice, coordinates departmental communications activities, conferences, ministerial speeches and media relations and provides audio-visual services in support of the Department's communications responsibilities.
